NO CANDIDATE, GAYNOR WRITES

But Made No Pledge That Would Prevent Acceptance of Gubernatorial Nomination.

COULD NOT CONTROL VOTERS

Says They Might Elect Him to Another Office Even if Pledge Had Been Made.

ANTI-GAYNORITES DISGUSTED

Think Letter Means He Will Accept Nomination if Offered, and Expect He Will Be Named.

MAYOR GAYNOR NOT A CANDIDATE FOR THE NOMINATION.

St. James, Sept. 26, 1910.

Dear Sir: I have further considered the matter as you requested when you called on me here with Mr. Mack last Wednesday, but can only reiterate to you that I am not a candidate for nomination for Governor. This must have been well known all along, for I have written it to many people during the last six months. I am not influenced in my course by assertions made here and there that I made an agreement or compact during the Mayoralty campaign to serve out the four years if elected. These false assertions are made by persons who opposed me and voted against me, and would do so again.

I made no such agreement. I certainly did not make it with those who opposed me and voted against me. I could have had no compact with them. It takes two sides to make a compact. Nor did I make it with those who nominated and supported me. They did not ask for it. I did say of my own motion and at the request of no one that I purposed to devote the next four years to the service of the city. But this only started a hue and cry against me that I should make a pledge or compact to that effect, which I refused to do. And if I had made a pledge, that could not prevent the voters from electing me to some other office.

I am well aware, as has been pointed out to me, that there are some large things which a Governor could readily do for the City of New York, by oversight and legitimate interference, which the Mayor of that city cannot do without much time and difficulty, if at all. Among them I may mention the planning and construction of a comprehensive system of subways, with a single fare over the whole system, which, in the discordancy or duality of government, or both, now existing in that city, is a difficult and protracted matter. But nevertheless my wish to remain as Mayor is such that I do not become a candidate for nomination for Governor. May I add that as a matter of fact the office of Mayor of the City of New York, considering the power and the constant occasion for the exercise of the highest functions of free government lodged in it, is second to no office in this country save one.

Many tell me and write me that in taking this course I give up my future. But I shall not take myself or my future into consideration. None of us has a future, but only the present. And if I thought I had a future, I should be content to intrust it to the people of the City of New York.

I trust that the convention will nominate some one who is not a mere dealer in political commonplaces and jingles of the last twenty-five or thirty years, but who has kept pace and grown with the times, and whose absorbing purpose will be to make the Government of the State, in all its branches, general and local, intelligent, honest, and decent, and to lift it up and make it an object lesson to the whole Nation. If to do this he has to be more or less meddlesome, we will all forgive such meddlesomeness, if kept fairly within the law. Sincerely yours,

W. J. GAYNOR.

John A. Dix, Esq., Chairman, &c.

The foregoing letter from Mayor Gaynor to John A. Dix, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, was made public last night by Robert Adamson, the Mayor's secretary. Mr. Adamson was asked whether or not the letter meant that Mayor Gaynor would not accept the nomination for Governor.

"I can't add anything to the letter itself," he said. "I haven't read it thoroughly and can't give any judgment as to what it means. I haven't talked with the Mayor about the contents of the letter."

Mr. Adamson said Mayor Gaynor would not return to the City Hall to-day, as had been expected. He said the Mayor had requested that a stenographer from the City Hall be sent to take dictation from him at St. James to-day.

Mayor Gaynor's letter was read last night over the telephone to Congressman Sulzer, and he was asked if he would express his opinion of it. He said:

"Mayor Gaynor should be more direct. In justice to himself and the Democratic Party he ought to say unequivocally whether he is or is not a candidate and whether or not he will accept the nomination if it is offered to him.

"I am a candidate for the nomination. I am in the fight to stay and to win.

SEEK 'BEER KING'S' MILLIONS.

Lonsdale, Formerly Glitzenstein, Said to Have Died Here Worth $36,000,000.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 27.—A telegram from Vienna to The Times says that, according to the Prager Tagblatt, the wife of a Jewish peddler named Neumann at Prague has been recognized as one of the heirs of a fortune amounting to $36,000,000 left by the American "Beer King," Alfred Lonsdale, who died eighteen months ago from apoplexy at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, in New York.

Lonsdale, whose real name was Isaac Glitzenstein, was, it is added, born at Kalisch, Russian Poland, deserted when a young man from the Russian Army, made his way to London, and opened a beerhouse, speculated successfully in brewery shares, transferred his operations to New York, and died the possessor of the sum mentioned.

A brother, two nephews, and a sister in Prague were traced through advertisements in Jewish journals, and are now, with the help of a syndicate formed in Berlin, Warsaw, and Vienna, engaged in making good their claim to the inheritance.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The Bohemian hears of the late New York multi-millionaire Alfred Lonsdale have leagued themselves together in a very business-like manner in order to obtain his estate, which they estimate at $36,000,000.

Lonsdale was the Americanized name of the multi-millionaire, who is said to have died eighteen months ago, at the age of 82, and to have been known as the "Beer King."

No direct heirs were at hand in the United States, runs the story reaching here to-day from Prague, but a brother named Joseph Glitzenstein of Kalisch, as well as a sister and a nephew, turned up. They claim to have established their identity and a syndicate has been formed under the direction of a Berlin merchant named Willy Neulälander to obtain possession of the "Beer King's" vast estate.

The syndicate has sinews of war to the extent of $25,000 and will presently begin operations in America.

It was said at the Waldorf-Astoria last night that a man named A. Lonsdale died there about two years ago.

It was added that he was believed to be wealthy, but that the extent of his wealth was not known.

LADY STRAFFORD ROBBED.

American Peeress Loses Valuable Jewelry in Scotland.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Cora, Countess of Strafford, formerly Mrs. Colgate and now Mrs. Kennard, the American who, though married to a commoner, retains her title from her marriage to the late Earl of Strafford, has lost some valuable jewelry in the course of a visit to Scotland.

Lady Strafford is at present a guest of the Bradley Martins at Balmacan. With other members of the house party she motored into Inverness last Thursday in order to attend a highland ball. She was preceded by a maid in a motor car, who conveyed her luggage and valuables. The maid handed the jewels to a hotel keeper at Inverness, and he placed them in a strong room. A jewel case was accidentally left in a handbag, which was placed in the Countess's bedroom.

The maid on entering the room the following day found that three turquois brooches set with diamonds, a turquois scarfpin, and a pair of gold sleeve links with turquoises and diamonds were missing. The police are investigating the matter.

DINERS DIE OF TYPHOID.

Lobster Salad Ate at Elizabeth Dinner Blamed—Two Dead and 12 Ill.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 26.—Two are dead and twelve others are ill in this city with a malignant form of typhoid fever, which it is believed they got from eating lobster salad at a dinner on Sept. 7 given under the auspices of the Entre Nous Club in honor of John Kelly, a newly appointed patrolman.

The epidemic is rapidly spreading among all those who attended the dinner, and each day new cases are coming to light. Richard F. McMahon, a printer of 230 Inslee Place, was the first victim. He died at the Alexian Hospital yesterday after four days' illness. Twelve hours later John Sullivan, a brakeman, of 523 Adams Avenue, who was also a guest, died of the same disease.

The twelve others who are seriously ill are Owen Farrelly, Chairman of the Democratic City Committee; Dennis Sullivan and Daniel Sullivan, brothers of John Sullivan; John Lavin, Cornelius Reagan and son, John F. Reagan; James Clifford, Jeremiah Connors, Francis Kelly, John Lyons, and Patrolman John Smith of Brooklyn.

Farrelly, Daniel Sullivan, and Lavin are patients in the Alexian Hospital. The first two are said to be in grave danger. More than 100 men attended the dinner and ate the salad.

Local physicians fear an epidemic of typhoid fever as a result. An analysis of the blood of two of the victims at the hospital has disclosed the typhoid germ, and this fact is puzzling the physicians attending the respective victims, because it is not generally known to the medical profession that lobsters, like oysters, are infected with the typhoid germ.

RICH FAMILY IN STEERAGE.

Pittsburg Merchant Says Thousands of Americans Cannot Leave Europe.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—William I. Joseph, a wealthy resident of Kansas City, Mo., accompanied by several members of his family and a servant, had to make the trip from Glasgow to Boston in the steerage of the steamer Parisian, because cabin accommodations could not be obtained on any steamer for America from British ports before November.

W. J. Holmes, a Pittsburg merchant, who came in the second cabin of the Parisian, owing to the overdemand for first-cabin passage, declared that there were thousands of American tourists in Europe unable to get home because of their inability to secure passage within the next three or four weeks.

CITY TO TAKE OVER STEINWAY TUNNEL

The Interborough Agrees to Surrender Its Claim for Which It Once Asked $7,000,000.

TO THIRD-TRACK ELEVATED

Utilities Board Also Favors Extensions, Including a Spur Over Queensboro Bridge.

It was announced at the office of the Public Service Commission yesterday afternoon that on the question of the Interborough Company's proposal to put into operation the Steinway Tunnel, to third-track the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenue elevated lines and to make certain additions to their system, conferences, which have lasted all Summer, have now reached the point "where apparently it is possible for the commission to take immediate action upon the application of the company to the end that such additions to transportation facilities may be made." A public hearing is set for Saturday, Oct. 1, at 10 A. M., for the presentation of views for or against the additions and extensions asked for by the Interborough.

From the statement made by Chairman Willcox it was inferred yesterday that the commission is satisfied with the negotiations as they now stand. Acceptance of the proposal would mean that the title to the Steinway Tunnel, which the Interborough once wished to sell for $7,000,000, would pass into the hands of the city for nothing, that the Borough of Queens would be connected with both the Subway and elevated systems of Manhattan, and that a single fare would carry a passenger from Long Island City to the end of the Subway in Brooklyn or the Bronx.

Besides the two links with Queens, the points that will be considered at the hearing on Saturday are the third-tracking of the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenue elevated lines and the extensions to the elevated system which will require the laying out of the following rapid transit routes, or the granting of the franchises for such:

1. A two-track elevated route from the 143d Street station of the Third Avenue Elevated through private property on Willis and Bergen Avenues to a connection with the Westchester Avenue line of the Rapid Transit Railroad, now operated by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company.

2. A three-track elevated route from Third and Pelham Avenues through Pelham Avenue to Webster Avenue; thence to Gun Hill Road, through to White Plains Road. Application of the Interborough provides here that it will construct and operate a route extending as so described, and then over Route 18, up White Plains road, which is already laid out as a rapid transit route.

3. A two-track elevated route from Eighth Avenue and 149th Street through MacComb's Dam Lane over Central Bridge and its approach to 162d Street, and through 162d Street to River Avenue.

Willcox's View of It.

Here is Chairman Willcox's statement:

"The Interborough Company on June 10 sent to the commission a proposition to third-track the Second, Third, and Ninth Avenue elevated lines and to make certain additions to their system and to put into operation the Steinway Tunnel. Since that time a number of conferences have been held between representatives of the commission and representatives of the company concerning various details of their proposition.

"These conferences have now reached the point where apparently it is possible for the commission to take immediate action upon the application of the company to the end that such additions to transportation facilities be made. Before taking the matter up, however, for formal action the commission is desirous of giving the public an opportunity to present its views for or against the additions and extensions asked for by the Interborough.

"The Steinway Tunnel is probably that part of the subject which will arouse most interest. The proposition of the Interborough is that the commission will lay out a rapid transit route extending from near Vanderbilt Place under Forty-second Street and the East River to a point near Jackson Avenue, in Long Island City, following the present line of the Steinway Tunnel; that the company will turn the title of this over to the city and then agree to operate it under the terms of Contract 1, which governs the operation of the present Subway from City Hall northward. The city is to pay only the amount necessary to complete the tunnel ready for operation, including a connection with the Grand Central Station, which amount is estimated not to exceed $1,500,000.

"Even this amount, of course, will be amortized as well as interest paid by the company, the same as the company amortizes and pays interest on the money invested by the city in the present Subway. The company will then operate the tunnel as an integral part of the present Subway system—that is, passengers will be allowed to transfer without additional fare between the Subway and the Steinway Tunnel at Forty-second Street.

"As to the connection with the Queensboro Bridge, the company agrees to operate Second Avenue elevated trains to the Long Island City Bridge Plaza without additional fare."

Close to an Agreement.

This statement, taken into consideration with the calling of a public hearing on Saturday, was interpreted yesterday as meaning that the Interborough and the commission are nearer agreement now than ever before. One man connected with the office was ready to predict that the tunnel would be in operation within a year from now. The same cars could not be run through to the Subway, for it and the tunnel are on different levels. The present Subway is on the first level, the Broadway-Lexington Avenue on the second, the McAdoo extension on the third, and the tunnel on the fourth.

The Steinway, or Belmont, tunnel runs under the East River from Forty-second Street, Manhattan, to Long Island City. It was completed after Jan. 1, 1907, when, it was contended by the city, the franchise expired. The company was prevented from making arrangements for the operation of the tunnel by litigation over the status of this franchise. In the Winter of 1907 and 1908 the Legislature passed a law permitting the Public Service Commission, with the consent of the Board of Estimate, to purchase for the city any rapid transit roads already constructed which could be used in the municipal system of rapid transit.

The Interborough, on behalf of the Trustees of the New York & Long Island Railroad Company, which holds the rights to the tunnel, made a proposal to the Public Service Commission to sell the tunnel to the city for something more than $7,000,000, provided the city would enter into an operating agreement based upon a certain division of fares between the city and the company, the operation to be by the company. This was rejected by the commission, which pointed out that acceptance would involve the city in an annual loss of about $300,000. A later offer was the exchange of the tunnel for $7,000,000, said to have been the cost of its construction, without any operating agreement whatever.

$5,000 MORE ADDED TO TIMES-POST RACE

Clifford B. Harmon, President of the Aero Council, Puts Up an Additional Prize for Winner.

SUM NOW TOTALS $30,000

$1,000 for First Aviator to Make 500 Miles—$4,000 Offered for the One Reaching Belmont Park First.

Clifford B. Harmon, President of the National Aero Council of America and one of the leading amateur aviators of the world, yesterday offered cash prizes totaling $5,000 to contestants in THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Evening Post $25,000 aeroplane race from Chicago to New York, which starts on Oct. 8.

Shortly after the terms of the race were announced Mr. Harmon offered $1,000 in cash or plate to the contestant who first flies 500 miles in fifty consecutive hours in the contest. The terms of this offer have been slightly modified in favor of the contestants, and an additional $4,000 has been offered to the aviator arriving at Belmont Park, where the international aviation meeting will be held, within the time prescribed for the race. To win the additional $4,000 the entrant upon arriving at New York from Chicago must continue his flight to Belmont Park, covering the entire distance within 168 hours, or seven days, from the time of starting from Chicago.

The total sum offered up to date for the flight is $30,000. This amount is made up as follows: THE NEW YORK TIMES and Chicago Evening Post, $25,000, and Clifford B. Harmon $5,000. It is expected that the sum will be materially augmented before the aviators start on their long journey. The text of Mr. Harmon's offer follows:

New York, Sept. 26, 1910.

To THE NEW YORK TIMES and the Chicago Evening Post:

Gentlemen: In order to show my appreciation of the splendid work which you are doing for the aviators and aviation in America, I want to add my mite to your splendid offer for an aeroplane race from Chicago to New York.

For the first man reaching a point 500 miles east of Chicago within fifty hours of the time of starting, I will give $1,000 in cash.

For the man reaching New York and flying from New York to Belmont Park I will give $4,000 additional, $5,000 in all. The $4,000 gift is conditional upon arriving at Belmont Park from New York within the time limit of 168 hours, or seven days from the time of the start of the race from Chicago.

Hoping that the best man may win, I am,

Yours very sincerely,

CLIFFORD B. HARMON.

In commenting on THE TIMES-Post race yesterday Mr. Harmon said that the event was one which should receive the unstinted support of every aviator, as well as the general public, as it promised to make history in the science of aviation. He regretted his inability to take part in the race, but felt certain the American public would witness a remarkable contest.

"The race promises to bring out to the full the speed possibilities of the aeroplane," said Mr. Harmon, "and it is the duty of every one interested in aviation to help along the science. The liberal terms under which the aviators compete make the accomplishment more than a possibility—a probability. This great cross-country contest has aroused international competition and interest, and I wish THE NEW YORK TIMES and Chicago Evening Post every possible success. It is such races as these that will do much to permit a proper appraisal of the heavier-than-air flying machine's value.

"The fact that the contestants are allowed seven days in which to fly from Chicago to New York makes the event at once feasible and attractive. It must not be forgotten that luck will play an important part in the contest. Good landings must be made, and the engine must run free from trouble. As a matter of fact, the contestants are required to travel less than 160 miles in each twenty-four hours, which in view of the recent performances, not only in this country but also in France and England, would make it appear as though this is not fraught with any remarkable difficulties.

"According to the entry list, the contestants are a capable set of aviators, and each day, with the continual establishment of speed, duration, and altitude records, it appears more and more probable that the prize will be won by one of the men in the race. In common with all persons interested in aviation, I am following the progress of the preliminaries of the contest, and this feeling will be intensified when the entrants start from Chicago. Too much credit cannot be given to THE NEW YORK TIMES for the part it has played, not only in this race but also in the science of aviation."

RADLEY'S AEROPLANE DELAYED

By Marconi Wireless to The New York Times.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP OCEANIC, Sept. 26.—Owing to a strike of my packers in Paris, it is very improbable that my fifty horse power Gnome Blériot aeroplane will arrive in time for THE NEW YORK TIMES-Chicago Post race from Chicago to New York. Knowledge of the strike only reached me the day before sailing, when my agent at once left for Paris. I shall receive a full report from him on my arrival in New York. My plans therefore are uncertain.

This Blériot aeroplane was specially built for me for attaining high speeds, and owing to delay only left the works for the packers on Sept. 15. I am staying in New York till the end of October, and am entering for all meetings.

M'CREA DOESN'T DENY ROOSEVELT'S BIG DEBT

Pennsylvania's President Replies to Stockholder Who Asked About $100,000 Due.

DID CASSATT PAY THE MONEY?

Railroad Official and Writer Deny They Made Letter Public—Colonel Silent on the Subject.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—James McCrea, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad, said to-night at his Ardmore home that he had replied to the letter of John S. Devine, a stockholder in the road, in which he asked if it was true that Col. Roosevelt owed the Pennsylvania Railroad $100,000 for transportation while he was President. Mr. McCrea said he could throw no light on the subject. He did not reveal the nature of his letter's contents, but his language made it clear that he desired it to be understood that he was utterly ignorant of the matter brought to his attention by Mr. Devine.

The impression had got abroad that the Pennsylvania gave out the letter in order that the communication might have political effect—in a word, check Col. Roosevelt in his battle for domination in New York politics. Mr. McCrea was therefore asked, in view of the fact that Mr. Devine had denied having aught to do with publishing the letter:

"Did the Pennsylvania Railroad give out the letter about Roosevelt?"

"Absolutely no," he replied. "Such a report is absolutely without foundation in truth. In no way, directly or indirectly, was the company instrumental in having the letter published. I do not know how the letter got out."

"Mr. Devine asserts that he did not give it to the newspapers. How could it have been published?"

"I really am at a loss to know, and I repeat that the Pennsylvania Railroad was not instrumental in having it published."

"The letter bears the date of Sept. 22. Did you not get it before to-day?" was asked.

"I got it this morning. I did not see it until then. I was not at the office on Saturday, but when I got there to-day, I found it and sent a reply to Mr. Devine."

"I do not. I know nothing about them."

"Does Mr. Roosevelt owe the Pennsylvania $100,000?"

"I do not know anything about it. I only know I saw that statement in a New York newspaper and that I found Mr. Devine's letter at my office. I replied to it and that is the extent of my knowledge of the subject."

"Do you think that the letter was put out for political purposes?"

"I'm sure I do not know. I have no opinion about that, not the slightest."

"It is stated to-night that besides owing the Pennsylvania $100,000, Mr. Roosevelt also owed the Pullman Company $40,000; that the Pullman Company sent a bill to the President, who repudiated it, angrily declaring that the services performed in his behalf were complimentary; that the Pullman people then took up the matter with the Pennsylvania Railroad and that Mr. Cassatt, who was President of the Pennsylvania, paid the entire $140,000 out of his own pocket. Are these things true?"

"I really do not know anything about the matter. It was before my time as President of the company. I am utterly in the dark."

"Is Mr. Devine a heavy stockholder in the Pennsylvania Railroad?"

What Devine Said.

Mr. Devine said, on leaving his office about 5:30 o'clock, that he had not received Mr. McCrea's reply. He had asserted earlier in the day, however, that he would have to be guided by counsel before making public the contents of a letter from the Pennsylvania's President, if he gave an answer.

"There might be something confidential in it," he said, "and therefore I might not be able to reveal its contents."

Mr. Devine's final word was that "nothing would be given out—at least not to-day."

In discussing his letter Mr. Devine said that he had no ulterior motive in sending it.

He declared he was mystified by its publication.

"That's something I do not understand," he declared. "I did not send or in any other way give the letter to the New York paper which published it."

"Were you acting independently?"

"I certainly was. As a stockholder I had the right to ask what I did."

"Were you prompted by anything in the political situation in New York?"

"You cannot make it too strong in denying that. I had no other motive than that which principle prompted."

"You object, then, to the Pennsylvania giving free transportation to the President of the United States?"

"But not when on business of state?"

"There are times when such courtesy as free transportation might be given him, but not when he is running around the country as in the case of Mr. Roosevelt."

"Would you object to free transportation to President Taft?"

"I do not object to extending courtesies on occasion. But I have traveled on the Pennsylvania Railroad for fifteen years between here and Ridley Park, my home, and I have paid my fare always. I have the first pass to get. I think as a stockholder that I am entitled to object when such a bill is owing to the Pennsylvania Railroad."

Has Heard of the Bill.

"Do you know whether Mr. Roosevelt actually owes the money?"

"It is commonly so reported. I have not said that he owes the money. I am trying to find out whether the report is true. There was some talk at the last

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLN, Sept. 26.—Mme. Sembrich has had a narrow escape from a murderous attack by robbers at her beautiful villa at Lausanne.

The prima donna had just left Lausanne, being on the eve of starting for the United States. Last night armed burglars forced an entrance into the villa and attacked and robbed Mme. Sembrich's companion, a lady who has been with the singer for many years.

Beautiful City and Nevada's Merciful Divorce Laws Maligned, She Says.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., Sept. 26.—"I am going to write a story about Reno and the divorce laws of this State," said Mrs. William Fuller, daughter of George Sheldon, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, yesterday. "I leave for New York to-night, and I will on my return to my father's home write the truth about this beautiful little city. I want the people to know how just and merciful the Nevada divorce laws are and what a godsend they are to poor suffering women of the East.

"These sensational stories told of Reno by special writers sent here to write up the colony are positively sickening and are untrue. I want the truth to be known, and I will tell it. It is true that there are many who come to Nevada after divorces who might be termed undesirable, but the large majority is composed of deserving men and women."

Mrs. Fuller while here had a beautiful little home, seven servants, and is said to have spent about $10,000 in the city in six months. She now has an income of $1,200 per month from her father and $300 alimony from her husband.

HAMILTON OFF FOR CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 26.—Charles K. Hamilton, aviator, and his party left Sacramento to-night on a Southern Pacific train for Chicago, where they expect to arrive at 8:30 o'clock Friday morning, and by Saturday Hamilton says he will be ready to fly in the race from Chicago to New York arranged by THE NEW YORK TIMES and The Chicago Evening Post. The aviator was accompanied from here by Mrs. Hamilton, Peter L. Young, his manager, and two machines. Two biplanes were shipped at noon by express.

Hamilton is taking with him a seventy-horse power Hallscott motor manufactured in Oakland, which he says is one of the best he has yet found for exhibition purposes. The 115-horse power motor will be used for all speed events, especially after the Gordon Bennett Cup, for which he will race at New York, after attempting the $25,000 Chicago-New York flight.

Although Hamilton had a fall here that nearly cost him his life, he is well pleased with his trip, having broken the speed record, making a circular mile in a minute, and says he will be back to California to spend the Winter.

FEAR THAT CHAVEZ WILL DIE.

Aviator Who Flew Across the Alps in a Very Serious Condition.

DOMODOSSOLA, Sept. 26.—Grave fears are now entertained in regard to George Chavez, the Peruvian aviator who made a flight across the Alps and was injured while landing at this place.

Chavez, who suffered several fractures and who is believed to be injured internally, spent a bad night. Great general depression was noted and the eminent specialist, Dr. Bozzoli, was summoned and to-day examined the patient.

After a long consultation the attending physicians said that they were unable to express an opinion as to the outcome.

Woodruff, Barnes, and Gruber Will Bitterly Assail Roosevelt Before He Speaks.

ROW IN STATE COMMITTEE

Old Guard Holds Control There and Again Indorses Sherman and Denies Trickery.

ROOSEVELT TAKES CHARGE

EVENTS OF THE DAY AT SARATOGA.

State Committee, in lively meeting, renews its indorsement of Sherman, though sure of defeat in convention.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Col. Roosevelt is here, and with his coming the volcano of dissension which has been sputtering within the Republican State organization ever since he started to run out the bosses has split wide open. The situation is appalling from a Republican standpoint.

Old political allies are inflicting wounds upon each other which can never be healed. To-morrow's convention will open with a battle which in savagery will surpass anything in the history of party politics in this State.

Col. Roosevelt will have the votes, a majority of forty or more of the 1,015 delegates, but before he will get a chance for the rollcall which will mean the death knell of the Old Guard he will have to hear himself accused as few men have ever been accused to their faces in a political convention. He will have his victory, at a cost which he fully realizes, and is quite prepared to pay; but half the men who will support the Rough Rider are fearfully wondering where it is all going to end.

To-night Col. Roosevelt finds himself face to face with the proposition of framing a ticket and a platform which the majority of the delegates who are supporting them will accept. Their platform ideas are already clearly defined except as to direct primaries, but in the matter of candidates they are all up in the air. At midnight none of them will venture an opinion as to candidates.

Bitter Attack on Roosevelt.

The Old Guard still retain the control of the party machinery, and before they turn it over to Col. Roosevelt and his friends to-morrow afternoon they will make one last desperate stand. They have scarcely a hope of accomplishing anything by it, but they intend to go to their political graveyards after uttering a howl of protest that will be music to Democratic ears.

When Chairman of the State Committee Woodruff calls the convention to order it will not be with the usual perfunctory banging of the gavel, but with a speech which his friends say will be a political swan song long to be remembered. He will, under the direction of the State Committee, bring to the front the fact that the committee chose Vice President Sherman of the United States to be the Temporary Chairman of the convention, and will tell much of the whys and wherefores of the present situation from his viewpoint.

Woodruff's speech will force one of Col. Roosevelt's friends to take the floor and move that the Rough Rider and not Mr. Sherman shall be the Temporary Chairman. That will be the cue for Mr. Woodruff to recognize Barnes, the best fighter in the Old Guard. Barnes will make the speech of his life, a bitter denunciation of Roosevelt, his friends, and their methods, and a dire prophecy of party defeat if the convention acts as Roosevelt wants it to act. When he is through Woodruff will recognize Abraham Gruber, who has prepared an oratorical bomb to hurl into the Roosevelt camp that is characterized by those who have read it as something that no man could keep still and listen to.

Roosevelt Must Listen.

Col. Roosevelt will be sitting there in the front row of the convention hall to listen to all of these speeches, and he will have to swallow it until his turn comes. Then he can ride rough shod over those who denounce him and his friends, while the Old Guard, beaten but defiant, will tell him to work out his own and the party's salvation in the situation he has created.

From the moment of his arrival this afternoon Col. Roosevelt was more than busy and in his happiest mood.

"By George, this is bully," he said. "It is god to get back into the fight. It reminds me of the old days when I was first elected to the Assembly."

He put in the afternoon in conferences with his supporters among the progressive leaders, getting reports as to the situation everywhere and learning the sentiment of the progressives on the subject of the platform and the Governorship. After dinner he held a reception on the porch and more than divided the crowd with the stormy meeting of the State Committee. Then he went into a long conference with Senator Root, who just arrived. At all points Col. Roosevelt emphasized his intention to take the fight against the bosses all down the line, but no compromise anywhere.

Governorship Not Decided.

It was all Roosevelt about the United States Hotel. His followers as well as his antagonists were anxious only to find out what he was going to do. His declaration that it is to be an open convention was put to the test at once by his own friends, who all wanted to know what he thought and desired before expressing opinions of their own. Who his candidate for Governor is he has not stated. He has said that he understands that an attempt is to be made to stampede the convention for him and make him take the nomination for Governor, and he has said most positively that he will defeat any such effort.

Of the many candidates who have been mentioned for the nomination the boom of Congressman William S. Bennet is still the most active here. There is a decided impression abroad to-night, however, that the nomination will go to an up-State man, of whom there have been many excellent names mentioned and each hour is adding to the list.

It also seems to-night that if it is finally decided to give the nomination to a New York City man Henry L. Stimson stands the best chance of being the one the lightning will hit. He is known as a strong personal friend of Col. Roosevelt, and at this time that seems to be likely to count for more than any other one thing.

Chairman Griscom of the New York County Committee, who fully realizes the political massacre that is taking place here, expresses regret for it, but is as firm as ever in his belief that it is necessary for the ultimate salvation of the Republican Party.

"The Old Guard will make their last stand to-morrow," he said, "and then we will go on with the fight on new party lines and do our best to win. What is happening here had to happen."

Barnes Renews Attack.

> Heretofore a Republican convention has always been regarded as a conclave in theory at least, where representatives and other members of the party gather to consult each other as to candidates and policies that ought to be selected or adopted. This is the first occasion where such a meeting is sought to be converted into an occasion for the exploitation of one individual whose personality has been crowded into this affair by arbitrary methods, and whose elevation it is sought to accomplish by the totally uncalled for humiliation of the Vice President of the United States.
>
> The present situation is all the more extraordinary, since it is known that the individual in whose behalf it is sought to bowl over every precedent has openly proclaimed himself as the champion of doctrines subversive not only of every Republican principle and tradition, but which are rightfully regarded as a menace to public order and security.
>
> The mingling of Republicans in calm and orderly fashion, the fruitful and friendly discussion of candidates and measures have been swept aside on this occasion which, it is sought to convert into a form of "greatest show on earth," whose chief attraction lends himself to every device known to the most industrious press agent, and not for the purpose of building up or conserving any of the ideals dear to Republicans, but apparently to enable a little coterie of manipulators to seize the reins of party management in defiance of constructive sentiment and of the masses of the voters whose interests are butchered to make a Roman holiday.
>
> All familiar and honored methods of procedure are being trampled on; nobody can tell at the moment whether delegates whose minds have been befogged by wild west performances will pull themselves together and throw off the yoke that threatens them, just as the blight of Bryanism killed the sober sons of the Democratic Party at Chicago in 1896. It is better realized to-day, at all events, than it was yesterday, what the danger is that lies behind the present ruthless attack that is being made upon the ark of the Republican covenant.

What the Platform Will Say.

The platform to be adopted by the progressives will recite the good things in legislation that have been accomplished by the Taft Administration and give the President a generous indorsement along that line; it will make a similar statement about the accomplishments of the Hughes administration and praise the Republican Party for both.

It will get over the graft scandal in the Legislature by pointing out that the Republican Party has turned its own rascals out, and will then denounce corruption generally.

It will declare for direct primary nominations, a short, broad statement of adhesion to the general principle, and will be more forceful and explicit on the subject of labor legislation and employes' compensation.

In general it will slide over the troublesome points in the Republican record lightly, emphasize the fighting points in the record, and elsewhere will make promises for the future to cover all defects in the past.

Committee Slaps Roosevelt Men.

At the meeting of the State Committee to-night, at which the lie was readily passed, the Old Guard leaders were supported in their contention that no "deceit or misrepresentation" had been practiced in the selection by the State Committee of Vice President Sherman for Temporary Chairman of the convention.

This action had been expected, but some of the members who had voted with the progressives at the meeting at which Mr. Sherman was chosen and whose delegates had been counted for Col. Roosevelt at to-morrow's session of the convention voted with the Old Guard to-night. While this was a direct slap at the Roosevelt following, it was stated after the meeting by such men as Congressman J. Sloat Fassett that the action of the committee should not be taken as an indication of any change in the general situation.

It seems to be settled that State Superintendent of Prisons Collins is to be Chairman of the Roosevelt Republican State Committee. The bosses whom Roosevelt is going to put out of business to-morrow wonder at the strange fate that has wrought this future for their old pal.

SHERMAN AGAIN INDORSED.

State Committee Meeting in Which Lie Is Passed Several Times.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The State Committee to-night, by a vote of 22 to 15, supported the contention of the Barnes-Woodruff-Ward-Wadsworth group of leaders that the selection of Vice President Sherman for Temporary Chairman of the Republican State Convention was regular in every respect, and not achieved by "deceit or fraudulent representations."

The vote of the committee was one of confidence in the Old Guard leaders. Of course, it was the State Committee vindicating its own action, and by a small majority at that, but in the anti-Roosevelt camp the leaders were jubilant all the same, and regarded the action as a distinct victory.

President Griscom of the New York County Republican Committee said after the meeting that it would be the last victory of the Old Guard in Republican politics in this State.

The meeting was a stormy one. The lie was freely passed several times, once from Naval Officer Frederick J. H. Kracke, one of the Roosevelt leaders in Brooklyn, to Chairman Woodruff, and later from Mr. Griscom to Speaker James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of the Assembly and back again.

The meeting opened with the reading by Chairman Woodruff of this letter from Vice President Sherman:

> To the members of the Republican State Committee, the Hon. T. L. Woodruff, Chairman:
>
> My Dear Gov. Woodruff: As you know, I had no ambition to preside over the State Convention to convene to-morrow. As you also know, I was asked to preside, not alone because I was a part of the Taft Administration, but because it was known that, in response to the President's request, I had spoken of the Administration and for him, on several occasions in different sections of the country; because it was known I had been a stanch supporter of the President during his entire term of office; because I was known to be an especially ardent supporter of the basic principles of the party.
>
> My name was presented in the State Committee in accordance with custom in Nation and State. I solicited no man's support. I consented to act as a service to my party, not to gratify a personal ambition. In that respect I had none.
>
> The charge has since been made in some quarters that my election was accomplished in the State by means of deception and misrepresentation. I do not believe it. So far as I am personally concerned, I know the statement to be absolutely unfounded.
>
> Even to do the party service I am unwilling to serve in the face of such a charge if well founded. I therefore ask that at the committee meeting to-night the charge so publicly made be with equal directness and publicity investigated; that the majority of the State Committee who originally favored my selection may each declare whether or not his preference was based upon any statement which bore any color of misrepresentation or deception, for if such be the fact I ask that my name be not presented to the convention for its temporary presiding officer to-morrow.
>
> With personal regard I am very sincerely yours, JAMES S. SHERMAN.

Kracke and Woodruff Clash.

Congressman Parsons then moved that a poll be made of the members of the committee who were not present or who voted under proxy at the meeting on Aug. 16, when Mr. Sherman was selected Temporary Chairman of the convention. Mr. Barnes was on his feet at once, and demanded that first the proxies be called, to explain if any influence or misrepresentation had been made to them on the manner in which they should vote. William L. Ward of Westchester, the New York State National Committeeman, backed him up.

Naval Officer Kracke of the Port of New York then jumped into the fray in an excited manner and shouted:

"Well, I, for one, know that men were told that the naming of Mr. Sherman would be acceptable to the President."

"That has been denied," replied Chairman Woodruff, calmly.

"But you know it is true," cried Kracke.

"I know no such thing," continued Mr. Woodruff, "and I trust that the gentleman will be careful of his terms."

At this point Lewis M. Swasey of Brooklyn moved that the twenty men who voted for Sherman in the meeting of the State Committee be polled to tell whether any undue influence was used with them. Herbert Parsons was on his feet again.

"I demand that Mr. Ward state to us then, whether the President said to him the day before the committee met, that he was opposed to the selection of Mr. Sherman."

"I refuse to tell what the President said to me," shouted back Ward.

"Then we stand by the President's written word," retorted the former New York County Chairman, while the Roosevelt contingent cheered.

This brought William Barnes, Jr., to his feet.

"Mr. Parsons has explained his position so frankly," he sneered, pointing a long forefinger at his opponent, "that he stands by the written word of the President. Now I want to say that no man's written word goes with me at this time. We are here to represent our constituencies, and we will stand and vote by their expressed wishes."

"And I defy the gentleman to state upon what information those twenty men voted for Mr. Sherman," yelled Parsons in his turn.

Griscom Renews Charge.

Then County Chairman Griscom took the floor.

"I want to go on record right now that there was misrepresentation," he began, "and that the misrepresentations were made for the purpose of influencing votes. I rest on the President's letter. It seems to me that deceit was practiced, and I am willing to go before the committee, or before the party as a whole, on that statement."

J. Sloat Fassett essayed the rôle of peacemaker, but with doubtful results.

"I don't think it will promote harmony either in the committee or in the party," he said. "We are not going to be able to indict or convict any one here, even if we wanted to. There are always differences in individual memories, and it seems to me that is the difficulty we are up against. Now I suggest that we lay this matter on the table."

Fassett did not get any further. Barnes was up once more to object that the twenty men who voted for Serman had a right to state their positions, and when Mr. Fassett pressed his motion Barnes turned on him:

"If he insists on that motion to lay on the table, he does so because he doesn't want the Vice President of the United States, Mr. Sherman, to have the benefit of the indorsement of those twenty votes."

But Mr. Fassett did insist.

"It won't help the Vice President," he replied, "and it won't help any one else. We will only be continuing the animosity—"

Fassett got no further.

"What about the twenty men?" shouted some one back in the room, and the Old Guard followers cheered.

"At a time like this," Chairman Woodruff interjected, "it seems to me that the majority ought to be heard. This motion to lay on the table certainly seems like gag rule."

"And we can certainly find out," contributed Barnes, "whether members of the committee can be assailed in the public press by other members of the committee without the opportunity of defense or of redress—"

"But you can't find out," objected Fassett.

"You know perfectly well," the Albany man retorted, "that these twenty men can say whether they voted on misrepresentations or not, or whether they exercised their honest judgment."

"Why not let them say?" Chairman Woodruff queried, and Fassett then consented to withdraw his motion. But by this time Herbert Parsons was not content.

"As I said at the start," he argued, "if you start to investigate this you cannot investigate fully unless you find out whether the men who stayed away and gave proxies gave them knowing that Mr. Roosevelt's name was to be presented and whether the proxies correctly represented their views. We must find out who said the President was told that there was a scheme to beat Mr. Roosevelt, and if he was so told. Unless we investigate that I insist that the matter be laid on the table."

"Well," Barnes retorted, "I will admit that the selection of Mr. Sherman was a scheme to beat Roosevelt."

"Will the gentleman say that they were not informed?" demanded Parsons.

"Then what Mr. Griscom says is true," Parsons shouted back amid more cheers.

Chairman Woodruff finally put the motion to lay the whole matter on the table, originally made by Mr. Swasey. The roll call was ordered, and the vote stood as at the meeting of the State Committee at the Republican Club, except that ex-Gov. B. B. Odell was absent last night, and explained his absence by a letter to Mr. Woodruff and of John T. Mott of Oswego.

The result stood:

> Yeas—F. J. H. Kracke of Kings, Charles H. Murray of Manhattan, Samuel S. Koenig of Manhattan, George W. Wanamaker of Manhattan, William Henkel of Manhattan, Ezra P. Prentice of Manhattan, Harry W. Mack of Manhattan, Samuel Krulevitch of Manhattan, Moses M. McKee of Manhattan, William H. Ten Eyck of the Bronx, Cornelius V. Collins of Troy, John T. Mott of Oswego, George W. Dunn of Binghamton, Charles H. Betts of Lyons, J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, John Grimm, Jr., of Buffalo, William H. Daniels of Buffalo, Charles W. Anderson of Manhattan.
>

Explain Their Votes.

The result was announced—ayes 18, nays 19—and once more the Old Guard cheered. Having voted down the motion to lay on the table, the committee proceeded to vote the original Swasey motion and the roll call began.

Secretary Gleason, who held John J. Bartlet's proxy in the meeting at the Republican Club, called on Mr. Bartlet to explain, and the latter said that his proxy for Sherman had been cast in accordance with his wishes. Then came John Campbell of Kings, whose proxy gave Sherman another vote, and he O. K.'d the result. It was the same with Swasey of Brooklyn, who remarked that he had heard that Roosevelt's name was to be presented, but voted for Sherman nevertheless. Jacob A. Livingston of Kings told the same story, and Mr. Kracke expressed equal satisfaction with his vote for Roosevelt.

"Now will you please state that I did not influence you to vote for Roosevelt?" put in the Chairman, and there was another laugh. The next name was that of Mr. Woodruff himself.

"I think that this is an opportune time for me to say a word," he began. "I understand from Mr. Griscom that he arrived that day six or seven minutes before the meeting began. I remember seeing him from my desk in the offices of the State Committee for a half or three-quarters of an hour before the meeting began—"

"That is not so," shouted Harry Mack. "Mr. Griscom and I arrived together."

"And I saw Mr. Griscom come in. It was six or seven minutes before the time for the meeting," put in Mr. Swasey.

Eventually somebody explained that whereas Mr. Griscom did come six or seven minutes before the meeting was scheduled, it was half an hour later before the actual commencement of the session at the Republican Club. Then Mr. Woodruff continued:

"I did hold back the meeting, hoping that Mr. Griscom would come in and talk to me, for I saw him talking with Mr. Wadsworth, and when Mr. Wadsworth spoke to me before the meeting he said that Mr. Griscom was opposed to Mr. Sherman. But if Mr. Griscom had told Mr. Wadsworth that he was going to nominate Mr. Roosevelt I am sure Mr. Wadsworth would have told me about it. I never knew Mr. Roosevelt's name was to be presented until I heard it from the floor in the meeting."

Michael J. Dady of Brooklyn, the next committeeman, said he never heard of Col. Roosevelt's name until it was presented in the meeting, and George Cromwell, who was in the White Mountains, told a similar story as to his giving of a proxy, but added that he was satisfied with its being voted for Sherman.

Murray and Koenig of Manhattan, two Roosevelt men, did not respond when their names were called, and George Wanmaker, Ezra Prentice, and United States Marshal Henkel were all for Roosevelt, and had nothing to add.

Along came Joseph De Bragga, a Sherman man, who said he wasn't deceived, and Messrs. Mack, Krulevitch, McKee, and Ten Eyck, all Roosevelt, had no complaint.

"I wasn't deceived," shouted William L. Ward of Westchester in a deep voice when his name was called, and everybody laughed, Roosevelt and anti-Roosevelt alike.

B. B. Odell's letter to the Chairman, in his absence, told his story of content with his Sherman vote, and Lou Payn remarked that he had voted as he wished. So said Cornelius V. Collins as to his Roosevelt vote, and William Barnes got another laugh by adding that he personally voted according to his best judgment.

J. Duncan Lawrence of Bloomville said he was content with having voted for Sherman, John K. Stewart of Amsterdam declared nobody tried to deceive him, and John F. O'Brien of Plattsburg and Daniel F. Strobel of Herkimer felt the same way.

John T. Mott of Oswego, a Sherman voter in the prior meeting, had voted for the motion to lay on the table, but to-night he recorded his freedom of choice as to the convention Temporary Chairmanship.

Francis Hendricks of Syracuse said he generally kept his vote in his hat until he got ready to cast it, and gave it to Sherman willingly, after which George W. Dunn of Rochester and Charles H. Betts of Lyons reiterated their Roosevelt sentiments. It came along to George W. Aldridge of Rochester, and he started a laugh again by declaring that no one had practiced deception on him since last Spring. J. Sloat Fassett's Roosevelt vote was soon accounted for.

Wadsworth Calls Griscom Mistaken.

Then up came Speaker Wadsworth to explain his action on the proxy for John A. Merritt of Lockport at the meeting at the Republican Club.

"No attempt was made to deceive," he began. "But it has occurred to me as I sat here that it is easy sometimes to fall into a misconception. I don't want to contradict, but I must offer a correction to what Mr. Griscom has said about our conversation. It is true that he arrived about ten minutes of 12, the hour set for the meeting, and that the meeting did not begin until a half hour later.

"But (turning to the New York County Chairman) I was the first to tell you, Mr. Griscom, that the majority of the committee was pledged to Mr. Sherman. You said that you wanted the postponement and were frank enough to remark that if one were granted you would try to get votes away from Mr. Sherman. I opposed the idea, for I foresaw that if such a contest were started all over the State nothing but disaster would follow to the party.

"You did not inform me that you would present Roosevelt's name, and I was astonished when you did present his name in the convention. I don't want to impugn Mr. Griscom, but I must insist that his recollection has gone astray far as to myself. I will state frankly my belief that the Vice President of the United States should be the Temporary Chairman of the convention.

"Had I known that Mr. Roosevelt's name was to be presented I certainly would have opposed it and voted for Vice President Sherman, for since I had been informed through the press that Mr. Roosevelt was committed to a principle with which I most emphatically disagreed I would have considered it an act of stupendous folly to support him for Temporary Chairman."

After Speaker Wadsworth was done Mr. Griscom asked unanimous consent to make a statement, and he got it. Mr. Griscom said he was at a loss to account for the statement of Speaker Wadsworth in questioning his veracity, and declared that he had an abundance of evidence to present in support of his declaration that he had told the Speaker that Col. Roosevelt's name would go before the committee at the meeting on Aug. 16.

John Grimm, Jr., of Erie County, was next reached on the roll call. He was one of the absentees not represented by proxy at the meeting in August.

"I failed to come because the letter notifying me of the meeting did not say a word about the important business that really was to be transacted. It was only stated that a time should be fixed and a place selected for the State Convention, but nothing was said about the selection of a Temporary Chairman. Had I known I should have been on hand. It looks to me like sharp practice."

Chairman Woodruff by unanimous consent made a statement explaining that the letter stated beyond these purposes "also such other business as may properly come before the committee at that time." He maintained that this should be notice sufficient for anybody.

William H. Daniels, the other Erie County Committeeman, stated that similar reasons had kept him away without providing for a proxy. Frank R. Rutter said he had been absent and without proxy, but had not bothered to find out whether deceit had been practised or not.

The roll call came to a close with the name of Charles W. Anderson, the colored delegate at large. He had a noncommittal statement. Mr. Anderson is a Federal office holder. He voted for Col. Roosevelt at the meeting, he said, out of deference to the high regard in which the Colonel is held by persons of my "race."

"But I could have been content to vote for either, had the other dear charmer been away," he added.

Mr. Barnes was recognized upon completion of the roll call.

"I move," said the Albany boss, "that it is the sense of this meeting that Mr. Sherman's election was not brought about by fraud and misrepresentation, and that a letter containing that statement be sent him."

Congressman Herbert Parsons, who attended as a proxy for Secretary of State Koenig, moved that the motion be tabled. The roll call on this motion was as follows:

> Ayes—Kracke, Murray, Koenig, Wanamaker, Henkel, Prentice, Mack, Krulewitch, McKee, Ten Eyck, Collins, Mott, Dunn, Fassett, Grimm, Daniels, Anderson. Total—17.
>

By a vote of 22 to 15 the committee then quickly adopted a resolution to report to the State Convention to-morrow that it had elected Vice President Sherman Temporary Chairman and there had been no misrepresentation or deceit in connection with the selection.

While this motion was taken there was a passage at arms between Congressman Parsons and Mr. Woodruff, during which Mr. Woodruff said he might be pardoned if he displayed some feeling.

"The attack which has been made on this committee by Republican against Republican is the worst I ever heard of in my life. I shall feel it a long time to come."

The members who changed their votes in favor of the Old Guard on the last roll call were Fassett, Dunn, and Betts.

"I believe this the last victory the Old Guard will win," said Mr. Griscom after the meeting. "The only thing I regret is the action of Speaker Wadsworth. I cannot understand it."

It was stated by both Congressman Fassett and Mr. Betts and Col. Dunn after the meeting that the delegates from their Congressional district would vote for Mr. Roosevelt on the floor of the convention to-morrow.

OLD GUARD TO OPEN FIRE.

To Attack Roosevelt First—May Show Letter to Sherman.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Hostilities will be opened by the Old Guard in the battle that is to be fought on the floor of the Republican State Convention to-morrow. Its members will not wait for Col. Roosevelt to have his say and then make reply. Before he has a chance to speak heavy artillery will be turned against him. Chairman Woodruff of the State Committee, in opening the convention, will have his chance. Then William Barnes, Jr., in moving the adoption of the report of the State Committee, making the arrangements for the convention, will have his. Then Abraham Gruber will second the motion to adopt the report of the committee and will have a third opportunity.

It is the plan of the Old Guard leaders to-night that these opportunities shall not be lost. They mean to place on record before the party their contention that they are not responsible for the present disruption. They intend to defend their action in naming Vice President Sherman for the temporary Chairmanship and to reply to charges of bad faith in the method of his selection. It is possible even that they will question the good faith of Mr. Roosevelt by the production of a letter to show that he was responsible for the failure of Mr. Sherman to consult the Colonel before the State Committee met.

All this will be done—and probably much more—when the motion is made to substitute Col. Roosevelt for Mr. Sherman as Temporary Chairman, before the Colonel has a chance to make his address.

The original plan of the Old Guard leaders did not contemplate such a fight in the open. They would have preferred to have the bitter truth-telling it will involve take place behind closed doors at the meeting of the State Committee which is being held to-night for the purpose of making up the temporary roll of the convention. They have virtually been forced to take their grievances before crowded galleries by the aggressive friends of Col. Roosevelt.

It was learned to-night that the matter of procedure was up for discussion at a recent luncheon given in New York by the Colonel to some of his political supporters, among whom was Postmaster Fred Greiner, the Republican leader of Erie County. The suggestion was made by some one at the luncheon that the fight be made in the State Committee meeting so that it might be settled for good before the convention went into session.

"Not on your life!" said the vigorous little Postmaster. "Let us set off our fireworks in the open, by all means. It will delight the people and win us at least 25,000 votes."

The matter was settled then and there, the Colonel giving ready assent to a plan which would mean the open massacre of the bosses.

Speeches for Old Guard.

The Old Guard leaders, however, have determined that before they lose control of the situation they are at least going to have their say. The first word in the convention must be spoken by Mr. Woodruff, who, as Chairman of the State Committee, will call it to order. Ordinarily the opening speech is a formal and much curtailed utterance, so brief, in fact, that generally it is finished even before the echo of the gavel's whack has died away. In this case Chairman Woodruff has prepared a speech which his friends declare the Colonel and his friends will have reason to remember for years to come.

After Mr. Woodruff is through, according to the programme, he will recognize Mr. Barnes, principal leader in the fight on the Roosevelt forces. He will present on behalf of the State Committee a full account of the meeting at which Vice President Sherman was chosen as Temporary Chairman and move the adoption of the committee's report making arrangements for the convention. In support of the motion he will make a speech. This will be the keynote for the Old Guard. It was said by friends of Mr. Barnes to-night that he would scathingly denounce the attempts made by President Lloyd C. Griscom of the New York County Republican Committee, who is recognized the chief lieutenant of Col. Roosevelt, to have it appear that Mr. Sherman's election to the Temporary Chairmanship was brought about by deception.

The motion made by Mr. Barnes, if the programme of the Old Guard as mapped out to-night is carried out, will be seconded by Col. Abraham Gruber of New York. Col. Gruber hates Col. Roosevelt better than most of the leaders in the Old Guard camp, and is said to be itching for an opportunity to tell the Colonel to his face what he thinks.

May Show Roosevelt Letter.

It is more than intimated to-night by some of the anti-Roosevelt leaders that documentary evidence will be presented before the convention to-morrow which would strongly indicate that Col. Roosevelt himself was responsible for the failure of Vice President Sherman to confer with him before the State Committee met.

"You may have noticed," said a close friend of the Vice President to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-night, "that in the letter from President Taft to Mr. Griscom on Aug. 20, he did not ask Mr. Sherman himself to consult Col. Roosevelt, but asked that he should make sure that Messrs. Ward and Woodruff did consult the Colonel and his friends before taking any step in connection with the selection of a Temporary Chairman of the convention. The suggestion that Col. Roosevelt and Vice President Sherman meet did not come from President Taft, but from Congressman Longworth, who made the suggestion to the Colonel.

"Col. Roosevelt wrote a letter to Mr. Sherman. It was written in The Outlook office. It was dated Aug. 13. It reads:

> My Dear Sherman: When could I see you to discuss State matters? Give my love to Mrs. Sherman. Yours,
>
> THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"The letter did not reach Mr. Sherman's home in Utica until Aug. 17, when the Vice President was away on a visit to President Taft at Beverly. He had then been elected Temporary Chairman of the State Convention the day before. On returning home, on Aug. 18, Mr. Sherman learned that the letter had arrived the previous day, and was astounded when he saw the date. On examining the envelope, however, he found that the letter had not been mailed until the day before its arrival in Utica. It was stamped 'Madison Square P. O., Aug. 16, 12:30 P. M.' This was the exact hour when Col. Roosevelt received word that he had been beaten and Vice President Sherman was elected Temporary Chairman of the convention.

"Mr. Sherman wrote to Col. Roosevelt, calling his attention to the delay in mailing the letter. Several days elapsed; then a letter came from Col. Roosevelt very curtly saying that he could not account for this delay. 'Now, of course, it is too late,' or words to that effect, were used by the Colonel in making it known that he did not desire to have any talk with the man who had been elected over his head to the post of Temporary Chairman."

Realizing that they will be beaten on the Temporary Chairmanship, despite their bitter protest, Old Guard leaders are preparing to make their principal stand first in the Committee on Resolutions and afterward on the floor of the convention when the report on the platform is presented. Their exact plans they decline to discuss.

Bennet May Make Trouble.

There is one situation here just at present which is fraught with promise of trouble, which has nothing to do with either the Temporary Chairmanship or with the proposed platform. There have been hints all day that Representative William S. Bennet, who is an eager candidate for the Gubernatorial nomination, will be directed to withdraw as a candidate. Last night there were, in fact, rumors that the orders had already arrived from Col. Roosevelt. This was denied then both by Albert Falck, his campaign manager, and by Mr. Bennet himself. To-day the rumors were revived. It was said Col. Roosevelt would insist on an up-State man.

"I have received no such orders," said Mr. Bennet, "and if they come they will do no good. Under no circumstances will I withdraw. There are at least fifty delegates in New York who are pledged to stand for me to the end, and altogether I have about 170 delegates, taking the whole State, who are pledged to me."

Congressman Bennet is very friendly to Mr. Sherman. He was one of the first to call on the Vice President this morning after his arrival, accompanied by several members of the delegation from his district. Among the delegates who will support him in the convention are a number who will support Mr. Sherman. It was intimated to-night that if any attempt was made to put Mr. Bennet out of the running a number of the New York delegates who are for him would shift to the other side, thus making victory for the Roosevelt forces impossible. Up to a late hour this evening there was no sign of a break, however.

Sherman to Fight It Through.

Many of the friends of Vice President Sherman have urged him to withdraw and save himself the humiliation of being defeated. This the Vice President has declined to do. He has no future political hopes that can be shattered by his defeat to-morrow. He has received all that he can ever hope to receive of political honors, and will be satisfied to retire to private life at the end of his term, according to his friends. So he has consented to go into the battle, though defeat seems certain.

Quite a stir was caused this morning when Mr. Sherman shortly after his arrival went into conference with Congressman W. W. Cocks, who represents Col. Roosevelt's district in the House of Representatives and is regarded as one of the Colonel's closest political friends and advisers. National Committeeman William L. Ward of Westchester joined the conference after a little. In reply to a rumor that Mr. Sherman might withdraw, Mr. Cocks and Mr. Ward both said that it was not for them to say what Mr. Sherman had told them or what they had told him.

"I am convinced that the Old Guard will stand up and fight to the end," said Congressman Cocks. "There is no doubt about the outcome, however. We will win easily. No doubt the fight has embittered many, but I do not find nearly as much bad feeling as I had expected to find when I first came to Saratoga."

WANT ROOSEVELT TO BOSS.

Followers Put Him in Embarrassing Position—No Primaries Agreement.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The hullabaloo following Col. Roosevelt's arrival was still echoing through the corridors of the United States Hotel this afternoon when the Colonel plunged directly into the task of gathering up the details of the situation in the progressive camp. He went to work in the quarters of Cornelius V. Collins, whom he has chosen as his right-hand man. Lloyd C. Griscom, President of the New York County Committee; Herbert L. Parsons, and Henry L. Stimson, who had come up from New York in his company, were with him.

Word went out that Col. Roosevelt was ready to talk with his supporters and they rushed in. Charles S. Francis of Troy, whom he had appointed Ambassador to Austria to succeed Bellamy Storer, was one of the first arrivals. He was followed closely by Congressmen John W. Dwight, Republican whip of the House of Representatives, a stanch supporter of Speaker Cannon who has been acting with Mr. Roosevelt in this fight because his district is for the Colonel, and J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, another of the regular Congressmen who has come out with the progressives in this fight. Congressman Cocks of Col. Roosevelt's district was in and out at intervals, bringing in delegates from different districts, and in various ways helping along.

Mr. Collins had two of his trusted lieutenants standing guard at the door and Col. Roosevelt's secretary was close at hand also. There are three rooms in the Collins suite. Col. Roosevelt was in the third. The second was the waiting room of the elect and the first ante-chamber where the political crowd sat or stood around.

Want Roosevelt to Boss.

It is a curious situation that Col. Roosevelt finds himself in just now. From the beginning he has declared on all occasions that this fight was against the bosses. He has pointed out how absurd and futile it would be to overthrow one set of bosses if another set were to be put in power. He has clung steadfastly to this position and has illustrated it recently by declaring that it would be impossible to reach a final conclusion on the subject of the platform with its direct primaries declaration and on the Gubernatorial nomination until the free sentiment of the progressive delegates could be obtained.

From the moment of his arrival here he set out to ascertain what the sentiment of the progressive delegates was, particularly as regards direct primaries. From the moment of his arrival, however, the progressives have been making it apparent that they expect to be bossed, and by him. They hardly seem to know what to do and stand around waiting for the word from him to help them make up their minds. In spite of himself he is being put by his friends in the position of bossing their part of the convention.

There is no doubt that he could have the whole thing cut and dried in five minutes if he would do so. His aggressive stand for any particular man for the Gubernatorial nomination or for any special form of direct primaries plank in the platform would turn the trick without delay. But he is reluctant to use the power. The progressives are anxious to have him employ it. They have never seen a convention like this, and they don't know what to do about it. Old-timers declare that there is more excitement and uncertainty in the situation than they have ever known at a convention before. In the same breath they say that it could be all cleared up in five minutes by Col. Roosevelt if he cared to announce exactly what he wanted.

No Agreement on Primaries.

During all the afternoon up to 7 o'clock the conferences in the Colonel's suite went on. The chief subject of discussion was the direct primaries plank. Early in the Summer Col. Roosevelt declared for something on the lines of the Cobb bill, when he telegraphed from Boston to Mr. Griscom in New York expressing the opinion that the special session of the Legislature would adopt that measure or something like it. That bill provided for the direct nomination of Representatives in Congress, members of the Legislature, and county officers, retaining the convention system for the nomination of State, municipal, and judicial tickets.

In this fight the Colonel has said that although he was for the principle of direct primaries he would not declare for any specific measure until he heard what the "bulk of the decent people of the State" wanted, and he expected to find that out from the delegates here. When the conference broke up at 7 o'clock and Col. Roosevelt went to dinner it was evident that the differences of opinion which he had previously found were still existent. He was not ready to say just what form of plank he would favor for the platform to be adopted on Wednesday.

He said he had seen a considerable number of progressive leaders, especially from up the State. Besides those already mentioned he had talked with Postmaster Fred Greiner of Buffalo, Representative Smith, Senator Thomas of Madison County, and a number of others. Otto T. Bannard of New York, who has been one of his strong supporters from the down-State territory, was also in and out of the conference. Besides these the Colonel saw and talked more or less with Congressman Sereno E. Payne, head of the Cayuga County delegation, which was instructed for Roosevelt for Temporary Chairman; State Senator John B. Rose of Newburg, who succeeded ex-Gov. Odell in the leadership of that district; Senator Allen of Rensselaer County, Congressman Vreeland, and F. C. Stevens, State Superintendent of Public Works.

Again Indorse Wainwright.

On the way up from New York this morning Col. Roosevelt gave an indication of his attitude concerning direct nominations when he made public a brief statement in favor of the renomination of State Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester County. National Committeeman William L. Ward, the Republican boss of Westchester, is against Wainwright, and there will be a big fight to prevent the Senator's renomination next week. The Senator has been a progressive and a stanch supporter of Gov Hughes. In his statement Col. Roosevelt said:

> I feel that all good citizens should take a keen interest in the renomination of Senator Wainwright, even if they do not live in his district. In order to get the kind of public servants we ought to have it is as necessary for the public to stand by the officer who does right as it is to condemn the officer who does wrong.
>
> Senator Wainwright is not merely a man of the highest probity and a man of unflinching courage, but also a singularly useful public servant. He has always interested himself in an efficient manner in the things which are of really vital and far-reaching concern from the standpoint of the public interest.
>
> For instance, he is Chairman of the commission which has been investigating labor conditions in this State, especially from the standpoint of workmen's compensation and the prevention of accidents to laboring men and women. The report of his commission represents not only far and away the best piece of work of the kind done in this State, but is also a document of prime value to every student everywhere who is interested in the practical betterment of social and industrial conditions. To turn down such a man because he is not the pliant tool of some particular boss or group of bosses is an outrage upon the public.
>
> The case illustrates in the clearest fashion the need of direct nominations in the primaries. If that system of direct nominations were now in existence the bosses would be powerless to turn down a man like Mr. Wainwright, and probably would not even venture to try.

Will Beat Them to a Frazzle.

There was very little conferring with Col. Roosevelt on the train. A few delegations talked with him for a little, but he made it known that he wanted to avoid talking as much as possible. At Troy, where a crowd had gathered around the station, he went out and made a very short speech, declaring his confidence of victory at the convention.

"We shall beat them to a frazzle," he said to the cheering collar makers, "and you want to remember that word 'frazzle.'"

There was ample opportunity on the train for the Colonel to look over the morning newspapers and read the accounts of the doings and sayings of his Old Guard antagonists at Saratoga. It had been clear to him from the beginning that the Old Guard would endeavor at last, when it became apparent that they were beaten, to saddle him with the entire responsibility for the convention and the campaign and then charge him with the defeat and disruption of the Republican Party if the Democrats won.

There is no denying the fact that feeling is general both among the Old Guard and the progressives that the party is marching straight to defeat in November. The difference is that the Old Guard pretend to believe that if they could control the campaign, name their own kind of a ticket, and run things in their own way they might win a victory. The progressives are certain that Old Guard control would spell complete disaster, but they hope that with a progressive victory here they can save something from the wreck as well as come out in shape, through reorganization in party control, to win again at the next election.

As far as Col. Roosevelt is concerned it may be declared with the utmost positiveness that he has his eyes fully open to the situation. The Old Guard hope to smash him so entirely by the defeat of the party under his leadership that he can never re-enter politics. But it is believed by the supporters of the Colonel that the people of the State will not be fooled. Their view is that the people instead of blaming Col. Roosevelt will say that the Old Guard must have put the party into wretched shape indeed when he could not save it.

UP-STATE CANDIDATE LIKELY TO BE CHOSEN

Griscom Mentions Ansley Wilcox and Frederick Hassard as New Gubernatorial Timber.

STIMSON GETS GOOD BOOM

If New York City Gets First Place He Probably Will Be Named—Schurman Won't Run.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—With the triumphant entry of Col. Roosevelt into town this afternoon, the talk of the Republican State ticket resolved itself into a proposition of waiting to hear from the Colonel.

About the only change to-night over the situation, as it stood yesterday, is that the boom of Congressman Bennet, which had been the strongest in sight, has gone a bit backward, because the general impression is held among the delegates that the nominee for Governor will not be a New York City man, but will come from up the State. The arrival of Henry L. Stimson, former United States District Attorney, with Col. Roosevelt, was the cause of a great deal of booming for him; but the idea persisted that the lightning would hit an up-State man.

Bennet's boom was still the most active here to-day and to-night. His friends and campaign managers maintained that in the final analysis he would be the most acceptable compromise candidate that could be found. He was really the only man who had come out openly and said that he wanted the nomination.

Bennet is primarily an organization man. He voted with Speaker Cannon in Congress last year, and is backed in his candidacy by such New York City members of the Old Guard as Abraham Gruber. He has already declared himself, however, in favor of the incorporation in the platform of a direct primaries plank which is not radically different from that which the progressives, backed by Col. Roosevelt, will advocate. The apparent friendliness of Otto T. Bannard, generally recognized as the personal representative of President Taft, to Mr. Bennet is also taken as significant.

Outside of Congressman Bennet and Mr. Stimson the other New York City men who have been mentioned for the nomination seemed to be gradually dropping out of sight. Controller Prendergast stood firm in his position that he would not accept the nomination if it was offered to him, and it was learned that William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, who has the delegates from one New York City district instructed for him, would not come to the convention at all.

Charles S. Francis of Troy, known all over the State as the "Original Loeb boomer," arrived in town this afternoon. He refused to be silenced, although it was known that Col. Roosevelt believed Mr. Loeb would not be the best man who could be named. Mr. Francis had a conference with Mr. Griscom soon after his arrival, and saw Col. Roosevelt later in the evening. There was no active Loeb boom in sight, but there was distinct evidence that if the chance presented itself a decided movement for him would be made, led by Francis.

It was the general opinion during the evening, however, that if the nomination should finally be given to a New York City man, Mr. Stimson will be the candidate. He is a strong Roosevelt man and would not be repulsive to the New York City organization. He made an excellent record while at the head of the Federal prosecuting office in the city. Under his administration the famous rebate cases against the railroads running into New York City were brought. He has also managed the Sugar Trust fraud prosecutions. The one great disadvantage he has as a candidate is that he is a poor platform orator and would not be a "good campaigner." His friends contend, however, that this would be offset by the fact that he "stands for something" and that the Old Guard would not be able to "knife him" openly. At the same time he would have the sincere support of the progressives.

The men to whom the nomination may go up State are legion. Erie County is in the lead by far. Such Buffalo men as William H. Hotchkiss, State Superintendent of Insurance, and Justice John Woodward of the Supreme Court have been talked of for some time, and to-day Chairman Griscom mentioned as a possibility Ansley Wilcox, who is an important addition to the list. He is a wealthy and well-known lawyer in the western end of the State. He is a close friend of Col. Roosevelt. It was at Mr. Wilcox's home in Buffalo that Mr. Roosevelt's took the oath of office after the death of President McKinley.

Among the other new names is that of Frederick Hassard of Syracuse, also mentioned by Mr. Griscom. He is a wealthy business man of standing in his community. He is a life-long Republican of more or less independent tendencies, despite the fact that he has always been identified with the organization. He was delegate-at-large to the last Republican National Convention, and was one of Gov. Hughes's strongest supporters.

Jacob Gould Schurman, President of Cornell University, who had stood high as a Gubernatorial possibility, took himself out of the race to-day. A letter from him to S. H. Gage, a delegate from Ithaca, N. Y., positively states his position. It says:

> I have your kind letter of the 21st inst. on the subject of my selection by the Republican Convention of Tompkins County as a delegate to the State Convention at Saratoga. I wish you would convey to my friends and neighbors who have honored me with their confidence my grateful appreciation. The duty they have imposed upon me I will endeavor to perform. As to the Governorship, to which you refer, I have no idea what the convention may do. But since you write that my name has been "so prominently mentioned for nomination to this high office," I want to say in the clearest and most emphatic terms that I would not accept the nomination under any circumstances, not even if it were absolutely certain that the candidate nominated by the convention would be elected by the people.

It is generally understood that a man is being sought who is acceptable otherwise and has personal wealth or strong backing. It is impossible to get away from the fact that the delegates here believe that they are playing a losing game, despite the enthusiasm over Col. Roosevelt. It is conceded that unless the Colonel runs, and it is practically assured that he will not consider that, the man who is nominated must be prepared to make a hard fight.

Talk of the candidates for the subsidiary places on the ticket has practically gone by the board. There will undoubtedly be three renominations on the ticket, those of Attorney General O'Malley, Secretary of State Koenig, and State Engineer and Surveyor Williams of Oneida. Clark Williams, who was appointed by Gov. Hughes to succeed the late Controller Gaus, and State Treasurer Dunn of Rochester have both announced that they do not want further service. The only active candidate for either of the two places is State Senator John Kissel of Brooklyn, who would like to succeed Mr. Williams.

The leaders will undoubtedly not turn to the subsidiary slate until the convention control and platform fight have been settled.

CHEERS FOR BOTH.

Saratoga Crowd Makes Big Demonstrations for Leaders in Fight.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Noise started with the convention crowd to-day and not all of it was for Col. Roosevelt. Although somewhat belated, Vice President Sherman had his own demonstration, and a big one, after the Colonel had been received in triumphant fashion.

"Wait till Roosevelt gets here," was the slogan hours before Col. Roosevelt appeared. "Here comes the convention," said Abraham Gruber, when the whistle of his train was heard in the distance. This whistle was the signal for the most remarkable demonstration that has ever ushered in a Republican Convention. There had been a rush from the United States Hotel, in fact from the entire village, to the railroad station. Thousands of people gathered there, and when Col. Roosevelt stepped from the train a mighty cheer went up.

The Colonel's train did not arrive on time—trust Roosevelt luck to give the necessary theatrical setting and time for the crowd to arrive. The train was scheduled for 2:30 o'clock; it was nearly an hour later when it arrived. Lloyd C. Griscom had made all necessary arrangements for the reception. The only band on the premises, Dorian's, from Troy, was pressed into service, and at the head of the New York delegation it was ready. The moment the Colonel appeared on the train platform it struck up, "A Hot Time in the Old Town To-night."

Fighting Look of Roosevelt.

The Colonel wore a vast, substantial smile. It brought a wild outburst of cheers. He alighted, and, surrounded by Mr. Griscom, Herbert Parsons, Otto T. Bannard, and other New York leaders, started the procession on the short walk to the United States Hotel, while the crowd cheered itself hoarse.

The Colonel entered the open court, on three sides of which the capacious veranda extends, like a conquering hero. Choice veranda seats had been at a premium all morning, and several score women, wives for the most part of delegates, had the front ones. When the Colonel appeared, a few feet behind the band, every one was standing and cheering. He marched half way around the inclosure, bowing profusely. His smile had gone, giving place to a set, fighting expression. Nothing but fight had been talked here since Saturday. The Colonel seemed to realize the sentiment of the gathering, and he gave every outward semblance of a gladiator come to combat.

The Colonel about 3:30 o'clock marched up the steps of the veranda and made straight for Mr. Griscom's quarters, with several hundred persons at his heels. When he reached Mr. Griscom's room the doors were closed. Almost immediately he reappeared upon the upper balcony. The crowd massed in the vacant space upon the lawn below cheered. The Colonel waved his hat again and again. Then he motioned for silence.

"I will not make a speech here," he said, with a squaring of the jaw. "My speech will come to-morrow." He emphasized his few remarks with a shake of the fist. It caught the crowd, and there was a loud cheer. He then vanished into his quarters.

The Colonel's reception was in striking contrast to the quiet entrance into town of his rival, Vice President Sherman, earlier in the day. Mr. Sherman by an adroit reversal of tactics, however, changed the situation completely.

Few Knew of Sherman's Coming.

Mr. Sherman came in shortly before 9 o'clock this morning. There was no one to meet him, and he slipped through the crowd to his quarters. Not more than half a dozen persons knew that he had arrived. He got hearty handshakes from Barnes, Payn, and other allies. After he had got his bearings he mingled among his delegates in cheerful fashion. He showed irascibility, however, when a photographer attempted to snapshot him when he was bending over the veranda railing shaking hands with a sympathizer.

"Don't you know any better than to take a picture of a man in such an undignified position?" he exploded.

"Well, I was only trying to get some action," replied the photographer.

"You'll get all the action you want if you try that trick again," snapped Mr. Sherman, moving away.

There had been no organized effort on the part of the Old Guard to get up a demonstration. After the Roosevelt reception Barnes looked dejected, and it required all the efforts of Wadsworth, Payn, and Woodruff to cheer him up. Suddenly Mr. Sherman awoke the party by bursting in upon them, waving a telegram.

"Here's news from home," he shouted.

The telegram was from 500 Utica admirers and was signed "The Bunch." It stated that their special train was approaching, although a half hour late, and plenty of enthusiasm was aboard. There was a hurried conference, and it was decided that Mr. Sherman would have to disappear for a time. Ex-Congressman Lucius M. Littauer happened in just then, and he took Mr. Sherman out, with a promise to bring him back in time to meet the delegation. The arrangements worked to perfection. When the Utica train rolled in Rouss's Band, which was with the party, stepped off and started up several lively airs. This brought a rush from the hotel and the near-by streets. Soon there were as many people on hand as had been there earlier to greet Roosevelt. At the head of the Utica delegation was Thomas Wheeler, ex-Mayor of Utica; W. G. Mayer of Waterville, and a few other trusty lieutenants. A glee club had been picked up, and everything was in readiness for a big noise.

Just as the train pulled in Mr. Sherman drove up in an automobile and got out. His delegation immediately surrounded him, and the band struck up "It's Always Fair Weather." There was a procession to the hotel, with Mr. Sherman directly behind the band. There was round and round of applause, and the adherents of the Old Guard perked up and shouted.

Sherman Slaps at Foes.

When Mr. Sherman and his delegation reached the inclosure of the hotel he circumnavigated it several times, and then reached the band stand in the centre. He mounted it, and after the cheers had subsided he said:

"Surface indications point to the fact that about 5,000 of you prefer to hear your own voices to mine. I would like to say that there never was a time when I preferred to hear my own voice to hearing that of others. [Cries, "Hit 'em again."] I shall not announce to you that I will speak in the convention to-morrow, but I will say that I will speak in the convention to-morrow if a majority so will. [Cheers and cries of "You will speak, all right."]

"I always bow to the will of the majority, which is my only boss. I do not want to make a speech if you do not want to hear me make it, but I do want to express my thanks to that stalwart body of Oneida business men which has come here to answer by its presence the claptrap of the opposition. I am here and you are here because we are Republicans anxious to do all that we can to produce party harmony and party success. We have had in the Republican Party many great men in the past, but their greatness was due to the fact that the rank and file of the party elevated them to leadership. It is the possibilities of the work of the rank and file that has made the history of this country and the history of its great men.

"I want to thank you for this demonstration, which I take not as a personal one, but rather as an appreciation of one who for three decades has stood shoulder to shoulder with the workers of the Republican Party—and come what may, I will always stand for the basic principles of the party, which have made it possible for us to live in the greatest and most prosperous country that the world has yet looked upon."

While Mr. Sherman was making his speech Col. Roosevelt was within earshot in the quarters of the Rensselaer County delegation. He did not once look out of the window.

"Is this a circus?" he querulously inquired.

"No, it's Sherman's march to the sea," came the response.

"Oh, that's all right," said Mr. Barnes. "I thought Roosevelt had a cinch on all the noise."

Mrs. Von Claussen There.

While the Roosevelt and Sherman demonstrations were the picturesque features of the day, there were other developments which held the interest of the crowd. First there was the arrival of Mrs. Ida Von Claussen, who recently attacked officers of the United States Bond and Mortgage Company in New York.

Her fame as a pugilist had preceded her, and there was a rush to see her. She wore a mauve gown, with a picture hat trimmed with an enormous black feather. Mrs. Von Claussen would not admit that she had come here expressly to see Mr. Roosevelt, as had been reported, but declared that she would not avoid an interview with the great man.

To-day saw the arrival of the last of the delegations. Some of Woodruff's men came up on the same train with the Colonel, and this completed the aggregation. The hotel corridors are teeming. The streets are filled with visitors, and old inhabitants say nothing like it has been seen since the old racing-gambling days when Saratoga was in its glory.

There are more women here than have been seen at a Republican Convention in years. The atmosphere is entirely a curious one and the majority of the visitors candidly admit that they came to see the fun. It is well understood that the big fight will be made in the convention, and the convention hall will be the Mecca to-morrow. The hall seats about 5,000 people, but fully 15,000 have applied for admittance. There is every indication of a memorable crush at the convention doors.

One of the central figures of interest here is County Chairman Griscom. His is not an athletic figure and he does not wear a militant attitude. It is his first convention, and he has assumed the nonchalant demeanor of one who carries weighty matters on his mind.

"Where's the boss?" inquired the delegate.

"What boss?" he was asked.

"Why, Boss Griscom," was the response. The remark was received with loud mirth.

ROOSEVELT CHEERED HERE.

Has Nothing to Say as He Takes Train for Saratoga.

Col. Roosevelt was lustily cheered yesterday morning as the Saratoga Springs and Montreal Express pulled out of the Grand Central Station with the Colonel and several of his political friends on board. A hundred or more men, some of them railroad employes, had gathered in the train shed to see the Colonel off for the convention. They swung their hats in the air as the train started and the station echoed with their shouts.

At 9:25 o'clock, five minutes before train time, Col. Roosevelt arrived at the Forty-third Street entrance to the station, having motored up from Oyster Bay. With his black felt hat pulled down on his forehead and wearing a rain coat, the Colonel attracted little attention as he walked through the station, but in the train shed he found a crowd awaiting his appearance. Reporters, of course, were there. But to them he exclaimed:

"Not a word! Not a word!"

He hustled into the parlor car, where he found State Senator J. M. Wainwright of Westchester and Henry L. Stimson, former United States District Attorney. Col. Roosevelt is backing Senator Wainwright in his fight for renomination. Mr. Stimson, so his friends say, has a chance of being chosen as the Gubernatorial standard-bearer.

Charles W. Anderson, Collector of Internal Revenue, shook hands with Col. Roosevelt as he reached the car. The Colonel greeted him as an old friend.

If Judge Gaynor had said that he was a candidate and would accept the nomination months ago, instead of saying he was not a candidate and would not accept the nomination, I should never have been a candidate. Now I shall fight it out in the convention."

ANTI-GAYNORITES DISGUSTED.

They Think Mayor Will Be Nominated and Will Accept.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 26.—News of Mayor Gaynor's letter declaring that he is not a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor reached Rochester to-night. It made no impression at all on the leading Democrats of this neighborhood, except one of half humorous discontent.

The whole atmosphere here is hostile to his nomination. This block of counties has been tied up to Havens and the real insiders in the anti-Gaynor movement have been pinning their faith to what they call his indecision and irresoluteness. Mayor Gaynor's letter does not in the least change their opinion on that question. They do not regard it as indicating that he will refuse the nomination; still less that he will be a candidate. In fact, it may be said to have removed the last hope from them.

They have been hoping against hope that Gaynor would be scared out by the fear of defeat and would issue a statement refusing to run. The rumor was widespread this evening that he had made that sort of a statement, and for a brief time the anti-Gaynorites were happy, though hardly believing in their own luck.

Late to-night, when the actual letter came, they took no pains to conceal their disappointment or their disgust.

"It's all over," one of them said. "Gaynor will be nominated on the first ballot, and we might as well devote our time to figuring out the Lieutenant Governorship and who will be nominated for State Engineer and Surveyor."

Most of the rest refused to discuss the subject at all, but it was plain that they were bitterly disappointed. They regarded Gaynor's letter as a mere statement that he would not be a candidate meaning that he would not canvass for the nomination, and in no sense a refusal to accept the nomination. Nothing but that, they believe, can prevent his nomination next Friday to head the ticket, and that has not been forthcoming.

They believe Gaynor's letter means he will take the nomination if it comes to him, and they are convinced that New York City intends to force him on the ticket.

Gaynor on First Ballot.

To-night they are trying desperately to evoke some of the old anti-New York City sentiment among the up-State people, but are meeting with only a languid response. The impression here to-night is that the Mayor will be nominated on the first ballot and that it will be made unanimous before the roll is corrected.

The despairing anti-Gaynor outfit is now trying as a last resort to raise the Hearst bugaboo. The incoming delegates are being dragged aside and told that if Gaynor is nominated Hearst will certainly oppose him—not with an Independent ticket, but with a straight-out support of the Republican nominee. They are being warned that the nomination of Gaynor means Democratic defeat in the coming election.

The nearer the convention approaches the more pitiable appears the fight against Gaynor. Back of it there is a sullen resentment against Tammany Hall and Charles F. Murphy, whom the up-Staters hold responsible for the pressing of Gaynor's name. The influences behind Gaynor are taking nothing for granted and are redoubling their efforts as the convention approaches.

Maurice Minton and the mysterious people he represents have engaged rooms at the Seneca, the shadowy League of Gaynor Clubs has engaged quarters at the Whitcomb, and on Wednesday there is to be a "State Convention" of an organization known as the Progressive Democracy, which is expected to nominate Gaynor for Governor and Thomas M. Osborne for Lieutenant Governor. They are to do this the day before the State Convention meets, and apparently expect their action to have a big influence with the regulars.

Chairman John F. Daily of the Monroe County Committee asserts that Havens will have between 100 and 150 votes, and he lists as his counties Monroe, Ontario, Livingston, Schuyler, Chemung, Steuben, Cattaraugus, Allegany, Jefferson, Wyoming, Niagara, Orleans, and Yates, with votes to increase the number from various "big cities" up the State not otherwise designated. He admits that Monroe and Livingston are the only counties instructed for Havens.

After all, the anti-Gaynor argument comes down to this: "He won't take it."

It may not seem a very inspiring way of getting votes against a candidate, but that is really all there is to the anti-Gaynor movement. The men who are raising the Hearst bugaboo do not themselves believe there is anything in it, and will tell you so in moments of candor. That is to say, they believe that Hearst will do as they predict, but they do not expect that fact to detach any appreciable number of votes from Gaynor in the convention.

The Havens supporters are the only ones who have undertaken so far to put up even the imitation of a real fight. With all that has been said about Congressman Sulzer and his boom, there is not a sign of it here up to this time. Osborne is going to open headquarters Wednesday, but not till then, and he does not appear to have anything with him except Cayuga County. His dilatoriness is taken to indicate that what he is really trying to get is the nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Candidates for Other Offices.

It looks as though Winfield A. Huppoch of Washington County would get the nomination for State Controller. Chairman Dix, who comes from Washington County himself, wants him nominated, and there does not seem to be any effective opposition. Ex-Controller Martin H. Glynn, Luke McHenry of Madison County, Mayor Fiske of Mount Vernon, and Samuel J. Tilden, a grandnephew of the late Samuel J. Tilden, are spoken of, but Huppoch seems to have the inside track. Tilden is supposed to be really a candidate for Secretary of State, for which John S. Whalen is also a candidate.

John J. Kennedy of Erie is the leading candidate for State Treasurer. He is supposed to be an anti-Conners man.

For Attorney General Frank A. Patterson of New York has the centre of the stage. Thomas F. Carmody of Yates and Charles N. Bulger of Oswego are also spoken of.

The candidates for State Engineer and Surveyor are Martin Schenck of Rensselaer, Richard W. Sherman of Oneida, a relative of the Vice President, and Ricker of Erie.

John A. Mason, Secretary of the State Committee, got here to-day and took his quarters at the Whitcomb. He promptly set about making the arrangements for the convention.

The State Committee will meet on Wednesday night. Not much is to be transacted, but there are some interesting and important changes impending in the committee itself.

For instance there is a fight against Arthur McLean of Orange, who is Treasurer of the State Committee and a big man in the organization. Whether McLean will win or not remains to be seen. Robert Winthrop Chanler is to be dropped, and Edward E. Perkins will get his place. There is a fight against Stephen Ryan, long known as a Conners lieutenant. Otsego County wants his place and Madison is said to be opposed to him.

Harry S. Patten of Oneida will probably be succeeded by ex-Senator Townsend and William N. Cameron by John Addison, Jr. Patten and Cameron were put on the committee when the old liners were thrown out at the Carnegie Hall convention. Charles F. Rattigan of Auburn, who was dropped at the same time, is coming back. Judge Bulger of Oswego may be succeeded by Charles E. Norris of Jefferson, and Thomas B. Heffernan of the Chuatauqua-Cattaraugus district will be followed by Thomas B. Cummings. Arthur H. Murphy will succeed Louis F. Haffen of the Bronx, and there is a possibility that Wesley J. Springstead may have to give way to a new man from Richmond County.

John H. McCooey of Brooklyn is to be here to-morrow for his first appearance at a State convention in the rôle of a boss. It won't be much of an appearance. James Kane, Patrick Quinn, and James Sinnett have been appointed an "advisory committee" to tell McCooey what to do and whatever they decide on will be done by the King's County delegation. All McCooey will have to do in the convention will be to get up and announce the results determined by Kane, Quinn, and Sinnett.

REPUBLICANS NOT SURPRISED.

Think Gaynor's Nomination and Acceptance Are Now Assured.

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA, Sept. 26.—When the substance of Mayor Gaynor's letter was read to Republican leaders here to-night they did not seem surprised, and declared that they believe his nomination and acceptance are now assured. They evidently made up their minds a long time ago that the Mayor would be at the head of the opposition ticket this Fall. It seems that practically all the leaders have carried this in their minds in making their plans.

About the only prominent member of the New York City delegation who would talk of the matter to-night was Tristram B. Johnson, the Republican leader of the Board of Aldermen.

"I am not surprised that the Mayor has announced himself in this manner," he said. "I also hope, as he says, that he can serve the city as well as Governor as he has as Mayor, or even better. How does he know that he will have a chance to do it, however? It seems to me that there is a lot to be settled in the next few days. His candidacy will add life to the campaign, however."

It is known that the Mayor has strong ideas on the subject of irregularity in the initiation of legislation at Albany affecting the City of New York, and it has been expected that if he decided to run for Governor he would make a decided point of this to offset the idea which is prevalent among a large portion of the citizens of New York that he placed himself last Fall under a real pledge to serve out his full term as Mayor. At the hearings which he held during the Summer on the city bills passed by the last Legislature he frequently remarked the lack of complete or satisfactory consideration in the drawing of local bills and was emphatic in his denunciation of the entire system.

SULZER BOOMED IN BRONX.

Much Enthusiasm at Meeting Which Indorses Him for Governor.

A thousand or more Democrats living in the Bronx gathered last night at Niblo's Garden, at Third Avenue and 170th Street, to indorse the candidacy of Congressman William Sulzer for the Democratic nomination for Governor, and to wish him luck at the convention at Rochester.

Judging by the noise they made the Bronx Democrats are very fond of Congressman Sulzer and would like to see him Governor. A brass band and two fife and drum corps marched through the streets to encourage attendance at the mass meeting. Inside the hall Mr. Sulzer's friends shouted and cheered whenever an excuse presented itself.

Altogether it was a very enthusiastic sendoff for the candidate, who will start this morning with a hundred or more faithful followers in a special train for Rochester.

The Congressman reiterated his pledges to the voters last night, and told them he was quite convinced that the rank and file of Democracy throughout the State favored his nomination.

"If I am the next Governor," he said, "I will recommend to the Legislature the following matters, in which the people of this State take a deep and an abiding interest, and do all in my power to enact them into laws:

"First—Ballot reform by simplifying the ballot along the lines of the Australian or Massachusetts ballot laws; reform in registration.

"Second—Legislation in favor of direct nominations of all candidates for office, so that the people of our State shall nominate the candidates as well as elect them.

"Third—Election of United States Senators by the people.

"Fourth—Home rule and local self-government for our cities, towns, and villages.

"Fifth—In favor of the ratification of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution, so that wealth as well as work shall bear its just share of the burdens of government.

"Sixth—In favor of a sensible, broad-minded, businesslike administration of Governmental affairs, with honesty and practical economy all along the line as the watchwords; stop graft; make public office a public trust.

"Seventh—Internal improvements; good roads; better waterways, and the sensible conservation of all our natural resources.

"Eighth—Reduce the cost of the necessaries of life. Ever since 1896 the average family has been gradually losing its hold on the means of physical existence.

"Ninth—Rigidly enforce the laws against the criminal trusts; make corporate guilt personal; stop monopolies from oppressing the people."

Resolutions were adopted indorsing Mr. Sulzer and copies will be sent to-day to all the delegates to the Rochester Convention. Several speakers were on hand to say nice things about the Congressman. Charles D. Steurer presided. Among those who spoke were ex-Congressman Lafayette Pence of Colorado, Col. Alexander S. Bacon, and Bernard Larger, Secretary of the Garment Workers' Union.

LEAGUERS TO HAVE TRAIN.

The Democratic League of New York County will send a delegation of 250 to Rochester by special train over the New York Central, leaving Wednesday morning. The league's conference will be held in the Hotel Seneca, Rochester, on the eve of the Democratic State Convention.

The delegation will be headed by Robert Grier Monroe, County Chairman, and William Temple Emmet, Chairman of the Executive Committee, and the others include Morgan J. O'Brien, John Fox, William E. Curtis, Henry De Forest Baldwin, Paul Fuller, Frederic R. Coudert, Edward S. Rapallo, Frank L. Ely, Sylvester J. O'Sullivan, Lee Kohns, Benjamin Tuska, John F. Cowan, Abraham Korn, W. J. K. Fifth Avenue & Thirty-ninth Street New York

When the brakeman called "Hillcrest" the stranger got off. He had to walk three miles to the town.

Returning hot, tired and mad, he said to the ticket agent:

"Why don't you have the station near the town?"

"Because," answered the agent, "we find it more convenient to have it near the railroad."

Many advertisers feel like the railroad. It has not yet occurred to them to bring the station and the town together.

Many advertisers making goods that not only might be, but actually are bought by farmers, are not advertising these goods where farmers will read about them. The farmer is too far away from the mediums which carry their advertising.

Farm and Fireside will bring your station and the farmer's town nearer together. Farm and Fireside will place your goods before the farmer who is anxious to buy and able to pay. Farm and Fireside immediately opens up a new market of 450,000 homes and farms that must buy everything somewhere.

STEWART HAS WIFE EVICTED IN JERSEY

Attorneys and Court Attaches Go to Montclair House and Carry Mrs. Stewart Out.

PUT DAUGHTER OUT, TOO

Both Seek Refuge in the Hotel—Wife Blames Mrs. Leeds, Mr. Stewart's Daughter, for Her Ejection.

There was a climax to the domestic differences of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stewart when Mrs. Stewart and her daughter, Miss Ferne Parkhurst, were forcibly evicted yesterday from their home, 203 South Mountain Avenue, Montclair, N. J. Mrs. Stewart sought refuge in the Hotel Montclair, where she accused her husband and his daughter, Mrs. W. B. Leeds, widow of a wealthy tin plate manufacturer, of conspiring to force her from her home and obtain valuable papers which are in her possession.

Shortly after noon half a dozen men, among whom were representatives of Warren, Thompson & Pelgren, the attorneys for Mrs. Leeds, representatives of Mr. Stewart's attorneys, and attaches of the District Court, appeared at the Stewart house. As soon as the front door was opened they brushed by the maid and entered the hall. Some of them went to Mrs. Stewart's room on the second floor and demanded admission. Mrs. Stewart was dressing, and she asked them to wait. The answer was an attack that broke the panel and permitted the men to unlatch the door and enter.

Mrs. Stewart said that her maid attempted to shield her until she put on a waist, but that the men brushed the maid aside, and, seizing her, wrapped a sheet about her, which they had taken from the bed. Then they carried her bodily down the steps and out on the porch.

Miss Parkhurst was in another part of the house. She was being evicted, too. When she caught sight of her mother being carried to the street she attempted to run back into the house to get her private papers and belongings. This, she says, she was restrained from doing.

With mother and daughter standing on the porch the men started in to close up the house. From an upper window one tossed down a waist which Mrs. Stewart put on. Miss Parkhurst wore a plain golf suit.

Every one in the neighborhood witnessed the eviction and some one telephoned for the local police. When the police came the two women had been shut out of the house.

Mrs. Stewart telephoned to her lawyer, Frederic W. Smith of Newark. He lost no time in getting to Montclair.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart up to a few months ago lived at 135 Central Park West. In the Spring of this year they moved to Montclair. Several times Mr. and Mrs. Stewart have had differences and separated. The last time was when they were living at the Hotel Langham. Then Mrs. Leeds stepped in and after effecting a reconciliation purchased the Montclair house for $200,000 as a home for her father and his wife. Mrs. Stewart spent $50,000 refurnishing the interior.

She said last night that there had been no peace. Mr. Stewart, it is said, took a dislike to Jack, a bulldog which was given to Mrs. Stewart last Christmas. He threatened to kill it. Then he took a dislike to the gardener and discharged him. On Aug. 4 he left home and went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Henderson Green, in Summit, N. J. His wife said that he is in such bad health that he is in charge of a nurse. Mrs. Leeds is at present in Paris.

After Mr. Stewart's departure Mrs. Stewart said her troubles began. First the telephone service was suspended, and within the last four days the gas, water, and electric light service has been stopped. Since her husband left home Mrs. Stewart has been living on an allowance order of her husband. Two weeks ago detectives began to watch the house.

Two men stood guard in front of the house last night. They met callers at the foot of the sloping lawn, and in reply to inquiries said they did not know where Mr. Stewart or his wife could be found. At the hotel Mrs. Stewart, somewhat composed after her experience of the afternoon, gave out a statement of her troubles. She did not spare either Mr. Stewart or Mrs. Leeds. She said she married Mr. Stewart on Oct. 12, 1899. She was a Miss Estella E. Baker. Her first husband was Mr. Parkhurst.

"I am a descendant of King William IV. and can trace my ancestry back to the year 1016," she said dramatically.

"There is no earthly reason for to-day's cruel act, and I lay all my trouble at Mrs. Leeds's door. She and her father have repaid us for kindness by throwing us out into the street. I believe our eviction the result of a deep laid plot to get some papers I have in my possession. I was not caught unawares. Before those men broke into my room I managed to secrete my papers in my skirt. To-night these are in a place where Mrs. Leeds or her representatives can never get them.

"I have $15,000 worth of dresses still in the house, and all my own jewelry and that of my daughter is there, too. I do not know just what I shall do to secure redress."

BRYAN CLAIMS DOCTRINES.

Says Roosevelt Has Just Discovered Old Democratic Principles.

PUEBLO Col., Sept. 26.—William J. Bryan in an address before a mass meeting to-day charged Theodore Roosevelt with having advocated old-time Democratic principles in many of his addresses on his recent Western tour. Referring to Col. Roosevelt's Osawatomie speech on "New Nationalism," Mr. Bryan said:

"The Democratic Party has preached this doctrine for fourteen years, and in 1900 incorporated it in its platform, quite in contrast with the distinguished gentleman, who appears to have just made the discovery that this doctrine is correct and progressive and just.

"In his expressions regarding railroad regulation, the income tax, swollen fortunes, and publicity of campaign contributions, Mr. Roosevelt has merely followed a well-established Democratic lead. For years Democratic platforms have been clamoring for legislation in this direction."

FAIR TO CATHOLIC CHARITIES.

State Boards Do Not Discriminate, Conference of Catholics Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Reports on the conditions of Catholic charities from practically all sections of the country were read to-day at the forenoon session of the First National Conference of Catholic Charities, which was held at the Catholic University of America, and was presided over by James F. Kennedy of Chicago. Most of the reports dealt with the question of fairness or unfairness of State charities and institutions to Catholic interests.

Practically all of the reports show an absence of prejudice on the part of officials, and declared that the administrations of State Boards of Charity were fair and just; and that there was no effort on the part of State institutions to interfere with the religious and spiritual interest of Catholics. Committees reported from the following States: New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Minnesota, Nebraska, Maryland, Illinois, Wisconsin, West Virginia, Arkansas, Oregon, Louisiana, District of Columbia, New Hampshire, Missouri, Rhode Island, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Virginia, Georgia, and Iowa.

annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Railroad about certain charges, but I looked into the matter and could find nothing wrong with any charges that I saw."

"How do you suppose the letter got out, if you did not give a copy to any one?"

"That's too much for me, as I have told you. I should like to have some one explain it to me. I sent the letter, and somehow it got out. That's the whole story."

"You cannot give the source of your information about the bill against Mr. Roosevelt?"

"No, it has been common gossip. I have no specific information on the subject."

"Mr. McCrea has received a letter from Mr. Devine. The letter has been answered, and further than that Mr. McCrea will have nothing to say, nor will he give out any correspondence relating to the subject."

In the business world the import of this controversy was discussed all day. Financial men seemed to see in the Devine letter a veiled attack on the Roosevelt policies, retaliation for his antagonistic attitude to the railroads. They were especially anxious to know how its publication came about. Mr. Roosevelt's friends said it looked much like a political trick.

At Saratoga last night Col. Roosevelt refused to discuss the charge that he owes the Pennsylvania $100,000 for transportation.

Settles His Bills Monthly with the Long Island Road—Once Went Free.

Col. Roosevelt and his family have for many years had an open account with the Long Island Railroad as a matter of convenience to the Roosevelts, who necessarily travel and have a great deal of freight and express matter on that road between New York and Oyster Bay, L. I., on the outskirts of which is Sagamore Hill. This fact was learned yesterday, following the publication of the story concerning the letter written by John D. Devine, a stockholder of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to President McCrea of that road, asking if the statement were true that Col. Roosevelt owes the Pennsylvania $100,000 for special trains and other railroad accommodations for his frequent trips through the country while President.

The fact that the Roosevelts have an account with the Long Island Railroad was not generally known. It was admitted by an official of the road when a TIMES reporter visited the office of President Ralph Peters of the Long Island to inquire whether Col. Roosevelt owed that road any money for transportation. But this account only applies to freight and express matter. The Roosevelts pay cash for passenger transportation.

Speaking on authorization from President Peters, his secretary, P. H. Woodward, said that the Roosevelts owed the Long Island Railroad nothing for special trains or other unusual transportation facilities and had never owed the railroad a bill longer than thirty days at a time. He said that no more consideration was accorded Col. Roosevelt and his family than is accorded any other patron of the road.

Mr. Woodward said that he had not seen the published letter from the Pennsylvania's stockholder. When its contents was told him he said that the idea was absurd.

Absurd Says Woodward.

"There are very few railroads who do not have among their stockholders some excitable man or woman who jumps at conclusions and listens to every story concerning supposed irregularities of the company's administration," he said. "And such is doubtless the case in this instance. It is absurd to suppose that the Pennsylvania would allow Col. Roosevelt to owe the railroad $100,000 or any other sum longer than a month or more. Such bills are collected, irrespective of persons."

When the reporter wanted to know whether Col. Roosevelt or any member of his family owed the Long Island Railroad for transportation of any kind Mr. Woodward said that he would communicate with the station agent at Oyster Bay and see just what the Roosevelts owed, if anything. He talked with the agent over the long-distance telephone, and a moment later turned to the reporter and said:

"At the end of August the Roosevelts owed the Long Island nothing. Their bill for the month was paid then. The September bill has not been paid and will not be until the end of the month. Col. Roosevelt is very punctual about these things. He never allows a bill to run along."

Mr. Woodward said that the privilege of having a running account for freight and express accorded to the Roosevelts was not at all unusual, and that a large number of patrons have such accounts.

Roosevelts Pay Monthly.

"No account is allowed to run more than thirty days," he added, "the Roosevelts' included. The accounts are kept by the station agents along the line."

"Is it not true that the Long Island Road, along with many other railroads, furnish free transportation for certain men of note who may be in a position to do the railroads much good or harm as the case may be?" asked the reporter.

"It may have been so in the old days," said Mr. Woodward. "It is certainly not so now. No railroad is going to take the chance of evading the law which prohibits them from extending the passes to any one not in the road's employ."

The reporter suggested that the law might be evaded by a railroad allowing a patron to open an account, and that instead of accepting payment of the bill the railroad could forward a receipted bill to him.

"That would be a palpable evasion of the law," said Mr. Woodward, "and is certainly not done on this railroad or any others that I know about.

"In the early years of Mr. Roosevelt's Administration this railroad, as well as others, extended him courtesies in the matter of special trains and free transportation, but later Mr. Roosevelt paid his transportation bills, just as President Taft is doing at present. The days of the free passes are over and the free special trains are over."

Mr. Woodward was asked if he could supply any figures showing the amounts paid monthly or annually to the Long Island by the Roosevelt family. He said that no such figures were available.

"But I can say that the Long Island is not getting rich off the Roosevelts," he added. "Last year Mr. Roosevelt was in Africa and of course did not travel on the Long Island. His family was also abroad for several months during the present year. So you see it will be difficult to strike an average for the year."

The New York Evening Post in an editorial yesterday said:

> The most costly excursion was the trip to the Pacific Coast undertaken in April, 1903. If our information is correct, this trip cost $47,000; The World lists the expense as $66,000. This train was sixty-six days on the road, Mr. Roosevelt spending a vacation of ten days in the Yellowstone Park. During that time the special train, which was arranged for by Mr. Loeb personally, and was stocked by the Pennsylvania Railroad with the best viands, the costliest wines and cigars, remained at Gardiner, the entrance to the Park, with the reporters and clerks on board. The Pennsylvania's representative on the train locked up the wines and cigars on Mr. Roosevelt's departure for the Park, but, in response to urgent telegrams from Mr. Roosevelt's chief underling, the cases were unlocked and the newspaper men and clerks fared until the President's return as they had during his presence—on the fat of the land at the expense of the Pennsylvania's stockholders.

Mr. Roosevelt proceeded thence to the Yosemite and was hailed everywhere on the Pacific Coast as the champion of the people against the "interests" and large corporations. The expense of this trip was considerably more than the Pennsylvania expected. If we are correctly informed, it made some inquiries with a view of obtaining recompense, since it had to pay the Northern Pacific and other railroads, as well as the Pullman Company, and also the merchants who delivered the food and drink. But it speedily abandoned its efforts to obtain reimbursement.

"It is very unjust to Col. Roosevelt to give the impression that he owes the Pennsylvania Railroad a large sum of money," said an intimate friend of Col. Roosevelt yesterday.

"I know that this account was settled long ago, and also the bills presented by another railroad.

"Col. Roosevelt is by no means a poor man. His income is considerably more than $50,000 a year, and he has no extravagant tastes. In addition to his private fortune, which is not inconsiderable, he has $12,000 a year from The Outlook; he received $50,000 from Scribner's for his African articles, and has a royalty on the book of, I believe, 20 per cent. His other books brought him in $15,000 a year in royalties, up to a year or two ago, and I fancy his conspicuous position before the public should stimulate their sale.

"Some two years ago Col. Roosevelt was offered $1,000 a lecture for fifty lectures, but he declined the offer, as he did not want to be in the 'Bryan class.'"

WOMAN LOSES HER MEMORY.

Richly Dressed and of Unusual Beauty, She's in Hospital Unidentified.

A young woman of unusual beauty, clothed in a tan-colored gown of expensive material, was removed from the Alexander Avenue Station to the Lincoln Hospital last night, suffering from what Dr. Alexander, the hospital surgeon, described as amnesia, a special form of aphasia. She had wandered into the Bronx Branch of the Young Men's Christian Association, at 152d Street and Spencer Place. She could not remember her name or address or give a reason for her presence there.

Supt. Lawrence telephoned for his wife. Mrs. Lawrence tried to prompt the memory of the young woman, but she met with failure. Then Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence took their charge to the Alexander Avenue Station. Dr. Alexander, from the Lincoln Hospital, placed his own room at the disposal of the young woman. She seemed weary and slept.

When she awakened she received a glass of water. She seemed thankful for the attention, but was unable to express the simple words of thanks. A telephone book was placed before her, in the hope that she might be able to turn to her address. Other methods of suggestion were tried, but none succeeded. Efforts were made to gain some clue to her identity from her clothing, but there were no marks upon the young woman's handkerchief or gloves.

The young woman's stockings and shoes were tan colored, as well as the gown. She wore a velvet turban and a gold bracelet.

TSAI HSUN IN WASHINGTON.

Chinese Prince to Meet the President and Dine with Him To-day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Prince Tsai Hsun, uncle of the Emperor of China, with a suite of twenty-three persons, arrived in Washington to-night, and faces a busy day to-morrow.

At 10 o'clock he will be waited upon by Secretary of State Knox and Secretary Meyer of the Navy. Afterward the royal visitor will proceed to the White House to pay his respects. In the evening the President will entertain him and the members of his entourage at dinner.

The party was met at the station by Capt. Butt, the President's military aid, who represented Mr. Taft in welcoming the distinguished visitors to the capital.

$400,000 Off Cathedral Debt.

The second payment on the $850,000 mortgage on St. Patrick's Cathedral was made yesterday when Archbishop Farley signed a check for $400,000. The church has been burdened by the heavy debt for many years. There is now a balance of $250,000, and this, says the Archbishop, will be paid by noon on Saturday. The payments made up to the present time total $600,000.

An official of the diocese said that the Seamen's Saving Bank held the entire amount of the mortgage. It is estimated that the earnings on the loan were from $35,000 to $40,000. It is said that the total amount of the mortgage has been subscribed.

D. P. Stubbs's Condition Grave.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26.—A fighting chance for his life is all that the doctors give Donald P. Stubbs, son of J. C. Stubbs of Chicago, Vice President and Traffic Director of the Southern Pacific Railroad, who is in a hospital here, wounded, as the result of a supposed accident with a revolver on Saturday night. Young Stubbs, who is General Agent in Cleveland for the Union Pacific Road, is 30 years old, and a graduate of Nevada State University. His condition is said to be rendered the more serious because he is very despondent and expresses no desire to live, declaring that his life has been a failure.

PROMISED HIM THREE BRIDES.

Two Imaginary—Case of Osborne, Money Gone, Called Hypnotism.

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTHINGTON, Conn., Sept. 26.—Selectman Arthur Lewis this evening pronounced one of hypnotism the case of George F. Osborne, the well-to-do watch dealer who on Saturday had William Barnes arrested for tricking him out of $6,000. The means used, it was alleged, consisted of letters purporting to come from young women whom Osborne had never seen, but who promised, the letters indicated, to marry him at some future time.

Francis Brown, the town Prosecuting Attorney, said that Barnes had admitted so much that the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses could be easily proven.

"Evidence has come to light," he added, "which indicates blackmail and a misuse of the United States mails. I think that the case will wind up in the United States Courts."

"Barnes had Osborne completely at his mercy," said Mr. Lewis to-night. "Osborne talked to me freely about the case. He told me that whatever Barnes commanded him to do he went and did. He let Barnes take all of his property under the most barefaced pretexts."

Letters which Osborne showed to-night indicated that Barnes coaxed him into believing that three young women, one after the other, wanted to marry him. The three were Barnes's oldest daughter Ruby, now the wife of Arthur Hazard, and two seemingly fictitious persons named Miss Gladys Wilson and Miss Jennie Homes, both of Philadelphia. Barnes, it is alleged, brought to Osborne letter after letter purporting to come from them and induced Osborne to give him money to take to the young women, who kept sending Osborne letters assuring him that each meant to marry him, and would with their large fortune make good the money he had sent them in his generosity.

Barnes has been in jail since Friday. He got bail to-day and was released to await trial in the Superior Court in December.

PURSUED LINCOLN'S ASSASSIN

Shanley, Who Committed Suicide, Helped Run Down Booth.

John F. Shanley, who killed himself on Saturday, was buried yesterday in Newark. He was a member of the detachment under Lieut. Doherty, which crossed the Rappahannock River and traced the fleeing Booth and Herold to Garrett's Farm after the assassination of President Lincoln. He had served through two years of the war and had been locked up in Libby Prison.

THINK BOY WAS KIDNAPPED.

Six-Year-Old Lad Not Seen Since He Went Driving with Two Strangers.

Peter, the 6-year-old son of Charles Cirincian of 414 Hackensack Plank Road, Union Hill, N. J., is missing, and his father and the police believe he was kidnapped. The lad's father, a dealer in linoleum, said he has received no threatening letters or demands, and was not mixed up in any Armenian societies. He has not an enemy in the world so far as he knows.

When the boy went to school yesterday he was accosted by two men. One of these was not over 19 or 20 years old, slight and dark. The other man was older and short and thick-set. They invited the boy into a candy store at Hackensack Plank Road and Clinton Avenue, West Hoboken, and bought him candy, and then disappeared.

On his way home from school at the same place the same men came along in a carriage drawn by two small gray ponies. When they invited him to ride he entered the carriage, and they drove off.

The Union Hill, West Hoboken, and Weehawken police searched for the boy, and then called on the police of neighboring places. A general alarm will be sent out this morning.

SPIRIT LETTERS USED AS BASIS OF SUIT

Mrs. Funk's Messages Said to Have Cut Off Mrs. Thompson from Husband's Estate.

THEY CAME FROM "MUZZY"

Muzzy Being Mr. Thompson's First Wife—Left His Children $2,000,000 and Second Wife Nothing.

Communications from the spirit world were introduced in court yesterday when a contest over the will of the late Robert H. Thompson, a wealthy paper manufacturer, who died in February last, began before Surrogate Ketcham in Brooklyn. Mr. Thompson left an estate valued at $2,000,000 to be divided among his children. Four months before he died he married the present Mrs. Thompson, who was his stenographer. It is Mrs. Thompson who is contesting the will, and in doing so her lawyers are making a strong fight based on the spiritualistic influence which Mr. Thompson was alleged to be under when he was making his will, cutting off the contestant with nothing.

Mrs. Marion A. Funk, wife of Dr. Merton L. Funk, of 2,500 Newkirk Avenue, is the person who delivered the alleged messages from the spirit world to Mr. Thompson, and it is she whom Mrs. Thompson accuses of having unduly influenced him. Mrs. Funk is the granddaughter and legally adopted daughter of Mr. Thompson and under the terms of the will she receives one quarter of his estate. The communications which she transmitted to the testator purported to come from the spirit of "Muzzy," Mr. Thompson's first wife.

Mrs. Funk took the stand yesterday and told how she began receiving communications from her dead grandmother several years ago. She at first wrote the communications on a scrap of paper and then she destroyed it. Mr. Thompson, she said, became interested in these spirit communications and asked her to preserve them in a book. One of those she saved contained special advice to Mr. Thompson from his first wife on his conduct and his duty to his children.

Mrs. Funk said this communication was received three years ago, but she did not read it to Mr. Thompson until a few weeks before he married his stenographer. Just why there was a delay in giving Mr. Thompson this important message from his first wife is not explained, but the inference is that it was kept in readiness to advise him in case he attempted to amend his will so as to give his second wife a share of his estate. This "communication" reads:

> MARION: I want you to write a little note for me to your father. It is so hard to get you under the complete influence now, though you are stronger in your psychic form than ever. Your life is complete; you are brought in perfect harmony to nature and God.
>
> DEAREST BOB: Will you think it queer if Marion should come to you now, a life in the spirit world? I am still watching for your happiness. I want you to be happy with our children and in their lives, for you have had experience. You can't do wrong and be happy, and you have done wrong, you know you have. Lies, deceit, and selfish things, they are not your nature. The children have always looked up to you with honor and pride in your teaching. You realize how you have fallen from this ideal.
>
> Oh, Bob! All I can say is shame! Oh, Bob, thank God. He gave me another chance to appeal to your higher nature. Oh, Bob, pray for strength, and not let this devil in torment take the strength from you.
>
> I do not write more now. Marion will come and write my feelings for me. Probably we are nearer together than ever. Let us be a living example, that the life of man and wife can work for good and happiness. I want to help you. I will. MUZZY.
>
> Good-bye, little girl. I need you. Don't desert Muzzy now. You are her strength.

Mrs. Funk's testimony took up the entire morning and afternoon sessions of the hearing. She was questioned as to her spiritualistic powers. She denied that she ever saw spirits or heard them talk. She was not a spiritualistic medium, she declared, neither did she fall into a trance when "Muzzy" gave her "messages" to Mr. Thompson. She testified that her experience only recorded certain impressions which she received at seances with her grandfather. Whatever spiritualistic powers she had, she said, were developed by Mr. Thompson. It was her custom to force herself into a mood of complete passiveness to be able to receive messages from her dead grandmother.

Dr. Funk, her husband, is a nephew of Isaac Funk, of Funk & Wagnalls, who was an active figure in the affairs of the First Spiritualistic Church of Brooklyn when Bishop Mrs. Mary Ann Scannell-Pepper Vanderbilt was at the head of the cult there. It will be remembered that Surrogate Ketcham, who presided at yesterday's hearing of the spirit world's mysteries, was one of the commission of three men who held the first examination into the sanity of Edward H. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Pepper's husband.

The hearing in the contest over Mr. Thompson's millions will be resumed to-day.

CHANLER FAILS TO ANSWER.

Plaintiff, Who Is Suing on Tailor's Bill, to Take Judgment by Default.

Robert W. Chanler, who is being sued in the City Court on a $987 tailor bill, failed to file his answer in the time allotted to him by Judge Delehanty. When the court office closed yesterday Chanler's attorneys had not sent in any reply to the summons and complaint which Attorney Irving Minsky of 309 Broadway nailed on the door of his Windsor Arcade studio a week ago.

Matthias Radin, attorney for the plaintiff to whom the tailer assigned the claim, said yesterday: "I shall take judgment by default the first thing to-morrow morning. I will then send out my agents to collect the judgment. If we cannot realize on the judgment within a week, I shall try to get hold of Mr. Chanler and subject him to examination in supplementary proceedings and if possible have a receiver appointed."

W. Russell Osborn, of King & Osborn, attorneys for Natalina Cavalieri, filed formal notice of appearance yesterday in the suit brought in the name of Mrs. Julia Chamberlain Chanler, first wife of the ex-Sheriff of Westchester County, to set aside the now celebrated ante-nuptial indenture.

Name Too Unwieldy, He Changes It.

City Court Judge Delehanty signed an order yesterday permitting Bernard J. Ferramosca, a Curb broker, living at 505 West 141st Street, to change his name to Bernard J. Ferris. Ferramosca said his name was too unwieldy for use in a place of such swift and informal business procedure as the Curb market.

WON'T TELL WHO SHOT HER.

Hurt by Accident, Mrs. Phillips Says—Woman Companion Exonerated.

Mrs. Phyllis Phillips, a chorus girl, who was shot in the vestibule of Masterson's saloon, at Seventh Avenue and Forty-eighth Street, early Sunday morning, is the daughter of a Mr. Curtin, formerly of St. Louis, but now of New Orleans, where he is connected with Dun's Commercial Agency. That was the substance of a dispatch yesterday from St. Louis. The young woman left home two years ago to go on the stage, and her family has heard little from her since. She put in last season with Savage's "Love Cure" company as a show girl.

The young woman, after refusing all day Sunday to tell the detectives how she had come to be shot, made this statement to Detective Kahn yesterday morning:

"I was not the one intended to be shot. It was accidental on my part. I will not reveal the person who discharged the shot. I was struggling to get the pistol. And I won't say anything more about the case."

Before Magistrate Murphy in the West Side Court yesterday Alfred Henshaw, the waiter who was arrested in the Hotel Lincoln, Broadway and Fifty-second Street, whither Mrs. Phillips had been taken from the saloon, was held for examination in $5,000 bail. The charge against him up to yesterday had been that he was a suspicious person.

To the detectives Henshaw repeated yesterday the story he told on Sunday morning when arrested, saying that he had seen Mrs. Phillips, whom he knew slightly, rush out of the saloon, and that he had simply gone to her assistance because she seemed to be in distress. To Detective Kahn's questions he declared that he could not recall all of the facts clearly and would have to think the affair over.

Daniel Clanacy, the bartender at Masterson's saloon, said that he had seen Mrs. Phillips come into the back room with a short, dark man. The detectives are seeking the man so described.

Evelyn Leslie, the actress, who was also with Mrs. Phillips at the time of Henshaw's arrest, and who was held as a material witness on Sunday morning, was discharged yesterday by Magistrate Murphy, who was convinced that she had only answered a call for assistance from her friend and was in no way connected with the shooting.

HUSBAND SUES FOR $100,000.

A. P. Ellsworth Charges H. C. Shimer with Alienating His Wife's Affections.

Alfred P. Ellsworth yesterday filed with the County Clerk a summons and complaint in a suit for $100,000 damages for alienation of affections against Harry C. Shimer, a New York egg commission merchant. Shimer's answer has not yet been filed.

In his complaint Ellsworth accuses Shimer, who he says lives at 345 West Eighty-fifth Street, with having persuaded Mrs. Ellsworth, when he married her Feb. 14, 1896, to leave her home twice and go away with him.

Ellsworth also charges that the divorce action which Mrs. Ellsworth brought in July, 1909, which he says was later discontinued, was instigated by Shimer after he had induced Mrs. Ellsworth to leave her husband's apartments, 1,532 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. Later Mrs. Ellsworth returned to him, her husband says, and he spent $1,500 fitting up an apartment at 1,238 Pacific Street, Brooklyn.

After Mrs. Ellsworth was settled in the new apartment, Ellsworth alleges that Shimer called her on the telephone and induced her to run away again with him by promises of motor-car trips and other inducements. Ellsworth alleges that his wife belittled the preparations he had made for their resumption of housekeeping and told him she had a friend who would give her more than he could. He says she has been seen in Shimer's company at leading New York hotels, which he names.

Shimer, he complains, has boasted of his conquest of Mrs. Ellsworth, and has told acquaintances he is going to take her with him to Florida this Winter. On these and other allegations Ellsworth demands $100,000 damages.

DAVIS NOT IN SUMMIT.

Aged Rich Man Who Eluded Relatives Here Has Not Appeared There.

Special to The New York Times.

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 26.—It is understood here that Robert M. Davis, a wealthy baking powder manufacturer, 70 years old, has eluded the efforts of relatives to detain him at his New York home, 330 Riverside Drive, but he has not appeared here, so far as could be learned to-day. Mr. Davis recently instituted proceedings for divorce from his wife, Jennie W. Davis, who is thirty years his junior. He alleges cruelty as the ground for the petition.

It is said that Mr. Davis escaped by the aid of a nurse, Miss Arthur, whom he is said to contemplate marrying if he succeeds in the suit for divorce. At his home inquirers were referred by a young woman, who refused to say who she was, to Mr. Davis at his factory in Hoboken.

Two years ago, it is alleged by Mrs. Davis, her husband was of unsound mind, and she had three doctors examine him. He objected to that step, and the trouble ensuing resulted in divorce proceedings.

Mrs. Davis is said to be with the Rev. Dr. Hugh Carpenter, a relative, at South Norwalk, Conn. Until ten years ago Mr. Davis lived in Glen Ridge, where he was one of the first members of the Borough Council.

CHURCH TO A MOTHER'S AID.

Catholics Pay Expenses of Her Suit to Regain Child Adopted by Another.

Supreme Court Justice Amend signed an order yesterday sustaining a writ of habeas corpus sued out by Mrs. Ellen McDonald of 6 Dover Street for the return of her infant daughter, Agnes Wilson, who had been adopted by Lyman H. Hodgman of Painted Post, Steuben County, under a decree of the Surrogate of that county.

The legal expenses of Mrs. McDonald's suit were borne by the Catholic Diocese of New York, which became interested in the case through the Rev. Father Luke J. Evers, to whom Mrs. McDonald appealed. The Hodgmans are Protestants. They contended that their adoption of the child was legal and that they could give it a better home and education than its mother and stepfather. Justice Amend said:

"The ordinary dictates of humanity require that a mother should not be separated against her will from her child unless the welfare of the child makes such a course imperative. The mere fact that some person of means is ready and willing to furnish a little one with a home and comforts which the mother, by reason of her lack of worldly goods, cannot give will not warrant the court in depriving the latter of the custody of her offspring and awarding the custody to the person financially better situated.

"The question raised as to the validity of the appointment of the respondent as guardian of the person of the infant is not passed upon, for the reason that a court of equity has power, in a proper case, to take a minor child from an appointed guardian."

BATTLESHIPS COMING HERE.

Seven Sail from Norfolk for Tomkinsville, Staten Island.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 26.—Eight vessels of the Atlantic battleship fleet sailed from Hampton Roads at 1 P. M. to-day for Tompkinsville, N. Y. They were Admiral Schroeder's flagship, the Connecticut, the South Carolina, Michigan, Louisiana, Kansas, New Hampshire, Delaware, and the hospital ship Solace. The battleship North Dakota sailed for the Norfolk Navy Yard.

Divers to-day recovered 150 fathoms of chain lost in Hampton Roads yesterday by the battleship South Carolina.

LAST BANKERS' TRAIN OFF TO CONVENTION

OVER THE PENNSYLVANIA

Six Specials Now Are on Their Way to Los Angeles, Cal., Where the Annual Meeting Is to be Held.

A fast train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, fitted out with "most of the comforts of home," an official of the road said, started for Los Angeles yesterday with several hundred bankers from this and other Eastern cities going to attend the thirty-sixth annual convention of the American Bankers' Association. The train was in two sections, known as the "Bankers' Tour de Luxe." No pains were spared by the tourist bureau of the railroad to make the trip thoroughly enjoyable.

One section of the special left from Jersey City and the other from Philadelphia. The tour is in charge of F. B. Barnitz of the Pennsylvania's tourist bureau staff. Arrangements have been made to have mail delivered to the bankers en route, for they will stop at various cities for several hours during the journey westward. All letters should be addressed Care "Pennsylvania Railroad Bankers' Tour, General Delivery."

The passengers on the New York section of the train were as follows:

A. H. Baldwin, Mrs. A. H. Baldwin, C. O. Baker, Mrs. C. O. Baker, Charles Barkhorn, Mrs. Charles Barkhorn, and Miss May Barkhorn of Newark, N. J.; C. C. Barlow and Mrs. C. C. A. Sloatman, Williamsport, Penn.; James T. Stuart, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Trenchard, Bridgeton, N. J.; Miss Virginia Van Boast, Cincinnati; R. A. Walker, Oxford, Penn.; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore E. Weidersheim, Philadelphia; E. Du Bois White, Williamsport, Penn., and Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Yost, Hazleton, Penn.

These two special trains, with the "Blue," "White," and "Green" specials, which started yesterday, and the "Red" special, which left the Grand Central Station on Saturday, make six trains, loaded with financiers, which now are on their way to the convention.

'SHOO-FLY' SQUAD PROMOTED

Ten Sergeants Made Lieutenants for Efficiency in Special Work.

Police Commissioner Baker's "shoo-fly" squad has been promoted. The ten Sergeants who composed it were made Lieutenants yesterday. In announcing the promotion the Commissioner said that he had merely fulfilled his promise that all the "shoo-fly" Sergeants would be made Lieutenants if they accomplished the work he sent them out to perform nearly two weeks ago.

Ever since the organization of the "shoo-fly" squad its members have spent most of their time trailing policemen, with the object of finding those who were violating the rules. The first result of their activities became evident on Friday when eighty-nine policemen were tried before the Police Commissioner on charges ranging all the way from leaning too long against lamp posts to sneaking in the back doors of saloons. All the charges were sustained.

In choosing his "shoo-fly" squad Commissioner Baker picked the ten Sergeants who stood at the head of the list for promotion. The test to which he put them was in order to ascertain their fitness for the work of Police Lieutenants. Those promoted were:

Philip W. Auer, Macdougal Street Station; James Walsh, West Thirtieth Street; John C. Vissers, New Dorp, S. I.; George P. Menegay, Coney Island; Thomas J. Tunney, Detective Headquarters, Brooklyn; Rufus Deyo, Mercer Street; Michael O'Grady, East 126th Street; William Koenig, Flatbush; Daniel J. Murphy, Traffic Squad D, and Patrick Shea, Telegraph Bureau, Manhattan.

The Commissioner also promoted Sergt. Joseph F. Quinn of the Detective Bureau, Manhattan, to a Lieutenancy, and added him to the new squad.

The promotions do not break up the "shoo-fly" squad.

GOV. HASKELL ON TRIAL.

Selection of Jury Begun in Muskogee Town Lot Cases.

McALESTER, Okla., Sept. 26.—The trial of Charles N. Haskell, Governor of Oklahoma, in the Muskogee town lot cases, was called here to-day before Federal Judge John A. Marshall of Salt Lake City. United States District Attorney W. J. Gregg, who is to be assisted by S. R. Rush of Omaha and D. T. Hainer of Tulsa, Okla., announced that the Government was ready to proceed. Judge Marshall denied a motion by Haskell's attorneys, who argued that the Governor's executive duties required a postponement until after the expiration of his term in January.

The court ordered the trial to proceed, and the selection of a jury was begun.

Within a few hours a jury was selected and sworn. One of the jurors is John Carlisle, a Cherokee who has been admitted to citizenship. Most of the other jurors are farmers.

The opening statements for the prosecution will be made to-morrow.

The cases against Albert Z. English and F. B. Severs, both of Muskogee, who were indicted jointly with Haskell, were dismissed, the Government announcing that they would be tried on another indictment.

In the indictment returned by a Federal Grand Jury Gov. Haskell and five business men of Muskogee are charged with "conspiracy to defraud the Government" in the disposal of about 600 town sites. The sites were sold by the Government in 1902 on behalf of the Creek Indians.

It is alleged that Gov. Haskell and others, by falsely scheduling, procured the lots illegally. Persons in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee, Texas, and other States were registered without their knowledge or consent, it is alleged, as being entitled to buy the lots at one-half the appraised value, and when the deeds were made out Haskell and his associates, it is alleged, bought them for nominal amounts. In this way, it is charged, the Governor and the five other men were able to obtain 600 lots, whereas the Government rules for the sale provided that not more than two lots should be sold to any one person.

REBATES HID IN DAMAGES?

Shippers' Attorney So Suggests at Railway Rate Hering in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Indirect charges that the railroads in the West were violating the Elkins anti-rebate law and were favoring certain shippers and charging the alleged rebates to "damage accounts," were made befort the Inter-State Commerce Commission at to-day's session of the hearing into the advisability of allowing Western roads to make a general raise in freight rates.

Clifford Tohrne, representing a livestock association, a manufacturers' league, and a farmers' co-operative association, asked C. J. McPherson, Assistant General Manager of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, "To what accounts were rebates charged prior to 1904?"

"I know nothing of rebates," replied the witness; "I do not know that rebates ever were given."

"What I want to find out," persisted Mr. Thorne, "is this: Is it possible that rebates are still given as they were then, and charged to damage accounts or similar accounts? I want to find out what the procedure was then, to see if it is still followed, and I am invariably met with the answer, 'I don't know,' from men whose very business it is to know."

Attorney Jeffreys, representing the railroad, interposed with the query: "May I learn at what end you are aiming?"

"Certainly," retorted Mr. Thorne. "In your railroad's damage accounts, as in others, there has been a startling increase since 1904, with no satisfactory explanation. The Elkins bill was passed in 1903. I have more than heasay advice that there is a connection between these damage accounts and rebates. I want to find out if rebates are still being given."

Commissioner Clarks, who alone represented the commission to-day, listened interestedly to the remarks by Mr. Thorne, who concluded by saying he would ask the commission to make a special inquiry into the additional damage accounts.

HAS BROTHER SENT AWAY.

Accused by his brother of being the leader of the "Car Barn Gang," John J. Rogers, 18 years old, of 305 East Ninety-seventh Street, was committed yesterday to the Workhouse for six months by Magistrate Freschi, in the Harlem Court.

"Since he was 11 years old John has spent nearly all his time in jail," said Arthur Rogers, an electrician, of 246 East Ninety-fourth Street. "This morning I was awakened by a violent ring of the bell, and when I opened the door I faced my brother, who shouted: 'I have come to kill mother and the kid. Then I'll fix you.' My wife called Policeman Stephens, who caught my brother as he was leaving the house."

Rogers said his brother stole a horse and wagon when he was 11 years old and was sent to the Catholic Protectory. He was hardly out of that place when he was committed to the House of Refuge and later to the penitentiary."

Stephens said he had to prevent Rogers from escaping by tripping him with his club.

"He told me that when he got out of prison he would turn up in good shape and kill his whole family and that of his brother," said the policeman.

When questioned by Magistrate Freschi the youth refused to say anything.

MELLEN DENIES IMPUTATION.

Says His Road Never Sought Laws Against Public Interest.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 26.—Defending his road against imputation of alleged improper influencing of legislation, President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, in another of the series of letters passing between him and the Connecticut Editorial Association, asserts that his company has never willfully promoted legislation injurious to the public. He says:

"I earnestly assert that we have never willfully promoted any legislation which the Directors or officers of the railroad company have thought to be in any respect injurious to the public. Nor have we any temptation to seek such legislation in the future; for it is our absolute conviction that the interests of the railroad company are so intimately bound up with the interests of the territory which the railroad serves that any legislation which is against the public interest must necessarily be against our true interest."

PAID FOR HIS OWN DISGUISE.

Coney Island Investigator Didn't Ask City to Settle for Dyed Mustache.

The disguises worn by Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick's examiners during their investigation of gambling and vice conditions in Manhattan and Coney Island were not included in their bills of expense paid by the city. This became known yesterday at the trial of ex-Inspector John J. O'Brien of the Coney Island district before Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh on charges of neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer.

Eugene Shepard, one of Commissioner Fosdick's men, under cross-examination, was asked by O'Brien's counsel whether his facial expression had changed in any manner since his nocturnal visits to the disorderly resorts of Coney Island. Shepard confessed that it had. He said that during his investigations he went to a Coney Island barber and ordered his blonde mustache dyed brown. When the dye dried his mustache was a deep black, so he had it shaved off.

"It didn't cost the city a cent," said Shepard when the laughter had subsided.

Under cross-examination by O'Brien's counsel, G. W. Morgan, Shepard grew somewhat confused as to what actually transpired in some of the resorts he visited. In his affidavit Shepard had sworn that he had invited some of the concert hall women to drink with him. In his testimony he said that the invitation came from them.

Shepard said that his affidavit must have been wrong, and Morgan asked that it be excluded from the record. The Deputy Commissioner took the matter under advisement.

Edward C. Becherer, an investigator in the employ of the Bureau of Municipal Research, also was a witness. He told of visiting many Coney Island resorts which were "wide open." One place to which he went on the night of Aug. 18 was Bernstein's Casino, on Henderson's Walk, where a man was pointed out to him as "the man who owns Broadway." Becherer did not know the man's name, but described his appearance. Like Shepard, he bought liquid refreshments with a lavish hand.

CADETS ON THE GRILL IN "SILENCE" INQUIRY

CORPS STILL UNDER ARREST

Barred from Football Practice, Other Athletics, and the Weekly "Hop"—War Department Not to Act.

The Board of Inquiry, of which Lieut. Col. Walter A. Bethel is President and Capt. Alfred A. Maybach the recorder, was in session at West Point all day yesterday examining cadets with the object of finding out who were the ringleaders in the "silence" to which Capt. Rufus E. Longan, Eleventh U. S. Infantry of the Tactical Department at the Military Academy, was subjected by the corps of cadets during supper hour in Grant Memorial Hall on Saturday night and again at breakfast on Sunday morning.

Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, the Superintendent of the Academy, is in Washington, whither he went on the day the "silence" was perpetrated, and no measures, so far as the fixing of punishment, will be taken until he returns. Every cadet not in hospital on Saturday, it was said at West Point yesterday, did his part in the supper "silence," while perhaps half of the corps continued to fast at Sunday breakfast.

Lieut. Col. Frederick W. Sibley, Fourth U. S. Cavalry, the Commandant of Cadets, who, as Acting Superintendent, named the Bethel board and then ordered every cadet to his room, with all privileges withdrawn, said yesterday that the board will probably be in session a week before the affair is settled. All the cadets examined are being placed under oath, and yesterday about forty had a chance to tell Col. Bethel and his associates why they had joined in the "silence" to Longan.

The entire corps was still technically under arrest yesterday, and it was said that they would remain so until the return of Gen. Barry. This means that they can pay no social calls about the post, must not visit the hotel, cannot engage in athletic sports, nor give any "hops" until Gen. Barry sees fit to remove the restrictions under which they now suffer.

Football Practice Barred.

This was to have been the busiest week so far this year in football practice, and the coaches had mapped out a hard programme, but yesterday there was no practice at West Point, though the first big game of the season is only five days away. The indications were that there would be no practice to-day, either, or, for that matter, until Gen. Barry returns from Washington. The game scheduled for Saturday is with the University of Vermont, which is said to have a strong team.

It was a hard task to get from anybody at West Point yesterday the details of the differences that exist between Capt. Longan and the cadets. It was rumored, however, that it was a question of several weeks' standing which had been aggravated last Saturday by Capt. Longan, as officer in charge, refusing to permit the "extra tour" cadets to walk off their penalties on the galleries instead of in the quadrangle of the barracks. When it rains the custom at West Point is for the officer in charge to allow the "penalty" men to walk off their tours on the galleries.

Saturday it was drizzling, and one of the cadets who was walking on post in the quadrangle called the Corporal of the Guard and asked him to call Capt. Longan's attention to the fact that rain was falling. The Corporal did so, but as it was such a little rain Capt. Longan decided that it would not harm any of the delinquents to continue walking in the open, and he ordered accordingly. That night he got his "silence," the first time an officer had been subjected to such an indignity in more than ten years.

It was also rumored in West Point circles that another reason of the dislike formed for Capt. Longan by the cadets was that many of them considered that he had been unduly liberal in his distribution of demerits. But even if these allegations are true it would in no wise mitigate the seriousness of the situation so far as the cadets are concerned, for under the regulations they have the privilege of an appeal to the Commandant of Cadets for redress, who is required under the regulations to bring the grievance to the attention of the Superintendent. If the action of the Superintendent does not satisfy the aggrieved cadets they can appeal to the Secretary of War and through him bring the matter to the attention of the President for final adjudication.

The "Silence" at Annapolis.

But this was not done in the case of Capt. Longon, and there is where the cadets made a false step. That a large number, and perhaps the whole corps, will be punished now is certain. Punishment will not be dismissal, in the opinion of the authorities, but will follow the action taken by Capt. Bowyer, U. S. N., the Superintendent of the Naval Academy, in the case of Lieut. Berthalf, U. S. N., who was "silenced" by the brigade of Midshipmen at dinner in November of last year.

Capt. Bowyer punished the "Middies" by withdrawing dancing, athletic, and other privileges dear to their hearts, and since that time there has been no "silence" perpetrated at Annapolis. Those in touch with the West Point situation believe this will be the course followed by Gen. Barry. It is safe to say that a large number of "extra tours" will be allotted also as a result of the Longan "silence."

There will be no dances at West Point this week, and the surface indications are that there won't be any for some weeks to come. Nothing is so effective in handling a cadet as to withdraw his "hops."

The disciplining of the cadets, it was stated in Washington yesterday, will not be handled by the War Department, but will be left entirely to the West Point authorities.

Capt. Longan, who is an "infantry tac," was going about his duties at West Point yesterday as if nothing unusual had happened. He had no comments to make on the affair.

Yesterday Col. Sibley, the Commandant, issued the following order, as a result of the Longan affair:

> Until further orders cadets will confine themselves to their rooms during release from quarters from immediately after breakfast and from immediately after dinner until call to quarters. Cadets will confine themselves to the limits of the area of barracks, and the cadet sentinels will be posted ten minutes after drill and will make inspection every half hour.

This means that the entire corps is still practically under arrest. The order remains in force until the return of Gen. Barry.

NAVAL APPRENTICES ACCUSED

New Haven Road Officials Say They Broke Into Car and Stole Beer.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—Officials of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad have complained to the Newport police that naval apprentices at the naval training station broke into a refrigerator car in the freight yard after dark Sunday night and took three barrels of beer consigned to a Newport liquor dealer. The barrels contained forty-five gallons of beer, which, according to persons living near the freight yard was consumed by fifty young blue jackets.

A consultation between the police and the training school authorities has been held, and the apprentices, if guilty, will be punished by the Newport authorities. Breaking open a freight car in Rhode Island is a crime of the same quality as breaking into a residence.

DIDN'T BLAME ROOSEVELT.

President Brown Didn't Say Colonel's Speeches Hurt Our Bonds.

Upon his arrival home from abroad yesterday, W. C. Brown, President of the New York Central, was quoted as having said that the "spectacular utterances of Col. Roosevelt" were having such a bad effect abroad that it will be impossible to dispose of a single American railroad bond over there for months to come. When Mr. Brown got to his office he read an afternoon paper and issued a statement in which he said:

> I did not criticise ex-President Roosevelt's speeches; and, in fact, I have not as yet had an opportunity to read them. Most of my time abroad was spent in an automobile trip, where it was impossible to secure news from this side.
>
> I stated that I was doubtful about Europe taking any bonds of American railroads in the immediate future, but did not ascribe this condition as in any way due to the effect of ex-President Roosevelt's speeches. As a matter of fact, we had found it impossible to place bonds either in London or Paris two months before Col. Roosevelt made his Western tour, and the inference that I ascribed this condition to the effect of the speeches made on that tour was not warranted by anything I said.
>
> In quite an extended automobile trip in Germany I was greatly surprised at the wonderful development of its manufacturing industries everywhere, but I did not go into the matter enough even to attempt to suggest a reason for it.

Mrs. Brown accompanied her husband. On the same steamship came Walter B. Pollock, head of the marine department of the New York Central.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Patterson, Mr. Brown's daughter and son-in-law, met the steamer with Mr. Brown on board on a tug at Quarantine.

FOUR SAVED AS YACHT SINKS.

Coast Guards Drag Fishermen Ashore—Craft Hit a Submerged Spile.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 26.—Quick and daring work by the Great Egg Harbor life saving crew saved Frank Waldron, H. G. Demmock and J. B. Buyer of Philadelphia, and Capt. Herbert Smith of Ocean City, to-day, when the Yacht Favorite shipped a big sea, smashed against a jetty and sank.

The Philadelphians who have been spending the Summer in Ocean City had gone fishing with Capt. Smith. In making for the channel of the inlet the boat became caught in cross currents. Lifted by a big wave, she pitched to one side and dropped on a submerged piling of an old wharf, which poked a hole clear through her, throwing the occupants into the water.

Pulls Out Chair; Fall Kills Wife.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—James Wright, 60 years old, has been arrested, charged with causing the death of his wife. As Mrs. Wright, who was 75 years old, attempted to sit down, her husband, it is alleged, as a "joke," pulled a chair from beneath her and she fell to the floor injuring her spine. Death followed soon after.

ADVISED TO SMUGGLE, MRS. NEWMAN SAYS

Authorities Seek Kaiserin Augusta Victoria Passenger Who Told Her How.

MRS. NEWMAN IS ARRESTED

Passenger on the St. Louis Says His Pearls Are Imitations—Mrs. Aronson's Case Is Postponed.

Surveyor of the Port Nelson H. Henry and Deputy Surveyor George Smyth were busy most of yesterday afternoon hearing explanations of transatlantic travelers arriving in the week-end fleet of steamships who failed to declare, or differed with the customs men as to the value of, foreign purchases. The officials particularly wanted to learn the name of the passenger in the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria who advised Mrs. Jacob Newman, wife of a dealer in ladies' neckwear in East Fifteenth Street, to sew an American label in a Persian lamb coat, said to have been purchased abroad. The same adviser told Mrs. Newman how to conceal a pair of fur stoles to avoid the payment of duty.

After the hearing at the Custom House Mrs. Newman was placed under arrest and taken before United States Commissioner Russ, in Hoboken. She told Mr. Smyth she had sewed the label in the coat on the advice of a passenger whose name she did not know, but who evidently knew many smuggling tricks. Mrs. Newman admitted she had $500 worth of goods which she did not remember when making out her declaration for $75.

"The women Inspectors found a pair of fur stoles concealed under Mrs. Newman's skirt," said Mr. Smyth. "She said the same passenger had advised her to do this, but her offense was so evident that her arrest was ordered."

Another passenger in the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria who was examined was Mrs. H. N. Slater of Readville, Mass. Mrs. Slater declared ten Parisian gowns as worth $1,400, and additional personal effects worth $300. The customs men were not satisfied with this valuation, and her trunks were sent to Public Stores. Mrs. Slater told Mr. Smyth she had made up her declaration from memory. There was no charge against Mrs. Slater, Mr. Smyth saying that it was simply a difference of opinion which would be settled by the appraisers.

Leon Lemaire, manager of the Mississippi Pearl Button Company of Burlington, Iowa, arrived in the St. Louis. He traveled in the steerage, being unable to obtain a cabin, and he was charged with concealing two gold watches and chains and several brooches. He failed to declare, it is said, linen and lace scarfs and a quantity of pearls also. The pearls, Lemaire said, were imitations, but there seemed to be doubt in Mr. Smyth's mind. If they are real, he said, they would be worth $50,000.

Lemaire told Mr. Smyth that he took abroad about $600 worth of imitation pearls and exchanged half of them for foreign-made pearls. He contended that there should be no duty on those exchanged.

"The answer to all this can be given after we have all these pearls appraised," said Smyth. "There is a necklace in the lot that looks like the genuine article to me."

The examination into the case of Mrs. Philip N. Aronson of Philadelphia, who upon her arrival Sunday in the Baltic was found to have jewelry concealed, was put over until Wednesday. Her lawyer said she was ill as a result of her experience.

THREE SMUGGLERS FINED.

Goods on Which They Tried to Evade Paying Duty Were Confiscated.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—United States Judge Cross fined three persons for trying to smuggle goods into Hoboken. Edwin Dunnebaum was fined $25. A necklace and a pair of gold cuff buttons, valued at $70, was confiscated. He said he had been on a bridal tour and did not know the law.

Max Speerber was fined $150 for trying to smuggle goods valued at $520. The goods were confiscated. Mary A. Dolan was fined $100. Goods to the value of $184, three dresses, were found underdeclared in a trunk belonging to a girl she was chaperoning on a trip abroad.

MURPHY AIDS AUTO VICTIM.

Special to The New York Times.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 26.—Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, yesterday helped to rescue an aged woman who was pinned beneath her husband's overturned car after an automobile accident. He afterward declined to be made a hero.

In the company of her husband and Jacob Meyer, a mechant, Mrs. Joseph Brubeck was traveling by automobile from Sag Harbor to this place. The car skidded on striking some sand and overturned. The men were thrown a considerable distance, and Mrs. Brubeck was fastened underneath the car.

Brubeck and Meyer, who had been partially stunned by their own fall, were trying to lift the overturned car from the unconscious form of Mrs. Brubeck, when Mr. Murphy and his chauffeur appeared en route from Good Ground to Riverhead for a political chat with D. Henry Brown of this place. The Murphy car was stopped and its occupants helped to rescue Mrs. Brubeck, who was placed in Mr. Murphy's car and all possible speed was made for Riverhead, where she was rushed to the office of Dr. John H. Benjamin.

The physician found that her left arm had been broken, and that she was suffering from shock, lacerations, and bruises. She was sent by automobile to the Greenport Hospital. Her husband and Meyer, who were also taken by Mr. Murphy to Riverhead, were looked over by Dr. Benjamin, who found that Brubeck had sustained some cuts about the head and face, while Meyer had not been hurt at all.

Mr. Murphy proceeded to his political conference.

TWO RAID CASES DROPPED.

Harvard Student and Policeman Go Free in Narragansett Row.

WAKEFIELD, R. I., Sept. 26.—Legal complications resulting from the raid by Constable John G. Cross on the fashionable Narragansett Club at Narragansett Pier last August, when evidences of gambling on an extensive scale were said to have been discovered, were somewhat simplified by the action of the District Court here to-day. Judge Nathan P. Lewis quashed the complaints against George L. Cutting of Worcester, Mass., a Harvard student, and Policeman John J. Cullen.

Cutting assisted Constable Cross in the raid, and Policeman Patrick Quinn, Jr., charged him with carrying concealed weapons and assaulting Cullen while the latter was trying to arrest James S. Ivins, son of William M. Ivins of New York and one of Constable Cross's deputies. Ivins later had Cullen arrested on a charge of assault. After Judge Lewis had found that the warrants for the arrest of Cutting were defective, the case against Cullen was discontinued, on motion of Mr. Ivins's attorney.

DID ASK SEAMAN TO RESIGN.

Quit by Unanimous Vote of Utilities Commission, Chairman Willcox Says.

The statement by Henry B. Seaman, former Chief Engineer of the Public Service Commission, that his resignation last week was voluntary, prompted by a "difference of opinion as to the propriety of artificially raising an estimate of the value of the work to be done, to meet the demands of a contractor," was denied yesterday by Chairman Willcox, who said the resignation was asked by the unanimous vote of the commission. Commissioner Bassett denied that Seaman ever had been asked to "artificially raise an estimate."

Letters were produced from the files to show that Seaman had recommended settling with the contractor at a figure $100,000 higher than that at which the negotiations now stand. In this matter of additional work in Section 9-0-1 of the Centre Street loop Chairman Willcox said:

"The company, being in possession, could finish the new work quicker than if new bids were asked. On this account the commission has been endeavoring to reach a figure with the company that would avoid litigation and hasten the completion of the work.

"Mr. Seaman made an estimate of cost of new work at $1,040,000. Bradley said his bottom price was $1,450,000. Negotiations were continued by the engineering department, and Mr. Seaman wrote that the lowest figure he could obtain from Bradley was $1,250,000. His letter substantially says that it is better to accept this figure than to litigate and delay in getting new bids.

"As the committee had asked for a figure that the Engineering Department would recommend as an acceptable bid if it were the lowest bid in open competition, the general assurance of Mr. Seaman's letter that $1,250,000 would be well to accept did not answer the purpose.

"The Engineering Department was requested to take up the matter again and state what figure would be acceptable as a new low bid. Acting Chief Engineer Craven's figure was $1,150,000, being $100,000 less than Mr. Seaman stated was the best obtainable. This figure was recommended by the Engineering Department as a proper low bid figure, and negotiations were continued on that basis.

"The entire commission approved the figures as a favorable compromise, and if the Board of Estimate agrees that the compromise is better than litigation and delay it probably will be closed. The committee and counsel to the commission were present at all meetings, excepting those exclusively between the engineers and the contracting company."

The last sentence was interpreted as an answer to Seaman's allusion to "conferences in private offices." Mr. Willcox added:

"No criticism on this subject ever came from Mr. Seaman to the commission until his statement yesterday. It is feared he is in a very nervous condition, otherwise it is hard to believe he would make some of the statements attributed to him."

WHEN THE KID McCOY BURNED

Ex-Prizefighter Tells What He Did In Helping Women from Launch.

The Kid McCoy, a forty-foot launch belonging to Ernest Tribelhorn, a real estate operator of 320 Fifth Avenue, lay anchored in the Hudson River some 200 feet from the foot of West 184th Street yesterday morning at 2 o'clock. Kid McCoy, the ex-prizefighter, after whom the boat was named, was one of a party aboard, as was Frank George of 305 West Sixty-fifth Street. There were also several women in the party. The launch caught fire.

"I notice one of the afternoon papers says that the reason I stayed on the launch was because I couldn't swim," said Kid McCoy last night. "Nothing of the kind. I'm a swimmer, but I stayed behind to help the ladies.

"About 2 o'clock I got up and went back into the little kitchen to cook some coffee," said Kid McCoy. "I spilled too much alcohol over the stove, and then when I touched a match to the burner the whole thing flared up.

"I backed out of the kitchen, and went up through the launch waking up the other people. By that time the flames had reached the companionway.

"We had no boat attached, and Frank George volunteered to swim to the shore and try to get a rowboat.

"We heard George shout from the shore in a few minutes, and we knew that he had a boat. He came pulling out to us dressed in his athletic underwear.

"The ladies were dressed and ready for disembarking when he got there. The fire hadn't got close enough to broil us yet. We pulled for the shore and stood there to watch the Kid McCoy burn to the water."

Mr. Tribelhorn said yesterday afternoon that he was not on board the launch. It was a total loss, he said, and was worth about $4,000.

JACK SHEPPARD INDICTED.

Aged Criminal Escaped from Police Headquarters Forty Years Ago.

Charles Harrington, known by the police throughout this country as "Jack Sheppard," was indicted for grand larceny yesterday. He and Charles E. Ackron and Henry Knox were caught on the night of Sept. 9 in a piano warehouse at 37 East Fourteenth Street, owned by George Schleichers. They were packing 25,000 cigars which they are alleged to have stolen from the La Varrosa Cigar Factory at 233 Pearl Street shortly before a fire in the factory on Aug. 6.

"Jack Sheppard" is 67 years old and a notorious criminal. He was one of the only two men that ever escaped from the old Police Headquarters. He has spent thirty years of his life in prison, and has been arrested fifteen times in various parts of this country.

In 1871 when he escaped from Police Headquarters he hit one of the police on guard over the head with a nightstick that he grabbed from a hook on the wall.

Among his many aliases are "John Mahoney," "John Mathews," "George Wilson," and "Charles Jones." He is said by the police to be one of the cleverest burglars now living. He has never been known to attempt a crime unless it involved a large amount of possible gain.

Knox has no criminal record, but Ackron has been arrested twice and has served six years and ten months in State prison.

W. G. Newman Must Obey Court Order

Walter G. Newman, who recently offered $1,000 for a new word to express the anger of a motorist over a balky automobile, appeared before Judge Smith in the City Court yesterday to explain why he had not obeyed an order to submit to examination in supplementary proceedings. Newman failed to pay a judgment obtained by Alexander H. Low, Secretary of one of Newman's mining companies. Newman told Judge Smith that he had been out of the city. He has until Friday to comply with the order.

SUFFRAGISTS OPEN NEW CAMPAIGN

Mrs. Mackay Arrives To-day from Europe with Many Plans for the Season's Work.

SOME GO TO SARATOGA

Will Speak at the Convention If Permitted—Suffrage Appeals Are Made to Platform Committee and Delegates.

The Fall and Winter campaign of the different organizations of women suffragists of the city opened yesterday. The handsome new board room of the Equal Franchise Society, on the twenty-ninth floor of the Metropolitan Life Building, adorned in deep red, with cream brocade furnishings, which adjoins the offices of the President, Mrs. Mackay, is now practically ready for the first board meeting of the society on Oct. 14. Mrs. Mackay arrives from Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. this morning with many plans for the season's work. The annual meting of the society will be held the second Monday in November, and the first of the course of the six lectures of the season is to be given in Maxine Elliott's Theatre on Jan. 5 by Miss Sarah Barnwell Elliott of Sewanee, Tenn., who will sketch the history of woman suffrage in the United States.

There was a meeting of a large committee of Presidents and representatives of the suffrage clubs of New York and surrounding towns at the State suffrage headquarters, 505 Fifth Avenue, yesterday afternoon, and plans were made for a gigantic suffrage fair early in December. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont was elected Chairman. Entertainments will be given in connection with the fair, at which prominent professional people will appear.

Miss Mary Garrett Hay and Miss Mary Wood of the woman suffrage party left New York yesterday for the Republican State Convention, where they will speak if they can obtain a hearing. Several thousand "Appeals," printed on yellow paper, will be distributed, asking that the demand for woman suffrage be submitted to the people. Circulars requesting that a resolution to this effect be incorporated in the party platform have been sent to members of the Platform Committee and to delegates of both the Republican and Democratic conventions. They are signed by Carrie Chapman Catt, Chairman City Committee; Martha Wentworth Suffren, Secretary City Committee; Margaret Chanler Aldrich, Treasurer City Committee; Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, Chairman Manhattan Borough; Mrs. W. W. Penfield, Chairman Bronx Borough; Miss Ida A. Craft, Chairman Brooklyn Borough; Mrs. James H. Ecob, Chairman Queens Borough, and Mrs. William Goodenew Willcox, Chairman Richmond Borough.

If a hearing be permitted, Max Eastman will speak for the Men's Equal Suffrage League and Mrs. Ida Husted Harper for the State Suffrage Association. Mrs. Ella Hawley Crossett, the State Woman Suffrage President, also leaves to-day for the Republican Convention, and will go from there to the Democratic.

There will be three candidates for the Presidency of the State Suffrage Association, which will meet at Niagara Falls early next month. They are the present President, Mrs. Ella Hawley Crossett; Miss Harriet May Mills, and Mrs. Frank J. Shuyler of Buffalo. Miss Mills is a prominent suffrage worker and Mrs. Shuyler became well known through her Presidency of the Western Federation of Women's Clubs.

SYBIL SANDERSON'S DEBTS.

Amount to $64,932, Exceeding the Value of Her Estate Nearly Threefold.

Mrs. Sybil Sanderson Terry, who died on May 16, 1903, in Paris, left unpaid debts nearly threefold the value of her total estate both here and abroad, and her New York debtors claimed twice as much as her entire property in this State is worth, according to an appraisal filed yesterday in the State transfer tax office.

The figures are, New York estate, $13,530; New York debts, $26,587; total estate, $21,140; total debts, $64,932. In addition it cost $1,237 to administer the estate in New York.

Mrs. Terry is survived by her mother and two sisters, who live at 46 Avenue Malakoff, Paris, France.

INSANE MAN LED PARADE.

"The Colonel" Formed a Regiment of Boys and Marched Until Arrested.

A tall, lean man, wearing a black slouch hat bound around with a tasseled cord of gilt braid, stopped at the southwest corner of Third Avenue and 137th Street yesterday afternoon, and, throwing out his chest, commanded a squad of six or seven boys to "fall in." They fell in behind him, and they marched and marched.

The boys took it all very seriously, and so did he. The boys were less than 10 years old. As the squad passed along recruits added themselves to the line. In ten minutes the squad had become a company, and a few minutes later the company was a regiment. The commander's dignity increased with every new recruit. Many grown people stopped to look at the marching volunteers.

Gabriel Lindquist of 138 Alexander Avenue, an employe of the New York Central Railroad, came along, recognized the volunteer commander, who was now a full Colonel by right of his following, and spoke a few words to Policeman Wagler of the Alexander Avenue Station, who promptly accosted the Colonel.

"Go with me to the station," said he.

"Only if my regiment follows me," said the Colonel, with dignity.

With his regiment behind him, the Colonel marched to the Alevander Avenue Station, three blocks away. The policeman's uniform added to the regular appearance of the regiment, which was in a fair way to become a brigade. At the station house steps, however, the policeman took command and dispersed the regiment in a scamper.

Lindquist told the police that the "Colonel" was John Trecit, 35 years old, who up to some two years ago was Superintendent of a lot of construction work for the New York Central Railroad. He was stricken with the heat, and his mind had never rallied. He had been in a sanitarium up to two weeks ago, when he was discharged. The "Colonel" wouldn't answer any questions about himself, but letters in his pockets confirmed all that Lindquist had said.

Trecit was taken to the Lincoln Hospital.

THE Double Cross
A Romance of Mystery and Adventure in Mexico of Today
By GILSON WILLETS

SCENE. The "Holy Land" in Mexico, the one romantic region of the New World where passion remains as primal as in the days before Cortez.

KEYNOTE. Life—raised to its highest power in exalted moments of being. Glorious sensations of this colossal modern Age of Speed join with the thrills of immemorial emotions, Love, Hatred, Jealousy, to lift the reader into the plane of purest Romance.

PLOT. A new, ingenious use of mystery, not of concealing shadows, but of confusing and crossing lights, playing about the identity of two heroines and keeping the reader wildly guessing as to which is the true lady of the cross, the token of betrothal to the hero. The master of the secret, a stranger in a black mask, winds his elusive way through the story, giving unity to the action, and, finally, solution to the mystery.

JVSTICE

THREE of the principles on which the Gimbel Business has been built and on which it will continue to stand.

JUSTICE—not alone to those who buy from us, but also to those from whom we buy and to those who work with us and for us.

INDUSTRY—active and tireless in conducting our business on right lines and in finding ways to better it by making it more serviceable.

TRUTH—for its own sake and as a concomitant of justice; truth unvarnished, undiminished, uncolored, PLAIN.

Adherence to these is a duty we owe to the public and to the memory of our founder. They are not mere abstract qualities to us, but vital, compelling forces in the upbuilding of a business.

RAILWAYS BLAMED FOR HARBOR DEFECTS

NEW YORK HARBOR CLOGGED

Through Business and Lack of Dock Belt Line Forces Costly Lighterage and Hauling.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—"Probably the greatest single deterrent to water terminal advance in the United States is the present adverse attitude of rail lines toward independent water traffic, in their exclusive control of frontage, in refusal or neglect to co-ordinate with general water traffic, and in refusal to co-operate generally with water lines in through movement of traffic."

This is one of the conclusions of Herbert Knox Smith, Commissioner of Corporations, in the third part, just made public, of his report to the President on water transportation in the United States. After an exhaustive inquiry into the harbor situation of the country and analysis of conditions, Mr. Smith deals in this section of the report with water terminals, and he finds five salient facts regarding them: That terminals are as important as channels; that the harbors of the country have not fully developed their terminal frontage, nor are they properly organized or controlled; that railroads largely control water terminals, often to the disadvantage of general water traffic; that there is almost no linking up of the rail and general water systems at the water's edge, but rather the opposite tendency, and that there is little co-operation by localities with the Federal Government, which improves their channels.

Relating to railroad co-operation, Commissioner Smith says:

"Until this underlaying relation of rail to water systems is adjusted on some common-sense basis of harmony, there is little hope of great advance in water terminal conditions."

Lack of co-operation between localities and the Federal Government in water terminal development, he says, is in marked contrast to conditions in those Continental countries whose waterways have been most highly developed.

As to conditions in New York the report has the following to say:

"New York is, of course, the most important harbor in the United States. As a terminal organism, its complexity and diversity make it a most interesting study. It is a terminus, not only of the important trunk railroads and of many of the leading ocean steamship lines, but of a large number of coastwise lines, and, furthermore, of the Erie Canal. The congestion of business is further complicated by an enormous volume of local passenger traffic, a large proportion of which, until the recent completion of tunnel systems, was handled by ferries, thus requiring a considerable portion of the water front in the most central portions of the harbor; this ferry traffic still seriously aggravates the confusion of business on marginal streets.

"The terminal problem at New York is further interesting because of the adoption by New York City of a comprehensive policy of municipal ownership, much modified, however, by long-term leases of the city piers.

"There are within the harbor, not including the New Jersey shore, about 445 miles of frontage, of which about 55 miles are in active use. The active water front is practically covered with wharves, making a very large total. As a rule, the wharves are good, and the city, under its policy of municipal ownership, has built a number of excellent ones. There are a large number of warehouses and some transshipping machinery. The employment of such machinery, however, is on the whole surprisingly small, and by no means commensurate with the volume of traffic.

"Both the industrial and commercial functions of the harbor are, of course, important, but the latter function decidedly predominates, and under the present organization probably hinders the proper operation of the industrial function. Wharf space that should be available for local industries and traffic is, under the present arrangement, necessarily used for through traffic.

"The congestion of traffic at present is extreme, especially on Manhattan Island. Co-ordination of rail and water traffic is very defective, except as to the rail-controlled terminals for through traffic. There is practically no belt railroad, and very little rail connection between the water terminals and local industries.

"This absence of any general rail-water co-ordination and the present lack of organization of the harbor with respect to its important functions undoubtedly exert a deterrent effect upon the commerce of the port. This is especially true because the present system necessitates a very large amount of rather expensive intraharbor transfer and rehandling by lighterage and drayage. In the current phrase, "freight is brought from the interior to Jersey City, stored in Brooklyn, and shipped from Manhattan, an expensive process which involves a great deal of rehandling, and itself indicates a lack of harbor organization.

"The volume of lighterage business is enormous. According to the latest available information (1908) there were about 10,500 craft performing lighterage service in the harbor and about 60,000 men employed on them. The railroads alone, exclusive of their ferryboats, have a fleet of about 1,300 harbor vessels. Even in the case of the New York Central, which enters Manhattan Island directly by land, three-fourths of its freight is moved at New York in barges. The heavy lighterage costs, in the opinion of many practical experts, have caused considerable diversion of traffic from New York Harbor.

"The amount of drayage resulting from the lack of adequate rail-water co-ordination is extraordinary. The congestion of this traffic on the marginal streets is extreme and involves a vast total of delay.

"There are many possibilities for improvement in conditions at New York. One would lie in removing at least a part of the commercial use of the harbor, that is, the through traffic, to a point away from the more central district, thus relieving the congestion there and allowing a wider industrial use. In making such a separation it is, of course, the general rule that the through terminals are the ones which can be moved, since the industrial traffic is more directly bound up with the central economy of the municipality and much less capable of a change of location.

A number of specific proposals for better organization have been suggested, an example of which is the Jamaica Bay improvement, upon which a city commission submitted a favorable report in 1907. The development of some such outlying locality apparently could be accomplished at reasonable cost, so as to provide far cheaper terminals for through traffic and accomplish the desirable separation above outlined.

"The frontage of the Borough of the Bronx and Harlem River may also afford opportunity for considerable terminal growth. Thus far this portion of the harbor, while in an important industrial section, has not been fully developed, largely because the Harlem River is much obstructed by railroad and highway bridges and railway rights of way.

"Proposals have also been made from time to time for belt-line railroads, including an underground system for certain traffic, but without any tangible results. The practical difficulties in providing any comprehensive belt-line system for Manhattan Island are very great.

"The State of New York in 1903 appropriated over $100,000,000 for enlarging the Erie Canal, and construction work is now in operation. Even with this improvement, however, transportation by the Erie Canal will depend largely upon the condition of its terminals at New York and Buffalo and upon the control of those terminals. The canal, as a rival of parallel railroads, is naturally an object of great interest to those roads, and there are strong indications that their policy has been to suppress canal traffic by control of the terminals and by influence upon the floating equipment as well as by active rate competition. The traffic history of the Erie Canal is an interesting example of the fact that a waterway alone does not make a transportation system, and that one weak link in the chain may almost nullify the efficiency of the system as a whole."

BIG SUITS TO BE DELAYED.

Bowers's Death and Supreme Court Vacancies Require Rearrangement.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The death of Solicitor General Bowers and the two actual and prospective vacancies in the Supreme Court will require an almost complete rearrangement of the more important cases set for hearing early in the Fall. In many of these cases the Solicitor General was personally in charge of the Government's side, and time will have to be allowed his successor or associates to familiarize themselves with the details.

The court will reassemble with seven members, if Justice Hughes takes his seat at that time, as is expected. Justice Moody will not be on the bench, and the post held by Chief Justice Fuller is still vacant. Neither of these seats can be filled before the assembling of Congress, as it is the unwritten law that a Justice shall not take his place until his appointment has been confirmed by the Senate.

Mr. Bowers had personally prepared the briefs and arguments in twenty-three cases set for the first days of the October term. Court will convene the second Monday of the month Oct. 10, and most of these cases were set for Tuesday, Oct. 11. From that day they would be continued on the calendar until all had been disposed of. It is expected that Mr. Bowers's death will compel the Government to set most of these cases aside until other officials of the Department of Justice can go over them and prepare the arguments. The Solicitor General was a prodigious worker and did much of his work without assistance. Most of the twenty-three are criminal cases which the Government lost in lower courts.

Aside from the changes caused by Mr. Bowers's death, the absence of a full bench will make necessary the postponement of the big Government cases set by Attorney General Wickersham for Nov. 14, the Standard Oil case, and the American Tobacco Company case. Cases of unusual importance that will fall under this postponement, in addition to the two named, are the corporation tax case, in which Solicitor General Bowers was the principal attorney for the Government; the Gompers case, involving the punishment of the labor leaders for disobedience of the boycott injunction in the Bucks Stove Company suit; the Missouri 2-cent rate case; the case of the Government against the Press Publishing Company; the suit of Virginia against West Virginia to compel the latter to pay part of the debt Virginia had when the separation occurred, and cases involving the Employers' Liability act.

MURDERS SHOW A DECREASE.

Suicides Also Fewer—Railroads Kill 6,659, Horses 2,152, Autos 632.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—In 1909 there were 2,854 homicides in that portion of the United States covered by death registry laws, and in the same area 8,402 deaths due to suicide. The figures are supplied by the Census Bureau's annual report on mortality and cover about 55 per cent. of the population. There is an actual falling off of 149 in the number of homicides as compared with 1908, while there is a decrease of the rate of suicides compared with population.

Poison was the most commonly employed instrument of suicide, 2,464 cases being due to it. Firearms with 2,395 cases were a close second as a means of self-destruction, while hanging was responsible for 1,215 cases.

The report also supplies an enumeration of accidental deaths for 1909 as follows: Railroad injuries, 6,659; drowning, 4,558; burns, 3,992; injuries at birth, 3,508; injuries by horses and horse vehicles, 2,152; street cars, 1,723; automobiles, 632; injuries in mines and quarries, 1,997; inhalation of poisonous gases, 1,837; other accidental poisonings, 1,779; accidental gunshot wounds, 944; heat and sunstroke, 816; cold and freezing, 251; lightning, 150.

BANK REPORTS REASSURING.

Controller Murray Says Reserves Are 21 Per Cent. Above Legal Requirement

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. — National banks of the United States have reported resources of $9,826,181,452 and reserves of $1,347,713,686, in answer to the call for their condition, which was issued on Sept. 1.

"The showing of the National banks is not only satisfactory but reassuring," said Lawrence O. Murray, Controller of the Currency, when he made the returns public to-day. "Their reserves are in excess of the figure required by law."

National banks which responded numbered 7,173, which is 196 more than were in existence a year ago. They reported increases of $135,000,000 in deposits and $72,000,000 in surplus and profits since Sept. 1, 1909.

TAFT GREETS IRRIGATIONISTS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—President Taft to-day sent a telegram to President Fowler of the National Irrigation Congress at Pueblo, Col., expressing his regret at being unable to attend the eighteenth annual gathering. The telegram in part said:

"My views on the subject of irrigation and the reclamation of our waste lands and my deep interest in this question are known from my public utterances; but I wish to take this occasion to express to the members of the congress my thanks and the thanks of the country for what you are doing and the support you are giving to the Government in its great work of reclaiming the desert lands of the arid districts. I trust that your counsels may be wise and that your deliberations may result in much good."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The census reports the total supply of cotton for the year ended Aug. 31, 1910, to have been 11,985,958 bales, made up as follows:

Stocks at beginning of year, 1,483,585; ginning, 10,350,978; imports, 151,395 bales. The distribution is 6,339,028 bales exported, 4,707,127 consumed. Stocks at close of year, 939,803 bales, of which 518,101 bales were held by manufacturers and 421,705 held elsewhere. The number of active spindles were 28,349,067, of which 10,826,320 were in cotton growing States and 17,522,238 in all other States.

TO TEST PRIVATE BANK LAW.

Supreme Court to Pass on New York Act Requiring a License.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The constitutionality of an act passed by the New York Legislature requiring individuals in partnerships carrying on a private banking business to take out licenses is involved in a case filed to-day in the Supreme Court of the United States.

It was an action instituted by Morris Engel of New York to enjoin the officials of the State from enforcing the law. The Federal court in New York held the law to be valid.

SENATORS BEGIN LORIMER INQUIRY

LORIMER'S SIDE PROTESTS

Senator Burrows for Committee Reserves Right to Reject Other Testimony Bearing on Jackpot Fund.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Testimony from State Representative Charles A. White, the first witness in the inquiry into charges of bribery in the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, was heard to-day by the Senate investigating committee. Six of the seven members of the committee were present. Senator Lorimer was on hand early, with his attorney, Elbridge Hanecy. P. H. O'Donnell, who represented Lee O'Neil Browne in the latter's two trials on charges of bribery, sat with him. Alfred S. Austrian, for The Chicago Tribune, and Clifford W. Barnes of the Legislative Voters' League were on the other side.

The hearing was held in the small clubroom of the Congress Hotel. Mrs. J. C. Burrows, wife of the Chairman of the committee, as well as the wives of Senators Gamble and Johnston of the committee, were present. The room was crowded with newspaper men and as many spectators as could be seated.

After hours of argument by the opposing counsel the committee left undetermined the question of the admissibility of testimony relative to the so-called "jackpot," an alleged accumlated fund for the payment of legislators for voting for or against certain bills in the Illinois General Assembly. Mr. Austrian contended that testimony as to the participation of legislators who voted for Senator Lorimer in this jackpot was pertinent and necessary to show a general corruption of the Legislature that elected Senator Lorimer. Mr. Hanecy opposed the admission of testimony relative to alleged bribes received by legislators for their votes on legislative matters apart from the election of a United States Senator.

On the strict understanding that the action was not to be considered a precedent admitting the whole jackpot subject, Chairman Burrows permitted White to answer some of the questions touching the "jackpot."

No objection was made by counsel to the testimony of White that as an inducement to vote for Lorimer he had received $1,000 from Minority Leader Lee O'Neil Browne of the Illinois Legislature, who was recently acquitted by a jury upon charges involving his share in this transaction. White then declared that he was met in the St. Louis Hotel by Representative Robert E. Wilson, also a Democratic Representative, who paid him $900 as his share of the jackpot. White detailed his meeting with other Democratic legislators in Wilson's hotel room and testified that the payment was made to him in the bathroom of the suite by Wilson, who before that had conferred with another of the legislators in the same bathroom. His testimony was essentially the same as given by him in the two trials of Lee O'Neil Browne.

The committee would not permit the witness at this time to relate conversations which he said he had with Representative Joseph Clark of Vandalia relative to a third representative, Michael Link, touching the alleged bribery payments. The ruling was preceded by a spirited clash between counsel.

In the argument over the admissibility of the conversations of White, Senator Paynter asked Attorney Austrian:

"Do you contend that if a number of legislators confessed that they were bribed it would justify the unseating of a Senator?"

Austrian replied that this was not his contention.

Just before adjournment for the day counsel got into another tangle over the answers of the witness. White had detailed that he wrote his story of the alleged bribery in the election of Senator Lorimer in the Fall of 1909, and added to it in the succeeding Winter. The question, "Did some one send you to The Chicago Tribune with the story?" was asked, and another objection was encountered. Chairman Burrows ruled that the testimony was not competent.

White testified that he took the story to the newspaper after it had been returned to him from New York, where he had previously sent it. The publication of the story in the newspaper was the first public intimation of the charges of bribery and corruption in the Senatorial election.

"Gov. Deneen will testify, if he is called, that he, Gov. Deneen, suggested that Senator Lorimer become a candidate for the Senatorship," was one statement made by Lorimer's attorney.

Representative H. J. C. Beckemeyer arrived to-day to testify. He is expected to be the second witness before the committee. The direct examination of White will be resumed to-morrow.

IS A HEN A BIRD?

Customs Court of Appeals Now Has That Question to Determine.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The new United States Court of Customs Appeals is in the full swing of its first session. The much-disputed question, "Is a hen a bird?" which the Treasury officials passed up as hopeless will probably come before the court at this term. The question is, If birds' eggs are free under the tariff, and hens' eggs are taxed 5 cents a dozen, why isn't a hen a bird? An importer who paid the higher rate of duty wants to know.

Another importer has canned eggs which he wants assessed as canned albumen, on which the duty is lower.

There are also Chinese merchants with poultry meats packed in oils which they want the court to pronounce fresh poultry, and many other customs cases which have baffled the Board of General Appraisers at New York.

LYNCHED ITALIANS CITIZENS.

Governor of Florida Finds One Was Naturalized, the Other American Born.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Gov. Gilchrist of Florida has confirmed his first statement regarding the nationality of the two Italians who were lynched at Tampa on the night of the 17th inst. The State Department to-day received a telegram from the Governor stating that one of the men was a naturalized citizen and the other a native, born in New Orleans.

This information has been communicated to the Italian Embassy at Manchester-by-the-Sea, and it is expected that it will close the incident, there being no cause for complaint to this Government.

EDUCATED INDIAN ARRESTED.

Stole When Wife Was Starving—Had Long Sought Work.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Frank Darkcloud, descendant of a famous Chippewa Indian chief, and formerly half back on the Carlisle Indian football team, came to Chicago with his wife five weeks ago to take advantage of the education he had received. He hunted for work, and finally got a place, but by this time his money was gone and his wife was in delicate health and starving. He could get no credit, and for the first time in his life, he says, he broke the law. He stole a gun and a shirt, sold the gun, was caught, and yesterday spent the first of a 113-day sentence in the Bridewell.

College acquaintances have become interested in the young Indian couple, and an effort will be made to raise a fund with which to obtain the young man's release.

"I searched for five weeks, but no one would give me employment," said Darkcloud. "What is the use of educating us if you will not let us earn our living? I came from Montana, where I have been working on a ranch since the fair at Seattle. I was in the Wild West Show there, and we lived in a tepee and were happy. That must be the way we were intended to live. Some day I am going back. We are not wanted here."

SHOT FOR PAWNTICKETS.

Youths Quarreled Over the Ownership and One Uses a Pistol.

When Detective Cassassa, riding uptown on a Second Avenue car, saw a man jump aboard with a revolver in his hand he arrested him. The man, who was dazed, looked at the revolver for a moment and then said:

"This is what he shot me with. Somebody in the crowd passed it to me. I guess you'll find him at Mrs. Jaegel's home, 591 Third Avenue. Her daughter is is his sweetheart."

Then he fainted. Cassassa carried him to a near-by drug store and called an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital. The surgeon said the young man had been shot in the left leg and was weak from loss of blood. When revived, the man said he was Thomas Hayes of 1,024 Simpson Street, and that he had been shot by William Oehl, 16 years old, of 688 Second Avenue, at Second Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street. They had quarreled about the ownership of pawn tickets.

Cassassa went to 591 Third Avenue, as directed by Hayes, and under a bed found Oehl. He admitted that he had shot Hayes and was locked up on a charge of assault.

ROUTED BY EARTHQUAKES.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Sept. 26.—Seven members of a construction gang have arrived here with a story of having been driven away from their work near the base of an extinct volcano in the Coconino Forest, forty-five miles north of Flagstaff, by a series of fifty-two violent earthquakes last Friday night, when slight shocks were felt here and in other Northern Arizona towns.

The shocks were so violent and the rumblings within the dead volcano so terrifying that the men broke camp and left in a panic.

C. McNichols, foreman of the gang, says the shocks began on the night of Saturday, Sept. 10. The first were slight, but they became stronger each day and night until last Friday.

$250,000,000 FOR FIREWOOD.

Nation Still Uses a Lot, Though the Amount Is Decreasing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Firewood valued at $250,000,000 is used every year by the people of the United States, according to the latest estimate of the forest service. While our forefathers used considerably more wood, coal to a great extent has supplanted it as a fuel.

Little attention has been paid to the amount of wood used for fuel purposes. In 1880 the census estimated that at that time nearly 146,000,000 cords, valued at approximately $322,000,000, or $2.21 a cord, were used for fuel annually. The population then was a little more than 50,000,000. Since then the population has increased to more than 86,000,000, but the use of wood for fuel has decreased. A little more than 20,000,000,000 cubic feet of wood in all forms are used in the United States each year, and of this 7,000,000,000 cubic feet, or about 86,000,000 cords, are firewood.

Of the total estimated consumption of firewood 70,000,000 cords, or 81.4 per cent., were used on the farms; 12,615,000 cords, or 14.7 per cent., in the towns and cities with a population of from 1,000 to 30,000; 1,615,000 cords, or 1.9 per cent., in cities of more than 30,000 population, and the remainder, or 2 per cent., in mineral operations. In the four classes of consumption the average value per cord ranged from $2.61 for the firewood used on the farms to $6.88 for that used in the cities.

CAVE-IN FRIGHTENS LEAD.

Boarding House Hangs Over Big Hole in Heart of City.

LEAD, S. D., Sept. 26.—The firing of a blast in the 300-foot level of the Homestake mine yesterday started a cave-in, which continued to the surface, making a hole in the heart of the city 15 feet wide and 40 feet long.

When the dust had cleared away the Bertolero boarding house was seen hanging over the edge of the crevasse and the Campbell Hotel's back steps led into it. Fright among the residents of Lead, most of whom live above similar caverns, was allayed somewhat by assurances from officials that there was no danger.

The Homestake has hundreds of miles of tunnels under the city, and the slopes form immense caverns reaching in the upper levels well toward the surface.

CAN'T PRACTICE HERE.

Judge Denies Writ to Dr. Bloom Requiring University to Allow Him.

Supreme Court Justice Hendrick signed an order yesterday denying the application of Dr. Simon Bloom, who passed the New Jersey examination, and is licensed to practice medicine in that State, for a writ of mandamus compelling the Regents of the University of the State of New York to admit him to the practice of medicine in this State.

The Regents refused Dr. Bloom's application on the ground that he took two out of four years' attendance at medical lectures in the Boston School of Physicians and Surgeons, an institution not registered with the Regents as having a sufficiently high standard of instruction, and that it would be a mere evasion of the requirements to let him practice here by way of comity with New Jersey.

WANTS 900% DIVIDEND.

Auto Repair Company Stockholder, In Suit, Says Profits Justify It.

Supreme Court Justice Bijur denied yesterday the application of George de Fevre for a temporary receiver for James E. Woodbridge, his son, Robert S. Woodbridge, and the A-Z Company, manufacturers of automobile parts, at 526 West Fifty-fifth Street. The plaintiff alleged that the concern, in which he holds 150 of its 500 shares, the Woodbridges holding the remaining 350, has made a profit of 300 per cent. per annum in the last three years, and he demanded that he get a 900 per cent. dividend on $1,500.

The Woodbridges, in their answer, said that they had offered de Fevre $4,000 for his shares, which, they said, had been given to him because of his knowledge of the business. They admitted there had been large profits, though not so large as alleged by de Fevre. The assets of the company, with a capital stock of $5,000, are now $60,000, with liabilities of less than $5,000.

Justice Bijur also denied de Fevre's application for an injunction to prevent his displacement as Superintendent of the factory. The defendants alleged that de Fevre's litigation was inspired by the hope of compelling them to purchase his stock at an exorbitant figure.

Sure Cure for Cottage Chill

Ask any doctor about the danger to one's health from breathing the coal-gas and ash-dust laden air of poorly heated houses, the result of using stoves, grates and hot air furnaces. He will be sure to give you this soundly sensible prescription:—

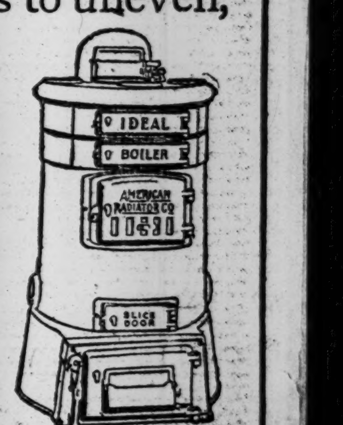
℞ "Take one IDEAL Boiler, about the size of a "barrel; set in cellar; apply a few graceful "AMERICAN Radiators to the rooms above; "add water in right proportions; serve twice a "day with a few shovelfuls of hard or soft coal, "screenings, coke, lignite or wood (whichever "is handy); shake lightly when necessary. "Will keep a new house new, and greatly "prolong the life and value of an old house."

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

are endorsed by all eminent physicians and surgeons—practically no hospitals or sanitariums exist in America or Europe which are not now warmed by these reliable, sanitary heating outfits. Hospitals and sanitariums, as you know, largely owe their existence as corrections to uneven, uncleanly heating still found in many houses.

Why therefore continue to live in daily risk from drafty rooms and cold floors, that start a cold and end in worse illnesses? The world-famous IDEAL Boilers and AMERICAN Radiators will follow the quick-changing winter weather like an intelligent automatic engineer. These wonderful fuel-saving heating outfits, bringing comfort, convenience, health protection and safety, may be as easily put in an OLD building as a new one—whether in town or country. Let us tell you more about it. Call, 'phone or write today.

A No. 4121 IDEAL Boiler and 420 ft. of 38-in. AMERICAN Radiators, costing the owner $190, were used to Hot-Water heat this cottage. At this price the goods can be bought of any reputable, competent Fitter. This did not include cost of labor, pipe, valves, freight, etc., which installation is extra and varies according to climatic and other conditions.



Anyone can learn in an hour how to run an IDEAL Boiler to get ideal results. Nothing made in all the world so simple and nearly automatic.

ROOSEVELT WON'T ATTEND TAFT DINNER

Sherman Also Declines an Invitation of the National Republican League.

TO BE A STANDPAT AFFAIR

Indorsement of the President and the Tariff Its Chief Objects—Organization's First Convention Here.

President Taft, Col. Roosevelt, and Vice President Sherman were to be the chief guests at a dinner to be given next Saturday night at the Hotel Astor in honor of the President, as the closing feature of the two days' convention of the National Republican League, according to the original plans of those at the head of the organization. But it was learned yesterday that the Vice President has declined the invitation unequivocally and that Col. Roosevelt has said that, although he would like to attend, he did not see how he possibly could.

The reason given by Mr. Sherman for his declination is not known, nor is it forthcoming at the headquarters of the association, at the Hotel Astor, but at the time the Vice President received his invitation he knew that Col. Roosevelt was one of the invited guests and that the Republican State Convention would be but a few days a thing of the past.

The committee still hopes that Col. Roosevelt's declination is not final and believes that he may, after all, attend. At any rate, he has promised to be a speaker at the first afternoon session at Carnegie Hall on Friday at 4 o'clock. He will find himself in the position of principal speaker at a convention which purposes to give the strongest kind of indorsement to the Taft Administration, the National Republican League being a "standpat" organization of the deepest dye. The ex-President said in a letter of acceptance to the committee that he would talk to "young Republicans" and would speak very frankly.

All arrangements have been completed for the dinner, and President Taft has assured the league that he will attend. He will go direct to the Republican Club after his arrival in the city, and will attend a reception there from 4 till 5 o'clock, at which he will meet all the delegates to the convention. From there he will go to the Hotel Astor, where a suite has been reserved for him. The police have arranged to close Forty-fifth Street to traffic for a short time, so that he can get to his rooms quickly and undisturbed. A similar arrangement has been made at the hotel, and he can go from his rooms to the seat reserved for him at the dinner without seeing any one.

The speech he is to deliver is said by the managers of this convention to be the only one he will make during this campaign on a political subject, and it is believed that besides the trend toward National issues it is bound to take owing to the presence of an avowedly friendly audience, it will have some significance on State affairs and the doings of the convention which meets to-day at Saratoga.

This will be the eleventh biennial convention of the National Republican League. The last one was held in 1908 in Cincinnati, and was attended by Mr. Taft as a candidate for the Presidency. The organization consists of some 3,500 clubs federated in State organizations, and having a National directing body. Its membership amounts to about 2,500,000. This is the first time a convention has been held in New York.

The first session will be held on Friday morning in Carnegie Hall, and the meetings will be continued through Friday and Saturday. The balconies will be open to the public without ticket. The main business will be the election of officers and the adoption of a platform. It is likely that the Committee on Resolutions and Platform will consist of John A. Stewart, President of the New York State Association; John G. Capers, member of the National Committee from South Carolina, and John Hays Hammond, President of the organization.

This committee will present a document embodying the beliefs of the league as to the principles which should govern the Republican Party. They will include, it can be said, a sweeping indorsement of the Taft Administration, which will say that its first two years have seen everything accomplished that could be accomplished, and a declaration that the recent tariff redeems the pledges made before election and is really a revision downward. J. Benjamin Dimock will be the principal speaker at the Friday session. John Hays Hammond will preside throughout the convention and will make a speech on the tariff.

On Saturday Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio and Congressman McKinlay will speak. There will be about 1,500 delegates attending the convention, and no State is without representation. After Friday's session the delegates will go to the Republican Club for the reception to President Taft. The dinner on Saturday night will be the closing feature of the convention.

Among the guests at the dinner who have signified their acceptance are William Loeb, Jr., Congressman Heald of Delaware, George B. Cortelyou, Senator Crane of Massachusetts, Senator Bulkeley of Connecticut, Congressman J. Van Vechten Olcott, Congressman Loudenslager, John W. Dwight, Lieut. Gov. Horace White, who will at that time be Governor; Senator Guggenheim of Colorado, Senator Depew, Senator Heyburn, Otto T. Bannard, Lloyd Griscom, Senator Dick of Ohio, Senator Burroughs of Michigan, Job B. Hedges, Gov. Glasscock of West Virginia, Attorney General Wickersham, and Senator Oliver of Pennsylvania.

AUTO COST LESS THAN HORSES

Unique Operative Cost Test for First Day Favors the Motor Car.

The six-day test of the operative cost of an automobile and a horse and buggy, which is being conducted by the Maxwell-Briscoe Motor Company, started yesterday from the United States Motor Company Building, 7 West Sixty-first Street. The test will extend over six days, six hours a day. The auto and horse and buggy started off up Broadway and the first day covered only streets and boulevards about the city. The Contest Board of the A. A. A. has appointed observers who are unknown to the drivers of the car and horse.

Through the congested conditions of city traffic the automobile covered 67.4 miles, against 28.8 by the horse, yesterday. The automobile consumed five gallons of gasoline at a cost of 85 cents, and a pint of oil at 15 cents, a total of $1. No repairs of any kind were necessary, so the cost per passenger mile was seven-tenths of a cent. The horse cost 95 cents for twelve quarts of oats, and twenty pounds of hay, which was fed to him before, during, and after the day's test. No other disbursements were made, and the cost per passenger mile was one and six-tenths cents.

NO COURT FOR HIGGINBOTHAM

Brooklyn Magistrate to be Relieved Until Case Against Him Is Tried.

When the Committee of Assignments of the Brooklyn Board of Magistrates issues its report to-morrow fixing the schedule of sittings for October, November, and December, it was said yesterday that the name of E. Gaston Higginbotham, who is awaiting trial on an assault charge preferred by Miss Mary Hickey, will not appear on the list.

When the charges first were made Magistrate Higginbotham was given a leave of absence to prepare his defense. This expired last Saturday, but he did not appear on the bench of the Bedford Avenue Court yesterday, and it is not believed that he will resume his duties until the case has been settled.

HOSPITAL STAFF MAY QUIT.

Beth David Directors Meet, but Take No Action.

Seven doctors, constituting the medical staff of the Beth David Hospital, 246 East Eighty-second Street, having resigned at the request of the Board of Directors, the Directors held a special meeting at the hospital last night, at which the formation of a new staff was postponed until the annual meeting in October. If the members of the old staff desire, they may continue in office until that meeting, but it is possible they may walk out in a body to-day, leaving the hospital without a physician.

Dr. H. B. Sheffield of 127 West Eighty-seventh Street, one of the medical staff, said the hospital, which is a small institution, with about thirty beds, until recently was called the Yorkville Hospital. Four months ago an arrangement was made between the association then backing the hospital and the Federation of Polish Jews by which the name was changed to Beth David, and it was understood, declared Dr. Sheffield, that a large number of the members of the federation would join the hospital association, and that a new and bigger hospital would be built. Dr. Sheffield continued:

"So many of the Federation members were taken on the Board of Directors of the hospital that they controlled it, and they planned to get rid of others so they could fill up the staff with their own doctors. Our resignations were asked for and sent in."

Another indication of the transformation which the old Yorkville Hospital is now undergoing, Dr. Sheffield said, was that the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, of which Miss Henrietta Strauss of 120 West 57th Street was President, went out of existence with the change of four months ago, and another women's auxiliary, made up of members of the Polish Federation, was formed.

Dr. Sheffield said the seven members of the medical staff understood that their resignations would take effect to-day. He was not at all sure that they would be inclined to go on working until the Directors met in October.

"The physicians will hold a meeting to-morrow to consider the matter," he said, "but I don't think they will be anxious to work after the treatment they have received and knowing what the Federation members of the board intend to do."

The members of the medical staff, in addition to Dr. Sheffield, are Drs. A. Sturndorf, G. A. Friedman, H. Jarecky, A. Michailovsky, B. Rusenbluth, and R. Cronson.

William H. Davidow of 55 West Eighty-seventh Street, President of the Beth David Hospital Association, after last night's meeting said that many members of the Federation of Polish Jews had joined the asociation and that a committee was appointed to find a site for a hospital five times as large as the present one.

MOUNT VERNON GETS WATER.

Taps New York City Viaduct—Hastings and Dobbs Ferry Suffer.

Water-famished Mount Vernon was greatly relieved yesterday when Mayor Edwin W. Fiske announced that he had obtained permission to draw 2,500,000 gallons of water daily from New York City. This service, which began at 10 o'clock last night, from a tap made on the Boston Post Road, near East Chester, it is believed will be sufficient to relieve the situation in Mount Vernon until the large pump, which has been set up at Ardsley, is put into operation.

At 7:30 o'clock last night little water could be had in the residences. In apartment and tenement houses there was none above the second floor. In some houses there was no water to be had even in the cellars. The schools were closed yesterday, but it is expected to open them to-day.

Sprinkling carts carts were sent through the city by the Commissioner of Public Works with water for cooking and drinking purposes and to supply stables. This water came from the New Rochelle Water Company.

The Interurban Water Company had men digging out the channel of Silver Lake so that all water entering the lake would flow through the spillway. Residents of Silver Lake tried to stop the diggers, but the foreman contended that the company had bought the water at a high price and intended to take it.

The Town Board of Harrison decided to ask the State Board of Health to decide the legal right of draining the lake. St. Mary's Lake, the water of which was also purchased by the Interurban Company, is dry. In the mud of the bottom hundreds of fish were dying and decaying yesterday.

The Mamaroneck River and reservoir are also entirely dry, and a famine is feared in many towns, unless there is early rain.

At Hastings and Dobbs Ferry, where also is a shortage of water, carts containing milk cans filled with water were sent from house to house.

In Yonkers Mayor Lennon asked residents to be careful of the water, to refrain from sprinkling lawns, and from making other large drafts on the supply. The flushing of streets was discontinued.

SULTAN TO PAY TAFT A VISIT TO-MORROW

A CALL ON GENERAL WOOD

Sultan Admires the White House from the Outside and Wants a Palace Like It.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Hamalul Kiram II., the Sultan of Sulu, found President Taft too busily engaged with affairs of state to see him to-day, and an appointment was made for the Sultan to call at the White House Wednesday afternoon.

The Sultan and his native advisers, escorted by Col. Hugh L. Scott, U. S. A., visited the War Department, where they met Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Chief of Staff of the army. Through an interpreter Kiram II. chatted with Gen. Wood over old times in the Philippines, after which he spent several hours in the War Department meeting officers of the army, among them Gen. Oliver, Acting Secretary of War, and Gen. Bell, who is soon to go to the Philippines.

The Sultan is captivated by "American palaces," as he calls the White House and departmental buildings. He told his interpreter that when he returned to his native country he would build himself an American house, if it cost him all the money he had. When he passed the White House this morning he stopped to admire it, and said in his native tongue, "I would like to live in that house or one like that."

The Sultan is also much interested in agriculture, and intends to purchase some improved farming machinery to ship to his country. He will remain here several days.

Athletic Trophy for Public School 62.

James E. Sullivan, Chairman of the Games Committee of the Public Schools Athletic League, has awarded the Gen. George W. Wingate Trophy to Public School 62, Manhattan, for the all-around athletic elementary school championship of Greater New York. This is the greatest athletic honor a public school can obtain. The trophy itself was presented by Rodman Wanamaker, and stands nearly 6 feet high. It represents a victorious warrior, and on its ebony base is a cast of Gen. Wingate. Public School 62 during the past year won the Public Schools Athletic League soccer tournament the indoor track championship, the light and heavyweight basket ball tournament, the indoor baseball tournament, made a point in the swimming championship, four points in the novice outdoor track meet, six points in the outdoor track championships, finished third in the athletic badge contest, and won the seventh and eighth year trophies for class jumping, running, and chinning. Public Schools 9, Brooklyn; 28, The Bronx; 12, Queens; 32, The Bronx; 1, Richmond; 72, Brooklyn, and 14, Richmond, were exceptionally successful during the past year.

Monohan Wins First League Game.

In last night's game of the National League preliminary three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at John Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy, John Monahan defeated William Blumenthal by the score of 40 to 33 in eighty-nine innings. Monahan made a high run of 4. The tournament started last night with eight of the best players in the city entered. Including the two players of to-night they are: James Blair, Frank Hoppe, Al Latchford, William Croll, J. Dankelman, and A. Miller. The winner of the tournament will represent New York in the National Billiard League which has been formed recently. To-night at 7:30 o'clock James Blair will meet Al Latchford.

In the Class B three-cushion carrom billiard tournament, L. Wilson defeated Bert Sherman last night by the score of 25 to 20. To-night Dr. Howe will cross cues with Bud Fisher.

VANDERBILT AT BROCKTON.

Thirty-five Horses Entered in Show—Going to Louisville and Atlanta.

Thirty-five of the best horses owned by Alfred G. Vanderbilt have been entered in the Brockton horse show starting Oct. 4, which are now at Brockton. Mr. Vanderbilt will drive his entries. From Brockton the Vanderbilt horses will be shipped to Louisville for the show there starting Oct. 10, thence to the horse show at Atlanta, Ga., starting Oct. 18.

The Vanderbilt horses then will come to the National show in New York, Nov. 14. The entries will include about every class in the Vanderbilt stables and the miniature four-in-hand coach with the four English ponies Mr. Vanderbilt brought from England two years ago.

Reginald C. Vanderbilt will appear in the show ring here. The famous gelding chestnut, Dr. Selwonk, which has only been beaten twice since 1895 when Mr. Vanderbilt became the owner, will not be shown.

WOMEN AT TENNIS NETS.

Miss Moyes, Canadian Champion, Among Longwood Contestants.

LONGWOOD, Mass., Sept. 26.—International interest attached to the woman's singles lawn tennis tournament, begun at the Longwood Cricket Club to-day, due to the presence of Miss Lois Moyes of Toronto, Canada, the four-time Canadian champion of her sex. Aside from Miss Moyes, many of the leading players in the East were competitors.

The New York representatives, who arrived too late for their matches to-day, are Miss Louise Hammond, the Eastern States title holder, and Miss Elsie Little, sister of Raymond D. Little, the internationalist.

Miss Moyes went through to the third round to-day without being obliged to exert herself. She proved a strong, steady player, and a formidable rival for the challenge trophy, held by Mrs. Barger-Wallach of New York and Newport. In her second round match Miss Moyes defeated Miss Harriot S. Curtis, former National woman's champion golfer, 6—2, 6—0. In her other match Miss Moyes defeated Miss Sarah G. Chase of this city, 6—0, 6—0.

Roper Wins N. Y. A. C. Singles Title.

Playing his drives for straight passing shots, Langdon H. Roper defeated Rufus Davis for the championship lawn tennis singles of the New York Athletic Club, at Travers Island. Roper scored in three straight sets by the score of 6—4, 6—3, 6—4. The final of the Class A handicap singles was won by Charles H. Roper, the former Columbia University expert, whose mark was minus three-sixths of 15. He defeated Jerry T. Mahoney, minus 15, after five hard-fought sets, 4—6, 6—2, 6—8, 6—3, 6—3. It is expected that the other events of the tournament series, which has been the largest in point of entry that the club has ever held, will be decided within a few days. The summaries:

Men's Singles—Semi-Final Round.—Roper defeated Schultz-Berge, 6—1, 6—2, 6—3; Davis defeated Roundey, 6—2, 6—0, 6—3.

Final Round.—Roper defeated Davis, 6—4, 6—3, 6—4.

Championship Doubles—Semi-Final Round.—Black and Roper defeated Keane and Friedman, 6—2, 4—6, 6—2; Bourne and Schultz-Berge defeated Mahoney and Peabody, 6—4, 1—6, 6—3.

Handicap Doubles—Semi-Final Round.—Nolan and Roper, owe 15, defeated Platt and Trubenbach, plus three-sixths of 15, 6—4, 6—2; Bourne and Schultz-Berge, owe 30, defeated Wilson and Wasserman, plus 15, 6—1, 6—2.

Handicap Singles—Final Round.—Roper, minus three-sixths of 15, defeated Mahoney, minus 15, 4—6, 6—2, 6—8, 6—3, 6—3.

Motor Racing Club at Vanderbilt Cup.

One of the choicest parking allotments for the Vanderbilt Cup race has just been secured by the Motor Racing Association for the benefit of its members and their friends who desire to watch the progress of the big contest on Saturday. The space, which will accommodate about 100 cars, is in the press stand inclosure directly opposite the grand stand and close to the starting and finishing line. The space borders the parkway without any fence to shut off the view. As it is expected there will be considerable demand for such an excellent position, members of the club and their friends should make their reservations without delay at the City Club House of the Motor Racing Association, 304 West Fifty-eighth Street.

Travis to Play at Plainfield.

Walter J. Travis will play at the Plainfield Country Club to-morrow, and the members are greatly pleased at the prospect of seeing the best-known amateur, and a world's champion play over their course. Mr. Travis was unable to play in the tournament at Plainfield two or three years ago, when Findlay S. Douglas tied with Frank Reinhart for the principal prize at score play with a fine 71.

RACING AUTOS COLLIDE IN FOG

THIRTY CARS IN CUP RACE

Six in the Massapequa Sweepstakes and Eight for the Wheatley Hills Sweepstakes.

A heavy fog which hung over the Vanderbilt Cup course yesterday morning prevented the drivers from making fast time in the practice trips around the course. The fog was the cause of an accident early in the day, when the Lancia car, driven by Billy Knipper, sideswiped Bobby Burman's Marquette-Buick at Westbury Lodge, on the parkway, and the machine shot away into the meadow. Knipper and his mechanician, August Guishard, were tossed into the air, and landed some distance from the course. Knipper, fortunately, landed on a heap of sand and was not injured. Guishard also escaped without being hurt. The Lancia car turned over when it left the course, but the damage was of little consequence.

Knipper and the force of mechanics worked on the car at the Lancia camp, and it was announced that Knipper would surely drive the car in Saturday's race. Burman's car was not smashed, only a hub cap being torn off.

The number of entries was brought up to thirty by the entry of the Columbia car and an American yesterday. The American car will be driven by J. Wallace, and Harold Stone, a Western crack, will pilot the Columbia.

The entries are now officially closed, and no more will be accepted. There are thirty entries in the Vanderbilt Cup race, 6 entries in the Massapequa Sweepstakes, and eight entries for the Wheatley Hills Sweepstakess, bringing the total up to the unprecedented number of forty-four nominations.

In addition to the offer of $500, $250, and $150 to the first three drivers across the line at the finish of the Vanderbilt Cup race, the Bosch Magneto Company announced additional cash prizes of $150 for the first and $100 to the second finishers in both the Massapequa and Wheatley Hills Sweepstakes. A. R. Pardington announced yesterday that the advance sale of seats for the Vanderbilt Cup race far exceeded any previous years, showing the widespread interest in the forthcoming contest. There was so much fog on the course yesterday that the drivers were, as a rule, cautious during the early morning practice, and no phenomenally fast times were recorded. Bert Dingley, in the Pope-Hartford, made the fastest circuit just before practice was over by reeling off one lap (12.6 miles) in 11 minutes 21 seconds.

Special Ferryboats for Cup Race.

On the night of Sept. 30, prior to the Vanderbilt Cup race, and on the night of Oct. 14, prior to the International Grand Prize event, all-night service will be maintained on the ferry for automobiles that crosses Long Island Sound between Rye and Sea Cliff. The ferry slip at Sea Cliff is but six miles from the Vanderbilt Motor Parkway. The boat will leave Rye on the even-numbered hours and Sea Cliff on the odd hours throughout the night. Reservations for space on any particular trip may now be made by writing to the ferry office at Rye. The boat can easily accommodate forty cars, and should there be any likelihood of this being exceeded, an extra boat will be chartered for each of the big cup races.

Another Car for Wheatley Hills Race.

J. Mora Boyle, President of the Correja Motor Car Company, has entered a stock car in the Wheatley Hills Sweepstakes, which takes place on the Motor Parkway on Saturday. The car has won all five of the hill-climbing contests it has competed in this year.

Athletic Carnival for Charity.

It is expected that upwards of 1,000 athletes will compete in the big athletic carnival which the newspaper men of Hudson County will hold at the Jersey City baseball park on Saturday Oct. 8. The meet will be for a charitable purpose and the proceeds will be given to the Home for Homeless and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Entries have been received from many prominent athletes of the New York A. C., Irish-American A. C., Pastimes, and many other well-known organizations.

AUTOMOBILE vs. HORSE

Maxwell Economy Test

We have offered to sell to any resident of Greater New York or vicinity a Maxwell Model Q-11 Runabout (4 Cylinder, 22 horse power, sliding gear transmission,) provided it cost more than 2c per passenger mile to operate it during a 60-day trial. We require the car to be equipped with speedometer to demonstrate the accuracy of the cost charges.

We made this offer to convince every one that a Maxwell car is a utility car and more economical to use than a horse and buggy. We presented figures to prove our contention, but to make assurance doubly sure we determined to enforce the correctness of our belief by

A Public Demonstration

We decided, therefore, to operate under disinterested direction and observation a daily comparative test. We sent out, with driver and observer, an Automobile and a Horse and Buggy, and instructed the driver of either to test the capacity of each mode of conveyance under usual traffic conditions in Central and Upper Manhattan.

We arranged with the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association to conduct the test and appoint its own observers. The trial is under the direction of Chairman Samuel S. Butler, and the results will be announced daily.

AUTOMOBILE

Mileage covered in 5 hours, 67.4.

Gasoline consumed, 5 gals.@17c	$ .85
Oil consumed, 1 pt	.15
	$1.00
Comparative cost per mile	.014
Cost per passenger mile	.007

HORSE AND BUGGY

Mileage covered in 5 hours, 28.8.

Feed; 12 qts. oats (4 qts., 25c.)	$ .75
20 lbs. hay (1c. per lb.)	.20
	.95
Comparative cost per mile	.032
Cost per passenger mile	.016

No repairs, replacements or other disbursements for either vehicle.

TO-DAY.........We will repeat the test in Long Island City, Jamaica and Brooklyn.
TO-MORROW....We will repeat it in Newark and Jersey City.
THURSDAY......We will repeat it on Staten Island.
NEXT MONDAY..We will repeat it in the Bronx and Westchester County.
NEXT TUESDAY..We will repeat it in lower New York, in the heart of the business section, to cover every phase of traffic conditions.

LOOK for the Maxwell and Horse and Buggy in these districts on these days, weather permitting, and watch the daily Bulletin of results.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 26.—Bunching three successive hits off Bill Donovan in the ninth innings, after the Tigers had scored the first run of the game in the eighth, the Yankees succeeded in evening matters at Bennett Park this afternoon, and two innings later three more hits were polled in a row, bringing victory to the invaders, 3 to 1. The game was the first of a series of three, which will have an important bearing on the final ownership of second place in the pennant chase. As a result of to-day's victory the Yanks are close on the Tigers' heels and in a position to jump ahead by winning the second game.

Jim Vaughn was selected to oppose Donovan on the slab, and both were hit much harder than the small score indicates. A dozen safeties were polled off each pitcher, and some sensational fielding by the men behind them was the only thing which kept the score down. The home hurler was far more fortunate in this respect than Vaughn, as he was not as successful in keeping the bingles separated. Vaughn helped the Tigers to their only run with a wild pitch in the eighth inning, which sent Donovan from second to third base after Bill's single and a sacrifice by Davy Jones. But in the same inning, with the corners choked and one out, Vaughn fanned Moriarty and caused Bush to hit a pop fly to Knight.

Hal Chase and Birdie Cree were the stickers whose timely drives decided the battle for the visitors. Chase drove Daniels in with the tieing run in the ninth inning, and Cree's wallop in the eleventh was responsible for the runs scored by Knight and Gardner. Chase almost broke up the game in the opening round with a double against the top of the left field bleacher screen, being only a few inches short of a home run drive. Hemphill was on first at the time, and fast fielding held both men to two bases.

Laporte was not with the club, having been left in Cleveland because of a slight indisposition, and Earl Gardner, who is slated to hold down second base throughout the present series, tore off some flashy plays. With two on bases in the seventh Gardner made a jumping catch of a sizzling liner from Casey's bat and killed the rally with a double play on Bush at second base. In the second inning Gardner grabbed a hot grounder from Bush's bat, and, after touching Moriarty, got Bush at first. Walter Blair made his reappearance in a Yankee uniform and backed up Vaughn in splendid style. Cobb was the only Tiger who took any liberties with Blair's whip, and he took the count going into second.

The Yanks had a good chance in the opening inning. With one down Hemphill singled and reached third on Chase's double. Knight flied to Moriarty and Gardner grounded out. In the second the visitors died in order, and in the third Daniels, who reached first base on his single to right field, died stealing. The fourth inning was quiet, and Austin singled in the fifth, only to go out on a double play, when Blair lined to O'Leary. O'Leary's error put Vaughn on first base at the beginning of the sixth inning, but Daniels and Chase flied to Cobb and Hemphill struck out. Cree reached first base in the seventh inning on Crawford's error, but died stealing. In those same seven innings only one Tiger saw third base and only two saw second. Tom Jones reached third on his triple, which opened the third inning, but the three following batsmen were retired easily.

The run getting began in the eighth inning. After the Yanks had been retired in order Donovan opened for the Tigers with an infield hit and Davy Jones sacrificed. A wild pitch put Donovan on third base and Cobb chased him home with a single over short, after O'Leary had walked. Gardner fumbled Crawford's drive, filling the bases, but Moriarty fanned and Bush popped to Knight.

The Yankees tied up the game in the ninth inning. Daniels beat out an infield hit and went to third base on Hemphill's single to right field. Chase singled to left field, scoring Daniels and putting Hemphill on second base. Knight fouled to Moriarty, Donnovan threw Gardner out, and Cree flied to Crawford. With one out in Detroit's half Casey doubled to right field, but Donovan fanned and Davy Jones grounded to Vaughn. Vaughn reached third base with two out in the tenth inning on his single to centre, and a Texas leaguer by Daniels. Hemphill went out on a grounder to O'Leary. O'Leary opened Detroit's half of the tenth inning with a single to right field, and reached second base on Cobb's sacrifice. Crawford and Moriarty flied out.

The Yanks won in the eleventh inning. After Chase had grounded to Moriarty, Knight singled to left field and Gardner followed with a single to the same section. Cree singled to right field, scoring Knight, and Gardner followed Jack home, when Crawford made a poor throw to the plate. Cree reached second base on the play, and went to third base on Austin's long fly to Crawford. Blair popped to O'Leary. The Tigers went out in order.

Boston and Naps in a Tie.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 26.—Cleveland and Boston played a tie game to-day, the contest being called at the end of the ninth inning, each team scoring five runs. Collins saved the game for Boston by holding Cleveland down after Cicotte had been knocked out of the box. The batting of Lajoie, Speaker, and Stahl featured, Lajoie making three doubles in four times at bat. Score:

Lansing and Kalamazoo Tied for Flag

LANSING, Mich., Sept. 26.—Lansing won three games from Flint yesterday in closing the South Michigan League season, and with 87 games won and 52 lost tied Kalamazoo for the league pennant. Kalamazoo and Lansing will play a post-season series for the pennant. Lansing also won both ends of a doubleheader from Flint Saturday, making five games won in two days. Flint was shut out twice yesterday, 2 to 0 and 1 to 0, and the first game went to Lansing, 8 to 7.

National League Bulletin.

T. J. Lynch, President of the National League, yesterday announced the following contracts and releases:

Releases—By Cincinnati, to Fort Wayne, C. Le Young.

FARRELL APPOINTS CHASE AS MANAGER

Owner of Yankees Deposes George Stallings After Conference with Old Leader.

The unsettled condition of affairs in the camp of the New York Americans, which started several days ago when Manager George Stallings accused First Baseman Hal Chase of not giving his best efforts to the club, came to an end yesterday, when Owner Frank Farrell announced that Stallings had been relieved of the management. Chase has been named to lead the team for the remainder of the season.

It is rumored that Chase's appointment as manager extends only to the end of the present season, and that Arthur Irwin, at present a scout for the club, will direct the players next season.

The change was not unexpected. Owner Farrell left for the West a few days ago to make an investigation into the charges made by Stallings, the Yankee manager having been summoned to New York previous to Farrell's departure. According to a statement credited to President Ban Johnson of the American League, who took part in the investigation, the charges against Chase were not proved. All the Yankee players were interviewed regarding the stories about Chase.

Owner Farrell arrived in this city yesterday morning from Cleveland, and immediately went into secret conference with Stallings. The two were closeted for two hours, and at the close of the talk Mr. Farrell announced that a change had been decided upon. He refused to make any other statement. Mr. Stallings declined to make any statement other than to say that he had received his check in full and was no longer manager of the club.

Stallings joined the team as manager at the beginning of last season, and has succeeded in rounding out a winning ball club. His contract does not expire until Oct. 15, but he stated yesterday that he had been paid in full up to that date. He has no definite plans for his future in baseball, though his name has been mentioned in connection with the management of the Philadelphia Nationals next season. He expects to leave in a few days for a rest at his plantation in Georgia.

MURPHY HOLDING OUT.

Cardinals Want to Pull Games Forward, but Cubs Stand in Way.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—"There will be no Sunday game during the world's series unless President Murphy of the Cubs agrees to wind up the schedule for his club before Oct. 15," said President B. B. Johnson of the American League to-day: "I understand President Robison of the St. Louis Nationals has made a proposition to Mr. Murphy regarding the early completion of the remaining games booked between these clubs, and from all reports the Chicago club alone is holding out."

"Interest in the major league race is bound to slump with the approach of cold weather," continued President Johnson, "and it is absolutely essential that the league season close before the middle of October. Cold weather already has cut in on the sport, and in order to make this series for the highest honors in baseball the huge success it should be the club owners should arrange their games so that the pennant winning clubs might meet under favorable weather conditions."

ROSS K. BEST IN STAKES.

Pacer Makes New Record for Heat, Covering the Mile in 2:03¼.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 26.—Ross K., over a track softened by rains of Saturday, gave the King Stake of $5,000 for 2:05 pacers a new record to-day when he made the first heat in 2:03¼. He won without great effort and the next two heats came easily.

T. W. Murphy, who drove in each of the fifteen heats on the programme, rode six of them back of Dirl and won two seconds. One heat was necessary to settle the 2:15 pace that came over from Friday and it gave Fred F. a decision over Dirl that later was selected to win the 2:18 pace. Two heats of this race were taken by the favorite. Then he tired and Bird Grattan got the race by winning the next three times.

Bervaldo of the Murphy stable made it one, two, three in the 2:13 trot, being able to outbrush Olive F. in the stretch. Major Wellington, the first choice, was twice third and once last because of a break.

In order to handle the 2:19 trotters it was necessary to cut the event into two divisions. The first division started with Creighton as the favorite. He won the first heat in slow time, but was second to Admiral Red in the next heat, when the time dropped to 2:09¼. A third heat was won easily by Admiral Red, and then the race was postponed until to-morrow to be resumed just before the second division is taken up. The summaries:

Glencoe A. C. Cross-Country Run.

The members of the Glencoe Athletic Club intend to make cross-country running a specialty this Fall, and the outlook is favorable for developing several boys of more than ordinary ability at this style of going. The first run will be held on next Sunday afternoon, starting from the clubhouse, 248 East 126th Street, at 3 o'clock.

CROSS BEATS SMITH.

East Side Dentist Comes Back Strong After Poor Start at Olympic A. C.

Springing out of his corner like an infuriated tiger, "Cy" Smith of Jersey City slammed away at Leach Cross for ten rounds last night at the Olympic Athletic Club, but the cleverness and ability of Cross in the finer points of the game enabled him to turn off most of the fiercely directed blows and earn the decision at the conclusion of the contest.

Cross was greatly taken by surprise in the first round, and the bell had not finished sounding before the Jersey Cyclone, without stopping to shake hands, was upon Cross and beating his body. Cross was unable to grasp the situation, and when they had separated he led, but missed his mark and fell into a clinch. Smith crossed over a hard righthand punch to the stomach, and Cross fell to the floor for the count. All through the round the east side dentist was unable to get set, and constantly covered up.

In the second round Smith opened with the same tactics, and was always following Cross about the ring, but the east sider made a much better showing by sending in his left jab to the face on three occasions, and succeeded in bringing the blood from Smith's mouth. Smith was better at the infighting, and earned the decision of the second round.

The third was an exceedingly fast round, and after both men had been fighting for about a minute the referee stopped the bout and made the men shake hands. Smith heeled Cross with his glove, and this was the cause of the referee's action. Cross jabbed Smith with his left frequently, and crossed over his right to the body, and then they fell to a clinch, where Cross did the best work, the round closing in his favor.

The Fighting Dentist had sized his man up by this time, and went in at will in the fourth round, stopping his hard swings with his gloves and getting to his opponent's body and face, while Smith bored in all the time.

Smith was completely outclassed in the fifth round, and was just saved from a knockout by the bell. Cross had all the better of the milling, landing at will. Cross had the better of the sixth, seventh, ninth, and tenth rounds, while in the eighth the men broke even. In the last round Cross tried hard to put Smith away, but he had lost his punch, and the Jerseyite managed to last until the bell.

McFarland and Hyland Ready to Fight

So far as condition is concerned, Packey McFarland, whom many good judges of pugilism believe to be the ablest lightweight in the business, and "Fighting Dick" Hyland will shape up in the Fairmont Athletic Club ring to-night fit to go an unlimited distance instead of the ten rounds they are scheduled to face each other. McFarland's ambition is to become the lightweight champion of the world, the title now held by Ad Wolgast, and to-night the Chicago stockyards boy says he will show exactly what he can do when fighting a high-class man. On the other hand, Hyland's ability cannot be underestimated. His fights in this vicinity, especially his recent meeting with Jack Goodman, show that he is a dangerous opponent for any man of his weight to tackle. Hyland admits that he has a hard job on his hands to-night, but feels confident that he will receive the verdict of all unprejudiced spectators at the finish.

Heavyweight Bouts at National.

The members of the National Sporting Club will have a heavyweight entertainment for a change next Friday night. The lightweights have held sway the last three weeks and Tom O'Rourke thinks it time to make a change. This will be a final bout and a semi-final between four 200 pound negroes. In the final, Joe Jeannette, who recently put up a desperate fifteen-round battle against Sam Langford in Boston, will meet Morris Harris, the Philadelphia heavyweight. Harris recently nipped the aspirations of Kid Cotton, who acquired more or less fame through being one of Jack Johnson's sparring partners at Reno. In the semi-final, Tom Overby, a colored giant, will tackle Black Bill.

Amateur Boxing Tournament.

The Greater New York amateur boxing championships are to be held under the auspices of the Madison Square Athletic Club, sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, in the concert hall of Madison Square Garden on the evenings Oct. 3, and 5. Five classes will be contested, the 105, 115, 125, 135, and 158 pounds. Two prizes will be given to first and second men in each class, a solid gold watch to winners, appropriately engraved, and a gold filled watch to those finishing second. The entries for these events will close on Oct. 1, with Secretary David Dunne at Room 508 Fuller Building, Broadway and Twenty-third Street, from whom entry blanks may be obtained upon application. All registered athletes in Greater New York will be eligible to compete.

Bouts at Long Acre A. C.

Manager Billy Neumann of the Long Acre Athletic Club has arranged an extensive card for Thursday evening's stag at the Twenty-ninth Street clubhouse. The main bout, a ten-round affair, will be between Young Egers of the West Side and Young Jimmy Howe, a protege of Frankie Howe. In the semi-final, also of ten rounds, Marty Monroe, who claims the Southern lightweight title, will meet Freddie Keller. Six rounds have been arranged between Kid Gleason of Philadelphia and Jeff Smith of Bayonne, Young Brown and Frankie Yale, and Young Froelick and Jack Duane.

Powell Defeats Krause.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Tommy Powell of Southwark won over Johnny Krause of Nicetown in the wind-up at the West End Athletic Club to-night. It was a representative of the Italian colony against a ruralite, and the bout packed the clubhouse. Powell got his blows started first, and kept Krause's head bobbing back and forth with left-hand jabs and straightened him up when he crouched by right-hand upper cuts. When Krause feinted, Powell led, and the blow invariably landed before Krause could get set to block. It was a hard bout, and the men kept up a terrific pace from start to finish.

Big Boxing Show at Long Acre A. A.

Young Egers, the west side boxer, who has nineteen knockouts to his credit, will be seen at the Long Acre Athletic Association on Thursday evening in the main ten round bout with Young Jimmy Howe. The latter is a protege of Frankie Howe and a promising future is predicted for him. The evening's bill will include 48 rounds of boxing. Marty Monroe, a southern boxer, will meet Fred Keller in a ten round bout and Kid Gleason of Philadelphia is booked for a six round session with Jeff Smith. Young Brown will box six rounds with Frankie Yale and another six round bout will be between Al Froelich and Jack Duane. A lively wrestling match will open the show.

Thirty-four Rounds at Opening Stag.

Boxing fans of the Bronx, particularly the members of the S. Garland Athletic Club, whose headquarters are at Forest and Westchester Avenues, will be treated to a good night's sport to usher in the opening stag of the organization. The programme includes three ten-round bouts and a four-round preliminary, the long-distance affairs bringing together Charley Harvey of Chicago and Charley Goldman of New York, Frank Kenney and "Fighting Jack" Nelson, and "Irish" Paddy and Kiel Alberts.

Sullivan and Keyes Draw.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Kid Sullivan of Washington earned a draw with Bert Keyes of New York in the main bout of ten rounds before the Knickerbocker A. C. here to-night. Keyes landed hard and often with terrific rights and lefts in the first three rounds, but Sullivan kept boring in and made an even fight of it from the fourth round to the end.

Fights at Metropolitan A. C.

The Metropolitan Athletic Club will offer for its members on Thursday evening a ten round main bout between Kid Ghetto and Johnny Moran. These two boxers fought a fast ten round draw before this same club a few weeks ago and there has been a demand to rematch them.

Athletes Enter Dartmouth.

That Harry Hillman, the Dartmouth coach, has drawn on Metropolitan athletic talent was shown by the successful entrance to the Hanover College of Harry Hayward and J. M. mond, both of the New York Athletic Club. Hayward passed his "exams" for the Medical School, while Richmond was equally fortunate in getting enough points to qualify for the Engineering School. Each has a good record in and about New York as clean-cut amateurs and men who could be depended upon to do their best when called upon at all distances from 300 yards to a mile.

A. A. Champions Going to Cuba.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 26.—The Minneapolis Baseball Club, champions of the American Association, has arranged a series of twelve games to be played this Fall in Cuba and the West Indies. Ten of the Minneapolis team and Outfielder Lelivelt of Washington will make the trip. The players will start from Chicago on Oct. 25.

COLUMBIA MAY PLAY FOOTBALL THIS FALL

President Butler Confers with Student Committee on Its Restoration.

The game of football, which for several seasons has been scratched off the list of athletic pursuits at Columbia University, may again be revived on Morningside Heights. The question of resuming 'Varsity football with other college teams will probably not be considered this season, but the interclass games will probably be taken up again.

The new rules are the cause of the change in the Columbia Faculty's point of view of the game. Now that many coaches are so confident that all the roughness and other undesirable features of the gridiron game have been eliminated, the powers at the university are not so adverse to reviving the class games as they have been for the past two years.

It was a great surprise to the student body yesterday when it was announced that President Nicholas Murray Butler had called a meeting of the Student Board of the university to be held in his office. President Butler wanted to get the students' opinions of the new rules. The subject was discussed at some length, and it is believed that if the rules make the game as safe as the football physicians predict that they will, the head of Columbia will not oppose the revival of the interclass contests.

Nothing definite was decided upon at the meeting, but a student committee was appointed to investigate the new rules and report to President Butler on their merits or demerits.

It is believed among the student body that the playing off the class contests again will lead to the revival of 'Varsity football.

HARVARD MAKES TOUCHDOWN

'Varsity Team Makes Poor Showing Against Second Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 26.—The 'Varsity eleven was able to score only one touchdown against the second eleven this afternoon in a 25-minute scrimmage on the Harvard Stadium gridiron. The 'Varsity substitutes did better against the "second," making two touchdowns and two safeties in like time. Corbett scored the 'Varsity touchdown. The ball was started in midfield in possession of the seconds. After a half-dozen plays they landed on the 'Varsity 15-yard line, where they lost the ball on an intercepted forward pass. Quarter Back Wigglesworth, after making ten yards around left end, lost the ball on an unsuccessful onside kick. Leslie of the 'Varsity later regained the pigskin, intercepting a forward pass. Wigglesworth then skirted left end for 25 yards. Corbett got 7 and L. Smith 15 yards through the same position. Another run by Wigglesworth and a forward pass to O'Flaherty placed the 'Varsity on the seconds' 10-yard line. Corbett shot through right tackle behind the goal.

Wigglesworth's work was the feature of the 'Varsity game. The play on the right side of the line was ragged. Half Backs Campbell and Graustein, with Quarter Back Gardner, did even better work against the second eleven than did the 'Varsity backfield.

McKay and Minot were out in uniform, but confined their work to punting to each other. Both say that their educational status will be known to-morrow and hope for the best. Coach Crawford Blagden arrived to-day and gave the line men a hard 20-minute session.

YALE SQUAD RETURNS HOME.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 26.—Because of the hot wave the Yale football players changed their plan to make their last practice at Lakeville this morning a regular game between the first and second elevens. The work was limited to signal drill. Coaches Burr, Chamberlin, and Ralph Bloomer helped Coy and Holt, the resident tacticians. After lunch the entire party broke up camp, Boomer and Chamberlin returning to New York City and the players coming to New Haven in time for dinner. The squad was to-night housed in its permanent university quarters for the season. Jack Owsley of Chicago, head coach five years ago, arrived to-night and promised Head Coach Coy to remain part of the season with the team.

Orders were issued to-night for light drill to-morrow, when the team will practice on Yale Field for the first time this season. Yale is not confident of winning Wednesday's game with Wesleyan, for Howe, Baker, and Robinson, three fast backs on the team, are in the hospital. Coy said that he feared that they could not play against Syracuse on Saturday.

Cornell 'Varsity Beats Scrubs.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The Cornell football squad opened the week's practice with a thirty-five-minute scrimmage, which was won by the 'Varsity, the score being 8 to 6. Forward passes were tried frequently this afternoon, but due to the almost even strength of the teams they did not work very well. The onside kicks, end runs, and a few plunges were more successful. The 'Varsity was somewhat weakened by the absence of Bates and Simson in the back field, R. B. Whyte and Collins holding the positions. Not long after the scrimmage opened Lou Pitcher proved that he could kick goals in games as well as in practice by kicking the ball over from the thirty-yard line from a difficult angle. The next sensational play came from O'Connor, who was one of the half backs on the freshman eleven last Fall. He was playing left half back on the scrubs. He caught one of Smith's punts in midfield, and by marvelous dodging ran across the goal line for a touchdown. Goal was kicked and the scrubs were ahead. The 'Varsity got busy and pushed the ball down near the scrub line. Here a pass by Simson, which nobody caught, went astray and Munk, who was on the alert, picked it up and scored a touchdown for the 'Varsity. Miller, the freshman centre last year, did such good work for the scrubs that he was transferred to the 'Varsity in the middle of the game. Delano, one of last year's "sub" guards, reported to-day for the first time.

PRINCETON TEAMS LINE UP.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 26.—The forward pass and onside kick were worked by the Princeton football team this afternoon with fair success against a scrub team handled by Assistant Coach Gus Brown. This was the first real scrimmage since the squad reported ten days ago. For ten minutes neither side scored, but at the end of the second period the 'Varsity shoved across a touchdown with "Red" Sparks, half back, carrying the ball. After that the 'Varsity and the scrubs gave the field to the third and fourth teams.

Capt. Hart showed his old form in bucking down the field, and Ballou, Sparks, and Pendleton also starred. Sawyer for the scrubs did some good open field work.

The freshman team reported for the first time and ran through signals. Among the candidates is Alwyn Ball, a St. Paul's player, who has been elected President of the freshman class. A. P. Monroe, quarter back and President of the senior class, is in the university infirmary with a badly wrenched knee. He will be out of the game some time.

The first and second teams lined up as follows:

First team.	Positions.	Second team.
Bluethenthal	Centre	A. B. Clark
McLean	Right Guard	Winants
Wilson	Left Guard	Bissell
McCormick	Right Tackle	Speers, Lowe
Brown	Right End	Coleman
Sparks	Right Half	Sawyer
Pendleton	Left Half	Bard
Hart	Full Back	Merle, Smith
Ballou	Quarter Back	Chrystie

Clay Out with Navy Squad.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 26.—The presence of former Captain Clay on the football field at the Naval Academy this afternoon and the news that there was no danger that the authorities would stop him from playing, put heart into the squad and there was some fast signal work notwithstanding the heat. Dalton and Austin were Clay's running mates in the first back field combination that was tried while another arrangement was Carey and Rodes at the halves and McCaughey at full back. The necessity of getting extra quarterbacks to take Erwin's place should a substitute be needed is recognized and McReavey, a fourth class man, was tried on the first team for a short time this afternoon. The first game of the season will be with St. Johns College next Saturday.

EAST OUT OF WOMEN'S GOLF.

No Team to be Sent to Homewood to Compete in National Tourney.

It looks as if the coming women's national golf championship at the Homewood Country Club is going to be a one-sided affair. At any rate the East vs. West team match has been called off. That much was announced yesterday by Mrs. E. F. Sanford, President of the Women's Eastern Golf Association, after becoming satisfied that this part of the country was going to be slimly represented in the national championship tournament. The national is scheduled for Oct. 10 to 15. Heretofore the matches between the Eastern and Western Women's Associations have been held coincident with the United States Golf Association championship and up to date the Eastern team has won two legs on the W. B. Thomas trophy.

No match took place last year for the reason that the West found it impossible to muster a team which would have had to travel to the Merion Cricket Club near Philadelphia. The West offered to default, but the Women's Eastern Golf Association would not accept a victory that way. It is quite likely, therefore, that the Western women will now return the compliment by refusing to take the cup without playing for it.

A rather significant announcement now comes in the statement that the Country Club of Brookline has arranged to hold an invitation tournament for women Oct. 17 to 20. It can be seen at a glance that this immediately follows the national dates, so that it would be next to impossible for golfers to compete in both. Furthermore, a local golfer said last night that in all probability nearly the entire strength of the East would be represented at Brookline.

The Midland Golf Club of Garden City is arranging to hold a three days' tournament for women over the Salisbury links some time in October. The exact time has not been fixed as yet, as an effort is to be made to avoid a conflict with any other tournament.

It looks as if the Englewood Golf Club would soon have about all the foremost women golfers in the metropolitan district on its roster. Miss Lillian B. Hyde, the metropolitan champion, is up for membership and so is Mrs. S. T. Hayes, a promising Salisbury player. Mrs. T. H. Polhemus has already joined.

SHEPPARD DID NOT APPEAR.

Members of the Irish-American A. C. Athletic Committee held a session last night in the Fifty-ninth Street clubhouse, with John Cloughan presiding. Probably the most important business under discussion was the proposition regarding representation in the National championships, to be held next month in New Orleans.

It was determined that upward of a dozen of the best of the Winged Fist athletes would be invited, and hopes were expressed that the committee's selections could make the trip. Chief among these was Melvin Sheppard, who will be entered in his favorite events.

It had been anticipated that a rather warm session would be the outcome of the meeting, contingent upon the insistence by Sheppard that some apology be made to him by the club for the supposed slanders which, he said, had been uttered against him.

In view of Mr. Sheppard's non-appearance the committee could take no action in the matter, as nothing of an official nature had come to the attention of the club.

Lack of a quorum prevented the Directors' meeting, which was to have been held.

REGARDING "CUT PRICE" AUTOMOBILES

It is NOT WHAT YOU PAY but WHAT YOU GET that counts when you buy a car.

You would not buy for investment a "cut price" bond.

Do not be influenced by a reduced price into buying a car that you would otherwise probably not consider.

SATISFACTION and SERVICE are the first and most important considerations.

SATISFACTION and SERVICE depend on getting the right car—one backed by a manufacturer whose facilities and resources enable him to extend you the most liberal treatment and the ability to make good his guarantee.

Two cars which are NOT sold at cut prices are the

E-M-F "30"
and FLANDERS "20"

WHY?

Because the prices were made right in the first place, and, owing to the quantities in which they are manufactured, they afford the buyer greater value than any other car made.

The proof of this lies in the fact that since their introduction the sales of these cars have been greater for the same period than the sales of any other car of similar type.

If you are contemplating the purchase of an automobile call at our show rooms and inspect the various E-M-F and FLANDERS models.

Compare them, detail for detail, with other makes costing $200 to $400 MORE, and remember that purchasers of these cars are protected by the most liberal one-year guarantee ever written, and that this guarantee is

CRIPPEN IS GUILTY, VERDICT AT INQUEST

A Jury Says He Murdered His Wife and That the Means Was Hyoscin Poisoning.

TRIAL IN THREE WEEKS

Police Hunting for Witness Who, They Hope, Will Help Identify Remains Found in Crippen's Home.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—The Coroner's jury in the Crippen case to-day returned a verdict that Mrs. Cora Crippen, known on the stage as Belle Elmore, was willfully murdered by her husband.

The verdict was to the effect that the mutilated body found buried in the cellar of the Crippen home, in Hilldrop Crescent, was that of Mrs. Crippen, who had been willfully murdered by Dr. Hawley H. Crippen. The verdict added that the cause of death was poisoning by hyoscin. After listening to the testimony and hearing the summing up by Coroner Schroeder, who summarized the evidence as pointing to murder, the jury had little choice left.

The inquest had been dragged out longer than usual, in order to give the police time to search for evidence. They are still hunting for a witness, and expect to bring at the trial more testimony tending to identify Belle Elmore's body, through the agency of the piece of flesh which was found to bear a scar.

In summing up the case this afternoon the Coroner said that the evidence presented concerning the identity of the buried body was unusually slim, but there was little doubt that the remains were human. Although the physicians frankly said that they could not swear as to the sex on anatomical grounds, they agreed, the Coroner declared, that all indications pointed to the mutilated flesh being that of a woman. He pointed out that Belle Elmore had completely disappeared and that the body had been found in her husband's cellar.

Other evidence as to the identity of the body, the Coroner contended, was the testimony given by several women that Belle Elmore bore a scar and that the doctors had reached the conclusion that a mark found on a piece of skin had been a scar. He also spoke of the finding with the remains of a piece of hair showing signs of having been bleached, and drew attention to the finding of hyoscin in the body and to the purchase of this drug by Dr. Crippen.

The Coroner further recalled to the jury the varying stories Dr. Crippen told after the disappearance of his wife, and spoke of Crippen's disappearance with Miss Leneve.

As to Miss Leneve's position, the Coroner told the jurors that it was no duty of theirs to consider the question whether she was an accessory after the fact.

The jury remained out just one hour, and on returning announced the verdict. The case will come up for trial at the next Criminal Sessions, which are scheduled for Oct. 11. It will probably be called up about Oct. 18.

IMPROVEMENTS IN KOREA.

People Beginning to Save Money—Are Said to Welcome Annexation.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Japan's annexation of Korea makes it possible for the American and other Governments to deal directly with Tokio in obtaining redress for any wrongs committed on foreigners in Korea. The Japanese authorities have now assumed full responsibility for the protection of foreign interests in Korea.

In times past there have been numerous occurrences at Seoul and elsewhere that necessitated quick diplomatic representations. These included riots, massacres of Catholic priests and others, religious and political agitation, and attacks on United States vessels.

Reports received here estimate that the revenue of Korea for the present fiscal year will reach $20,915,678, and the expenditure the same amount.

President Ichihara of the Bank of Korea, who is an ex-Mayor of Yokohama, says that prior to the establishment of the Residency General at Seoul the people were always obliged to give the officials all they earned and that all classes were practically penniless, but that recently the Koreans have begun to save money, life and property have been guaranteed, and the Koreans, with few exceptions, welcome annexation.

LONDON BANKERS COMING.

Committee to Consult on Cotton Bills of Lading Guarantees.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—It was said at the Treasury to-day that a committee of London bankers will come to New York soon for a conference with American financiers in the hope of coming to some agreement on the question of guarantee on cotton bills of lading.

The English banks have asked the American National banks to guarantee bills of lading on exported cotton. Under the National Bank act that would be illegal. Bankers have asked Controller of the Currency Murray to give a liberal interpretation of the National Bank act to permit them to do so, but the Controller has refused. It is understood the American bankers are now looking for some legal way to guarantee the bills, and have invited the British bankers to a conference.

The English banks are standing firm on their ultimatum not to accept any cotton bills without guarantees after Oct. 31. Cotton growers and brokers are much concerned over the situation, as much of the American crop goes to England.

VATICAN FIGHTS NATHAN.

Organizing a World-Wide Protest Against the Mayor's Address.

ROME, Sept. 26.—Reports that the Holy See has dispatched official protests to the foreign Governments against the anti-clerical speech delivered by Ernesto Nathan, the Mayor of Rome, at the celebration on Sept. 20 of the fortieth anniversary of the fall of the temporal power of the Church, are denied in Vatican circles.

It is understood, however, that the foreign Nuncios and Bishops have been instructed to encourage a world-wide protest against the Mayor's address.

Many messages protesting indignantly against the alleged insult to the Holy Father are pouring into the Vatican.

Pope to Spanish Clericals.

MADRID, Sept. 26.—The Central Committee of the Clericals has received a message from Pope Pius X. through Cardinal Merry del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, authorizing the holding of open-air masses and Catholic demonstrations next Sunday. The message also contains the Apostolic blessing.

CONSOLS FALL TO 80⅛.

Lowest Record in Many Years—A Further Fall Predicted.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Consols fell to 80⅛ for the account to-day. This is the lowest point reached in many years.

The immediate cause was the rise in the German Bank rate and the disinclination of investors to purchase first-class British securities.

Candy Boxes for Children Are "Toys"—Other Decisions.

Candy boxes intended for the use of children were held by the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday to be entitled to enter this country under the provision in the tariff act for "toys" with a customs tax of 35 per cent. The importations in question were made by Butler Bros., and were returned by the Collector at the rate of 45 per cent. under the provision in the law for "fancy paper boxes." General Appraiser Fischer, who writes the decision for the Board, finds that the boxes are to be used as toy candy boxes by manufacturers of candy, and that as they are intended for children, the merchandise is properly dutiable at the lower rate under the toy schedule.

A contention raised by Austin Baldwin & Co., Inc., regarding the classification of silks, velvets and embroidered articles from France alleged to be over 100 years old, and therefore free of duty under the "antique" provision of the Payne tariff, was decided in favor of the importers. Some of the articles were returned with duty at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem under the "embroidery" paragraph of the law, while other of the fabrics were assessed at 50 per cent. as "manufactures of silk."

Judge Waite states in his decision for the Board that the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury have been complied with and that there seems to be no doubt that the articles are more than 100 years old. The only question to be decided is whether the articles are such works of art as are embraced within that part of paragraph 717 which grants free entry to "other works of art, and artistic antiquities produced more than 100 years prior to the date of importation." From the record in the case, the Board reaches the conclusion that the goods fall within the tariff exemption.

The Board has declined to upset a classification imposed by Collector Loeb on importations of glass bracelets and wind bells made by A. L. Tuska, Son & Co. The bracelets and wind bells were colored to imitate jade. Duty was assessed at 60 per cent., the rate applicable to decorated glass. The importers alleged that the bracelets should be classified as toys and the wind bells either as toys or musical instruments. General Appraiser Sharretts holds in his decision that the articles are neither toys nor musical instruments. The Collector's action is accordingly affirmed.

WIRELESS FROM AEROPLANE.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Wireless communication was maintained to-day between an aeroplane in flight and a land station.

The experiment was carried out by Robert Loraine from a biplane. The wireless apparatus weighed only fourteen pounds. The transmitter was attached to the passenger's seat and aerial wires were stretched along the length and breadth of the biplane. A Morse key for tapping messages was fixed at the airman's right hand.

The receiving station on the ground consisted of improvised masts with aerial wires stretched in different directions. A Marconi electro-magneto detector, with the head piece and telephones used to pick up signals, was linked up with two sets of aerials, one pair of which could always present itself broadside on to the aeroplane.

Wireless communication was thus maintained with the airman up to a distance of a quarter of a mile. Valuable data were obtained with a view to improvements for longer distance messages.

BERLIN STRIKERS FIGHT.

Series of Pitched Battles with Police—Many Wounded on Both Sides.

BERLIN, Tuesday, Sept. 27.—The police and coal strikers had a series of pitched battles last night in the Moabit Precinct, in the west of Berlin.

Fifty strikers were wounded by revolver shots and sword thrusts in the course of the police charges. Twenty of them were taken to hospitals severely injured.

A large number of policemen, forty or more, were also wounded, some of them badly, while protecting strikebreakers.

About midnight thousands of strikers stormed the fire station and the Reform Church in Büssel Strasse, wrecking the windows and doors.

The police were compelled to charge repeatedly and to use severe measures. They are bivouacking in the streets through the night.

In consequence of the frequent use of firearms in public places during the present labor troubles the Commissioner of Police has forbidden the carrying of weapons without licenses.

MANY SUICIDES IN RUSSIA.

329 in One Month and 302 Unsuccessful Attempts.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 26.—Incomplete returns from the various provinces show that 631 attempts at suicide were made by persons in Russia in the month beginning Aug. 14 and ending Sept. 13. Of this number 329 attempts were successful. One hundred and twenty-one of the persons who took their lives lived in small towns.

At Krasnoyarsk, capital of the Government of Yeniseisk, Siberia, 13 men and 4 women committed suicide, while 17 men and 37 women made unsuccessful attempts to end their lives. In St. Petersburg there were 25 suicides and 30 unsuccessful attempts, and at Moscow 29 persons killed themelves and 42 others tried to do so.

PRIEST ACCUSES POLICEMAN.

Says Fink Was Insolent When He Complained of Being Accosted.

The Rev. T. J. Crane, a Catholic priest from Pennsylvania, who is stopping with his sister here at 323 East Fifty-second Street, complained to Police Headquarters yesterday that he had met insolence at the hands of Policeman Fink of the East Twenty-second Street Station.

Father Crane said that he had gone for a walk down Third Avenue, and that on the block between Fourteenth and Fifteenth Streets four women accosted him. The priest complained to Policeman Fink, he said, and the policeman used abusive language and told him to move on.

This block is referred to in the letter which Acting Mayor Mitchel sent to Commissioner Baker recently, pointing out that the police were not doing their duty in the suppression of various forms of vice. Policeman Fink was assigned to it as a special post since then.

Police Headquarters, after receiving the priest's complaint, communicated with the station house, which relieved Fink from duty. Sergt. Connolly called on the priest at his home and asked him to come to the station house and make a more specific charge against Fink, but this the priest declined to do.

FITZGERALD WILL NOT RUN.

Mayor of Boston Says He Will Not Be Candidate for Governor.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, in a statement issued tonight, declares he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor at the State Convention Oct. 6, though his name has been prominently mentioned for several days in that connection. The retirement of Mayor Fitzgerald from the field leaves three active contestants for the nomination—James A. Vahey, who has twice led the party; Charles S. Hamlin, ex-Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Congressman Eugene N. Foss.

CHOLERA IN ROME; SERIOUS IN NAPLES

Chief of the Board of Health Admits That There Are Four Cases in the Capital.

NO LONGER TO HIDE FACTS

Premier and Mayor of Naples Are Said to Have Decided on Candor—The Disease Appears in Hungary.

ROME, Sept. 26.—Prof. Doria, Chief of the Board of Health, announced to-day that there are four cases of Asiatic cholera in Rome.

One of these proved fatal, while the others are recovering. All have been traced to Naples.

There was a Cabinet meeting to-day at which the Ministers deliberated on measures necessitated by the prevalence of cholera at Naples. Special consideration was given to the questions of shipping and emigration.

Detachments of police and 150 Carabinieri have been sent to Naples to assist in the enforcement of sanitary measures.

In the past twenty-four hours four new cases and three deaths from cholera have been reported in the southeastern district of Italy.

NAPLES, Sept. 26.—Two cases of cholera were officially announced in this city to-day, and one in an adjoining town.

The municipal authorities have ordered the destruction of the oyster beds, which are situated close to the sewer outlets.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—A dispatch from Rome says that a cordon of police has been placed in the Via dei Condotti, near the Piazza di Spagna, where a suspected case of cholera exists.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 26.—There have been twenty-eight cases of cholera and eleven deaths in Hungary in the past forty-eight hours, according to official reports.

L'Araldo Italiano of this city prints this morning a cable dispatch from Naples in which it is stated that the Government at Rome decided to make the cholera situation in Naples known only after the Mayor of the latter city had held a long interview with Signor Luzzatti, the President of the Council, on Saturday.

Both agreed that longer to conceal the truth would not serve the public welfare.

According to the latest authorized announcement, it is asserted, there were in Naples on Saturday 100 new cases of cholera, with 67 deaths; on Sunday, 32 new cases and 26 deaths, and yesterday, 60 new cases and 32 deaths.

The L'Araldo's dispatch adds that the Naples authorities have prohibited the sale of fruit and fish.

Maintaining their vigilance in regard to all cases savoring of cholera, the health authorities of this port last night detained the steamship Grosser Kurfürst, which arrived from Bremen and Cherbourg.

One of the crew is suffering from a severe attack of intestinal trouble, and the necessary bacteriological examination cannot be completed until this morning. Then, it is expected, the liner will proceed to her dock.

PACIFIC BONDS SOLD ABROAD.

Sale of $7,500,000 First Mortgage 4s Arranged by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Announcement was made yesterday of the sale in London of approximately $7,500,000 4 per cent. first mortgage bonds of the Union Pacific Railroad. The sale was made through Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the Union Pacific bankers, and the bonds, which are in sterling denominations totaling £1,500,000, will be placed in London by Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Baring Bros. & Co., and Glyn, Mills, Currie & Co. The London firms were associated with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in the June 1, 1908, flotation of $50,000,000 Union Pacific refunding 4s.

It was not stated yesterday when the sale was consummated, but it is understood that the negotiations were completed some months ago. Although the amount is small the announcement of the sale was received with pleasure in Wall Street yesterday because it is the first sale of American securities abroad in several months.

H. P. Whitney Not to Live Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney and their daughter, Flora, arrived yesterday in the steamship Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. Mr. Whitney said the success of his horses abroad had been satisfactory, but not sensational. He won some good purses. Mr. Whitney indignantly denied the suggestion that he might become an expatriate.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Money was plentiful and discount rates were firmer to-day.

The Continent obtained the bulk of the $4,500,000 in gold available at 77s 9d, a reduction of ⅛d.

The increased German bank rate weakened the stock market, but hardened discount rates and created the belief that the Bank of England will shortly follow suit. Consols fell to 80⅛, a new low record, while the other sections were quiet, owing to the settlement. Rubber shares closed harder.

American securities were quiet and featureless during the forenoon. Prices hardened a fraction on light Wall Street buying in the afternoon, and the market closed steady.

Money, ¾@1 per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for short bills, 2⅝@2¾ per cent.; for three months' bills, 3@3⅛ per cent.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—A heavy tone prevailed on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 97f 22½c for the account.

Exchange on London, 25f 23c for checks.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—The rate of discount of the Imperial Bank of Germany was raised from 4 to 5 per cent. to-day.

The increased rate was received indifferently on the Boerse. Trading was dull and the tendency of prices uncertain.

Money, 2¾ per cent.

Private discount rate, 4½ per cent.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S LETTER.

In his letter to Chairman DIX of the Democratic State Committee, Mayor GAYNOR says:

> * * * And if I had made a pledge, [to devote the next four years to the service of New York City,] that could not prevent the voters from electing me to some other office.

Mr. GAYNOR declares that he is not a candidate for Governor. But, in the statement which we have quoted, what is to prevent Chairman DIX from inferring that, candidate or no candidate, nothing can prevent the voters, if they so wish, from electing Mr. GAYNOR to the office of Governor?

Nevertheless, the Mayor's letter should be more explicit. In the situation as it exists to-day, with the opportunities of the Democratic Party and the great responsibilities which those opportunities bring with them, it is incumbent upon Mr. GAYNOR to make it very clear to the Democratic Convention whether or not he will stand as a candidate in case he is nominated.

MR. ROOSEVELT UP THE STATE.

> Do you realize that the victory which Col. ROOSEVELT is about to grasp is only made possible through the fact that he has the delegates from the great Democratic city, the Tammany-controlled city, of New York? Do you realize that the delegates from most of the up-State counties, where the Republican Party has rolled up its greatest majorities in the past, are against ROOSEVELT and his plans now? Must it be Roosevelt rule at the price of Republican ruin? ROOSEVELT has so framed the issues that there is apparently no alternative. — WILLIAM BARNES of Albany.

It is perfectly true that Mr. ROOSEVELT's victory at Saratoga will be won for him by delegates from the great Democratic city of New York, which will at the polls give large majorities against his candidate. But there is nothing new in this. A similar charge has been made against many Republican candidates for the Presidency. They have won their nominations through control of the votes of the colored delegates from Southern States, States from which they could not expect to get one electoral vote. The charge has never been thought to be a very serious one, however. We do not recall that any Republican candidate has for that reason been asked to take his name off the ticket.

Mr. BARNES says that the Republicans up the State who have sent anti-Roosevelt delegates to Saratoga "are against ROOSEVELT and his plans." If true, that is very much more important. It remains to be seen whether it is true. The obvious reply to Mr. BARNES's statement is that the sending of these anti-Roosevelt delegates was not brought about by himself and other members of the Old Guard. It therefore remains to be determined whether Republicans up the State are really against Mr. ROOSEVELT.

If Mr. BARNES believes that they are against him and his plans, he ought to be able to amend the Roosevelt platform in important particulars. Undoubtedly there are many delegates who will vote for Mr. ROOSEVELT as Temporary Chairman who are not favorably disposed toward his "plans." The direct primary plank, if Mr. ROOSEVELT shall cause such a plank to be reported by the Committee on Resolutions, would be a good point for attack. If the Republicans up the State are against that much-talked-of reform Mr. BARNES ought to be able to get help enough in this part of the State to throw it out of the platform. The direct primary as embodied in the Cobb bill certainly ought to be thrown out, for it is a weak and utterly worthless apology for the primary reform at first advocated by Gov. HUGHES. If it is well that the people should be invited to nominate some candidates for public office, then it must be well that they nominate all such candidates. The Cobb bill ought to be denounced by every sincere friend of direct primaries.

Perhaps a study of the operation of direct nominations in the West may cool the ardor of some of the friends of that reform. In Mr. TAWNEY's district, for instance, in Minnesota, the charge is made that his defeat at the primaries was brought about, not by Republicans, but by Democrats. Democrats shamelessly invaded the Republican primaries and voted for an insurgent, and so beat Mr. TAWNEY. Representative TAWNEY has been one of the most useful members of the House. He incurred the displeasure of Mr. ROOSEVELT through his efforts to discover whether any part of the Secret Service fund had been improperly expended. Mr. ROOSEVELT through his friends sought to be revenged upon Mr. TAWNEY by defeating him for the nomination. His friend GIFFORD PINCHOT was one of the agents of this vindictive foray. But if it be true that Democrats have determined the result of Republican primaries, not only in Minnesota, but in Washington and other Western States, it would be well for the Saratoga Convention to re-examine the merits of direct nominations before committing itself to a platform approval of that particular nostrum.

THE SPOILS SYSTEM REVIVED.

There are more kinds of disagreeable and discreditable features in the Republican State Convention than have been paraded in a long time on like occasion, and among them all the most repulsive is the open attendance and "pernicious activity" of Federal office holders. As to this it is not easy to decide with whom the responsibility rests—the ex-President who appointed most of these men, or the actual President who is responsible for their violation of public duty and executive orders.

It is noted by The World that "while many Presidents have used Federal patronage to promote their own ends, he (Mr. TAFT) is the first to permit its employment by an unscrupulous rival intent upon cutting his political throat." Considered from the point of view of the relations of the two men, one inclines to think the more poorly of Mr. ROOSEVELT. Mr. TAFT can hardly have any other motive in permitting his subordinates to work as they are working at Saratoga—over 40 per cent. of the entire membership of the delegation from New York and nearly that proportion in other delegations are office holders—than to avoid seeming to try to thwart the plans of his former friend, who is also his predecessor and may be his successor. He will not even seem to do to his professed friend what his friend is actually doing to him. There is a certain element of loyalty and self-respect in that which compels admiration. On the other hand Mr. ROOSEVELT has repeatedly put himself on record as condemning absolutely as "indecent and unfair"—the words he quoted in his order of June, 1902, from Mr. CLEVELAND—the very thing he is now profiting by. He adds to infidelity to the obligations of friendship cynical contempt for principles he has avowed and in the past enforced.

But comparisons between the blameworthiness of one and that of the other of these distinguished public men are not important. The main fact is that one is permitting and the other is using a most disgraceful line of action on the part of Federal office holders. The abuse of patronage for which they are jointly responsible is outrageous and they should both be ashamed of it. It is not merely that it is the revival of an evil that had been apparently in the way of extinction, but it breeds distrust and disgust as to the sincerity of all our leaders. It turns the hand back on the dial of reform and brings us to the old, the bad times when public office was not the "public trust" CLEVELAND declared it to be and made it, but a "private snap."

A FAILURE.

At Billings, Mont., will be sold at Federal auction on Oct. 15 next 800,000 acres of the Crow Indian Reservation, and at Provo, Utah, on Nov. 1 an area of 700,000 acres within the former Uintah Indian Reservation, 1,500,000 acres in all. The combined areas involved in these approaching sales are one-half greater than all the public lands in Alabama, Florida, Kansas, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin. The sales are not restricted to homesteaders. In Mr. GIFFORD PINCHOT's new book, "The Fight for Conservation," this passage occurs:

> The single object of the public land system of the United States, as President ROOSEVELT repeatedly declared, is the making and maintenance of prosperous homes. That object cannot be achieved unless such of the public lands as are suitable for settlement are conserved for the actual home-maker. Such lands should pass from the possession of the Government directly and only into the hands of the settler who lives on the land.

But for their purchase a postcard from the Land Office at Washington specifies that "neither residence nor cultivation on these lands will be required," and that the buyers need show no qualifications as to age, citizenship, "or otherwise." The land is to be sold in plots of 640 acres.

As anybody can see, the Federal law, after years of official Rooseveltism and Pinchotism, still permits immense areas of the public lands to pass into other hands than those "of the settler who lives on the land." Mr. PINCHOT might say: "The Government should not allow this, and would not allow it, were the proper men in control." But were not he and Mr. GARFIELD and Mr. ROOSEVELT in control for seven years? Why favor Federal conservation and scout State conservation, with such a showing as that which is about to be made in Montana and Utah?

THE TRUSTS AND THE MASSES.

The argument for higher prices all around at a time when the high cost of living is a universal complaint is rather weakened than strengthened by the action of the railway employés in support of the action of their employers. It is natural that they should support the advance of railway rates in order that their wages may be advanced. It is easy to be sympathetic toward both advances, and yet not to be in favor of this means of procedure. The interests involved are immense, but they are not all the interests there are, nor even the majority of all interests. Outside this large combination of capital and labor there are more millions not directly affiliated with either. It is too much like a combine of combines against the unorganized consumers of the services purveyed by the railways.

Labor leaders individually are on record as saying that no advance of wages would satisfy them. If any advance were granted a further advance immediately would be demanded, and so on indefinitely. The resolutions published yesterday formally declare the same thing. The employés propose to continue to insist upon "higher wages, more favorable working conditions, shorter hours, and adequate compensation for their membership injured or killed in the service." These are laudable objects of desire, and enough of them have been attained to create an appetite for more. In fact, the appetite grows with feeding. It will be perceived that this dispute over railway rates is only part of a larger problem which should be settled in a natural manner, without arbitrary interference. It is true that prices cannot continue to rise indefinitely, even the prices of labor. The method approved by experience was to let whoever would get what prices he could in the market. But that was before advances were demanded by other than economic methods. There is nothing economic about demands made by conspiracy and supported by means approximating a military campaign. This is perceived clearly enough regarding railways, which are held to be so much in the nature of an irresistible monopoly that their demands must be regulated by law. It now appears that if the rates of railways are to be regulated by law it is more than ever necessary that they should be protected by law.

The railway employés declare that their wages are endangered by a refusal to allow the railways to collect from the community the moneys which the employés wish to receive. The employés perceive that rates and wages must advance together. Their argument makes it clear that they must also fall together, unless the combination is strong enough to assure that railway prices are to be an exception to all economic law. We are now witnessing the absurdity of arguing with a balance sheet. The railways and their employés are satisfied with their argument regarding the prices they respectively charge. All unions are satisfied with their argument that wages should be ever higher and hours ever shorter. All trusts are satisfied that their prices and profits should never cease growing. But it will never be possible to satisfy everybody with these arguments. Somewhere and somehow the rise must culminate. The necessity is so evident that many excellent people are proposing a court of prices. But the prices would settle themselves before the argument was over, or even begun. It is asking too much of Government that it should be compelled to shoulder the odium of ordering anybody to give more work for any given wage, or to order any seller to accept less than his price. The function of markets is to give decisions regarding such matters, and to give them promptly and indisputably. Business cannot await the processes of a jury trial, and will not accept the decision of a dictator. The market hears arguments every minute, weighs them impartially, and gives impersonal decisions, with which it is useless to quarrel.

ROOSEVELT ON THE TARIFF.

Mr. ROOSEVELT made a speech on the tariff the other day without such an unhappy experience as would have been his if he had addressed a British audience. In England they value consistency and thoroughness in a public man, having learned that the only way to get results is to keep watch of their politicians. The British regard themselves as deceived and defrauded if they elect a man on any issue and after election he takes up another. And if a politician takes inconsistent positions they know that they are sure to be disappointed if they trust to either. Accordingly they "heckle" their speakers, and they are now heckling Mr. ROOSEVELT as well as they can reach him by confronting him with his own record on a subject which has come to have an intimate interest for both England and Canada.

The Manchester Guardian, for example, is amazed to find Mr. ROOSEVELT presuming to speak as a protectionist. It quotes from his speech, and on its own behalf proceeds to say:

> In 1905 he thought of making the fight of his life to overcome the resistance of the "standpatters," but a few conferences with Mr. CANNON and other Republican leaders in the two houses sufficed to kill this enthusiasm.

Another newspaper revives one of his speeches in 1904.

> A man who takes alternatives so easily cannot be trusted to be firm on either. It is only in England that such views have any political effect. Here Mr. ROOSEVELT is listened to politely while he talks about something else, and finds faintest support for Mr. TAFT, who manfully tackled the job Mr. ROOSEVELT shirked.

The tariff is an issue which Mr. ROOSEVELT can hardly shirk in the speech which he is now preparing. He can hardly be expected to make reply to his British critics, but there are Americans who would listen with as much interest to his remarks on the tariff as on the new Nationalism which he is seeking to use as a big stick with which to club into forgetfulness those whose memories are too good, and who have no fancy for being fooled again.

THE SCHOOL BUDGET.

We print elsewhere Supt. MAXWELL's letter pointing out errors in THE TIMES's comment upon the school budget, based upon statements made by the Bureau of Municipal Research. It is our fault, not the Bureau's, that we spoke of the official estimates as for this year instead of for 1911. We referred to this school year. Mr. MAXWELL properly refers to the fiscal year. But do not the two overlap so as to include two-thirds of this teaching year? Mr. MAXWELL states that practically all the pupils "have been seated." The Board of Education estimated that there were 58,816 pupils on part time at the opening of the schools. Is it not true, then, that during half of each school day many thousands of pupils are not provided with seats?

But there is a capital error—again our own error—in the assumption that the $7,000,000 asked for in excess of last year's budget does not include another and distinct request for $8,000,000 which, the Board of Education says, will be needed in 1911 to abolish part time by providing additional seats for elementary pupils, besides "proportionate amounts for High School buildings and for sites." What is the actual school budget estimate for 1911? Is it $35,944,128, the estimated "financial requirements of the Board of Education for the year 1911," as submitted by its Finance Committee? Or is it the thirty-six millions plus some eight or ten millions more? Where are the sites for the projected new buildings, and how much will each cost?

The public is entitled to know the size of the school budget in the aggregate. Before the budget is passed the public is entitled to a reasonably full report of the condition of the schools during the year ended last June.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Moro Manners as Good as Anybody's.

In the course of his peregrinations here on Saturday the Sultan of Sulu, accompanied by his suite of Moro notabilities, was brought by his friend Col. SCOTT into a room where around a big table were seated a number of men counciling together on important business.

For the reception of this visitor from afar by these particular hosts there had been no preparation whatever on either side, and the Sultan could have had only the vaguest, if any, idea as to the identity and position of those to whom he and his companions, one after another, were hastily and informally introduced. The situation, in other words, was naturally productive of more or less embarrassment and awkwardness on both sides for the first few minutes, but its difficulties were met at least as well by the strangers from a little East Indian island as by the New Yorkers, and the curious thing was that between the behavior of the two groups—between what would be called their "manners"—no difference was distinguishable.

Enormously unlike as are the cities of New York and Jolo, and though the members of one of the groups were Malays of the fiercest fighting strain who were seeing "civilization" in their first journey away from their native islands, the proceedings consisted in an interchange of civilities precisely similar. Of course, conversation through an interpreter—himself apparently a "character" out of one of JOSEPH CONRAD's books—was slow and laborious, but it went on well enough, and in the conduct of the Moros there was not a sign of the uncouth, of the bizarre, of the savage—of anything, in short, to distinguish them from a group of dignified, self-respecting, and courteous gentlemen meeting others whose language they did not know.

This was no more true of the Sultan than of the rest of the party—nor less true of him than of the rest. The episode showed very clearly that "good manners" the world over are a matter of intention, not of convention, and that their successful exhibition is in no sense or degree dependent upon a knowledge of local habits or artificial rules. Without such knowledge one may do queer and amusing things, but nobody is at all likely to give serious offense anywhere when guided by a desire to be modest, kindly, and considerate. There is a good deal of piracy and not a little use of the knife in Moro history, but these representatives of the race certainly "know how to act in company," even when half way around the globe from their home.

Would Welcome a Cyclone.

All through Westchester and for some distance beyond, the news that at least one West Indian cyclone is moving in this direction, and that perhaps, two of them are coming, will be received with a satisfaction hardly at all decreased by the hint that the storms are of unusual severity and may do a lot of damage. For Westchester needs rain, or rather needs water, and needs it so desperately that the possibility of getting an inconvenient amount of wind with the water is ignored.

In other parts of the country, drought means crop losses, and that may mean ruin. Westchester doesn't pretend to raise more than a minute fraction of its own food, much less any food to sell out of the county, so it isn't worrying about its crops. The trouble there is that the cutting off of the wonted flow of public water renders at least 90 per cent. of the houses practically uninhabitable, and at least as large a fraction of the inhabitants are by it not only cruelly inconvenienced, but are put in fear of their very lives. So, in a way, drought is to them a worse calamity, immediately and personally, than it is out in the wheat and corn regions, and the fact that they are not used to it makes their woes the harder to bear.

The terrors of the situation are increased by the fact that by no means all of the county's water courses and ponds are dry. Thanks, however, to the stupid and barbarous habit of turning sewers into all except a few bodies of running and standing water, when the few are drained dry by the combination of enormous demand and unusually small supply, the others cannot be used under penalty of epidemics of assorted filth diseases, and sooner or later the temptation to resort to the polluted streams and to such old wells as have not been filled up becomes irresistible. It will take a good many days of hard rain to fill up Westchester's depleted reservoirs, and unless the rains come before the ground freezes, the prospects for the Winter are alarming.

New York City, fortunately, is safe enough, and apparently it will have to save its little neighbors from the consequences of their own lack of foresight. But if ever New York's own supply runs short, then there will be doings indeed in this vicinity. As we waste daily enough water to provide for the real needs of a city twice as large, we, unlike metered Westchester, could save our lives for a while by trying a decent economy for a change.

Imaginary Dangers Proclaimed.

Again that absurdly misnamed "National League for Medical Freedom" lifts its head, reptilian, whether crested or not, and in big advertisements begs the Republican Party in State Convention assembled not to give countenance and aid to the medical profession in its effort to bring about the establishment of a Federal health bureau or department. The league repeats its empty warning against permitting the doctors of one school to form a politico-medical trust, backed by the Government's power and spending the Government's millions for the suppression of all the other schools and the compulsion of all the people to accept "regular" treatment.

The appeal sounds well enough; the only trouble with it is that nobody except the leaguers is thinking of monopoly, suppression, or compulsion. Even the "irregulars" would be in no danger whatever—more's the pity!—from the proposed combination of the Government's health activities and the doing for humans of protective work something like that already done by it for domestic animals. And there is no one "school" plotting against the others. Doctors worthy of the name do not belong to a "school"—they leave that to quacks and charlatans, to the ignorant exploiters of single remedies and single methods of treatment.

The men behind the Owen bill are bound together by only one obligation—that of "using any remedy, from any source, in any form, which experience teaches is valuable in the cure of disease or the relief of suffering." They were psychotherapists before the mental healers, and they were masseurs before osteopathists, and will be both after all the "schools" have disappeared. What the Republicans or the Democrats will say in their platforms about the Federal Health Department we do not know; probably they will devote all their time to less important subjects; but we do know what both parties ought to say, and that is that the Owen bill, or a better one along the same lines, should be passed by Congress and signed by the President.

If it be true, as claimed, that the National League for Medical Freedom has 100,000 members, it only shows again, what has long been known, that among 90,000,000 people there are a good many foolish folk who can be deluded by sounding phrases into acting against their own interests.

LIQUOR AND LONG LIFE.

Questions Statistics Giving Length of Days to Moderate Drinker.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent communication to THE TIMES "E. A. H." offers a presentation from a source of little authority of statistics which exhibits that total abstainers from spirituous liquors possess a greater endurance of life than the "temperate," "careless," "free," and "intemperate," in which the ages at death are respectively 51, 63, 59, 57, and 53 years.

He follows it by a quotation from the same unreliable source to the effect that alcohol is beneficial to the system if not taken in excess.

This has been discussed scientifically by many and without concurrent conclusions. It is not out of place for those interested to recall others addicted to imbibation, in moderate quantity according to their own estimate, who, though never intoxicated, and through many years of potations, have become inured to its effects, and by aid of strong constitutions resist long its physical influence, but are insufferably dull, without initiative or receptivity to new impressions, and present bad examples to the young. Viewing others totally abstinent of liquor and tobacco, their scarcity in number attracts attention (and without disparagement) to a generally slight physique, little animalism, a somewhat effeminate operation of mind, and nearly all of whom are boastful of their abstinence. I have observed also that most of them are excessive in eating or indulgence in the coffee habit.

Perhaps those who abstain may not be entitled to credit on conscientious grounds. They may have a natural repugnance for spirituous liquors, as others have for certain perfumes, foods, colors, customs, and what-nots of our civilization.

Again, as implied, they may be of low vitality, flaccid in all desires, and anything alternately exhilarating or tranquilizing is outside of the category of their experience; but surely, if the statistics of the short endurance of life of total abstainers can be verified, it is not because of the abstention, but may be attributed to the other causes mentioned or other pet vices, one perhaps of self-prescribed medicines with poisonous properties.

An Unsuccessful City Fence.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was looking at a fence in Central Park this morning which had been put around the north part of the lake near the Fifth Avenue entrance as a protection to the waterfowl for nesting, and where they could come out on land. The fence as suggested was to be wire net and close enough to keep out predatory animals and high enough to keep out boys and men who steal eggs. The fence is not yet finished, but several hundred dollars have been spent on it, and it is no more than a fence of two gas pipes, about three feet high, and of absolutely no use either to keep intruders out or to keep the waterfowl in.

A stranger in the Park the other day saw it down in the bushes and went over to investigate it. He walked along it for some distance, sized it up at various angles, stepped over it, looked at it from the other side, and came back shaking his head. If he had asked me as I sat there enjoying what is left of the Park, I could have enlightened him. But he did not. He was too much overcome. In the meantime what are we going to do about it?

Charges Against the Police.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

By this morning's paper I see that 124 policemen were sent to Police Headquarters to face charges, brought up through the vigilance of the Commissioner's squad of "Shoo-fly" sergeants. Would it not be of more service to use these able men to detect those who harbor vice and make criminals, rather than trying to attribute the neglect of closing undesirable places to those who have very little authority in such matters? The Press in India.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The respectable journals of Bombay, Calcutta, Madras, and other places in India have not suffered from the recent press act. None of them had to close up. They go on criticising the acts of the Government in a rational way as before. Most of those sheets that had to close up can never be called journals by any stretch of imagination. They are written by agitators and read by ignorant people, who have no means of finding out their falsehoods.

ONE FROM INDIA.

New York, Sept. 24, 1910.

THE SCHOOL BUDGET.

Supt. Maxwell Explains the Increase of $7,000,000 Asked for 1911.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial article published in your issue of this morning you say: "The Board of Education asks for $36,000,000 with which to support the schools of Greater New York this year —$7,000,000 more than last year's budget. The additional amount is needed, it says, so that all the pupils may be seated."

This statement contains the following errors:

1.—The amount asked for in the budget is not to support the schools this year, but next year, 1911.

2.—The increase asked for is not "that all the pupils may be seated." The Board of Education has not said so. All the pupils applying for admission, except a few who applied for kindergarten classes, have been seated.

Of the $7,000,000 increase asked for $3,618,873.32 is asked for the purpose of increasing teachers' salaries. If this sum is granted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, the Board of Education has declared its intention of giving every woman elementary teacher $720 for the first year of service with an annual increase of $48, instead of $600 with an annual increase of $40 as at present, so that after fifteen years of service she shall receive a maximum salary of not less than $1,440 per annum —surely not an extravagant wage. Whether teachers' salaries are to be increased above the minimum required by law is, therefore, a matter which the Board of Education has again asked the Board of Estimate, as it has done for the past three years, to determine. The remaining items that go to make up the $7,000,000 increase are amounts necessary to pay mandatory increases in teachers' salaries under the existing law, to provide for an increase in the teaching force commensurate with the practically certain increase in the number of pupils, to increase the public school playground and school facilities during the Summer, to open the school playgrounds and gymnasiums under supervision in the afternoon throughout the year, to extend largely the recreation and evening school facilities in the Winter season, to establish Summer high schools, to increase the opportunities for trade or vocational training for both boys and girls, to provide "visiting teachers" to bring the parents of delinquent children into closer touch with the school and the teachers, and for a variety of other worthy objects. The most cursory examination of the budget submitted to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will reveal how wide of the truth are the statements on this subject to which you have given the dignity of editorial utterance.

That you have been misinformed and misled is only too evident. Fortunately, however, your article leaves the public in no doubt as to the source of your error because you add: "If the Bureau's (of Municipal Research) statements are true the situation is deplorable." From the facts I have cited you and the public will see that the bureau's statements are not true.

Railroad Costs and Charges.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The report of the Central Railroad of New Jersey for the fiscal year ended June 30 last, as published in the papers, is particularly interesting, in view of the recent increase in its passenger rates:

Note the following figures:

	Per Cent. of Capital Stock.
Balance available for dividends	33.18
Same as reported for previous year	16.54
Showing an increase for the year of	16.64
Reduction of funded debt during the year	$1,203,000
Total expenditures for three notable improvements	841,548

Note, further, that the increase in wages, about which so much argument is centred as a reason for raising rates, is 4.14 per cent.

Now, assume for the sake of argument (not because it is true) that the passenger business does not pay. Naturally, as passenger rates have been raised since the above showing was made, one would think that the road could well afford to lower freight rates, or at least not increase their average. Has any one noticed any powerful influences in railroad circles working in that direction? I. B. HILL.

Lesson of City College.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Chancellor Day's article, printed in THE TIMES of even date, on "Colleges and Universities: Their Place and Purposes," is a plea for State institutions of the highest educational status. The advantages accruing from the State universities of the West are recognized by the New Yorker and the New Englander as well as by the citizens who support them and profit by their existence.

In this great centre of population we have supported by public tax an educational institution of the highest liberal culture, the City College of New York. Its usefulness to the municipality is unquestioned, its popularity is well established, and its professors are among the foremost educators of the country. The success of the City College of New York should be an incentive to other large cities and to States of the East to extend their free educational facilities so as to embrace college training.

Progressives in Brooklyn.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In various Brooklyn Republican districts there was no opposition to the regular ticket at the primaries. But the opposition to the "regulars," to the "bosses now in control," exists just the same.

Very few voters cast their votes at the primaries in such districts. Had there been a dircet vote in usual form of enrolled Republicans, voting as they thought and as they would wish to, the majority of delegates from Kings County would have been against the Ward, Barnes, and Woodruff combination.

I know the feeling in my district is against the present regime and in favor of Roosevelt as to State matters, and most emphatically in favor of Taft on National matters.

THE STING OF THE SALT.

The sea, young feller, the restless sea
* * *!"
The skipper paused with a tear
In his eye and pensively looked at me,
And I instantly bought him a beer.

"Ah, lad, the shimmer upon the waves,
When the moon is alight above,
And the curious way the mind behaves
In sailors—they think of love!

"The sea, young feller, the rollin' sea,
The tar and the salty ooze—"
The skipper thoughtfully looked at me,
And I instantly bought him booze.

"To leave a port!—all the din and light,
All the crowds on its thoroughfares,
And plunge plumb into the jaws of night,
With silences everywheres!

"'Tis men like them that philosophize,
The fellers that cleave the brine—"
Two tears splashed out of the old salt's eyes
And I instantly bought him wine.

"'Tis them that challenge tempests dark,
'Mid mountains of stinging spray,
That loves the sightin' of Battery Park
And the twinkle of old Broadway!

"And then—once again a city's roar,
And the buildin's and trolleys—gee!
'Tis the sea, young feller, that makes the shore,
And the latter that makes the sea!

"But it's time to go." And without a turn
He went. On her outward trip
His craft I watched, leaving me astern
And nearing her Brooklyn slip.

CITY FERRY GRAFT TRIAL BEGINS TO-DAY

Twenty-six Employes Will Face Charges Before Deputy Commissioner Cresson.

SAY TICKETS WERE STOLEN

Agents, Choppers, and Collectors Said to Have Worked in Collusion—May Be the Cause of Ferry Deficit.

Deputy Commissioner of Docks and Ferries B. F. Cresson, Jr., will begin to-day along a new line to investigate why the municipal ferry shows a deficit of more than $650,000 a year, exclusive of the interest on the investment, when twenty-six ticket agents, choppers, and collectors will be placed on trial on charges of grafting.

Commissioner Tomkins has been trying to reduce the deficit ever since he took hold of the department in January last. Privileges for news and bootblack stands, restaurants, and automatic vending machines were sold for $18,000 more than they brought under his predecessor. This was accomplished by writing to every steamboat company in the country for a list of their privilege holders, and then getting the latter to bid for the same. In this way the city obtained $10,400 for the newsstand privilege in the Manhattan terminal of the Staten Island Ferry alone.

Railings were installed at the St. George terminal separating the outgoing and incoming passengers, thus preventing those who had taken the boats merely for a sail from mixing with the incoming passengers and traveling back to the city for a single fare. Salaries were cut and twenty-six of the ferryboat matrons dismissed. The matrons, being civil service employes, sued for reinstatement, but the courts upheld the Commissioner.

The suspicion of dishonesty in the department was not sifted, however, until Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick put his detectives on the ferryboats. They found that the collectors were negligent in collecting return fares and permitted passengers to travel back and forth on a single fare. Little else was revealed by Mr. Fosdick's men, but for the last two weeks Deputy Commissioner Cresson said his own detectives have discovered a system of collusion between ticket choppers and agents. The choppers, he said, fish tickets out of the boxes with wires and return them to the agents, who resell them. Choppers and agents, he said, divide the receipts from such sales.

The ferryboat tickets are numbered, and this is the only check on their sale. The agent's cash must balance the value of the number of tickets sold, determined by the difference between the number of the first ticket sold and that of the one remaining when he is relieved from duty. There is no way of learning whether or not the same tickets have been sold one or more times, but Commissioner Tomkins' detectives discovered that some agents have been selling tickets numbered out of series. One detective at a municipal ferryhouse bought four tickets. Instead of being numbered consecutively, as they should have been, they were numbered 747,938, 747,846, 747,853, and 747,901. Deputy Commissioner Cresson said yesterday that the fact that the tickets were sold so far out of the numerical order showed they must have been taken from the cancellation boxes and sold over again.

Detectives also discovered other instances of agents selling tickets out of numerical sequence, Deputy Commissioner Cresson said, and others in which passengers were allowed to pass the gates without depositing tickets in the box.

To make the Thirty-ninth Street Ferry pay better Commissioner Tomkins has let contracts to alter the boats so the lower decks may be used exclusively for vehicles. The city gets forty cents for a loaded truck. The Deputy Commissioner said the department was making all its own repairs and buying coal in Summer when the price is low.

RENEW EQUAL PAY FIGHT.

Women Teachers Oppose Increase to Men Until They Get More Themselves.

The lines of the fight between the men and women teachers of the public schools are more tightly drawn than ever before. The men have always opposed the women's effort to get equal pay. Now, on the eve of the annual election of officers of the Interborough Teachers' Association and a renewal of the efforts to get in the same salary class with the men, the leaders of the association have decided to hit back at the men by working to prevent any of them getting advances until the women obtain their demands.

> We regret that many teachers even among our own members misunderstand the attitude of the Interborough Association of Women Teachers on the increases in teachers' salary proposed by the Board of Education.
>
> We have been accused of preventing women teachers from obtaining any increase and of proclaiming we must have "equal pay or nothing."
>
> This accusation is absolutely false.
>
> We have done and we expect to do all in our power to secure the approval of the Board of Estimate for all parts of the budget Bord of Estimate for all parts of the budget provide increases for women teachers.
>
> At the same time we must make it clear that our association will not cease in its efforts to secure salary schedules based on the principle of one salary for one and the same position.
>
> The Executive Committee at its meeting on Sept. 15, 1910, agreed that the increases proposed for women should be favored as being a step toward equalization, and that increases for men be opposed until equalization was granted. The committee was agreed that the salary of a District Superintendent should be greater than that of a high school Principal, but that pending the settlement of the equal pay question and the resultant increase in pay for poorly paid teachers, such increase for the highly paid officers should be opposed. It was pointed out that the sum required to pay $1,000 additional to the Superintendents would pay $120 more to each of our 200 teachers now receiving $600.

Miss Grace C. Strachan, President, is a candidate for re-election. In the call for the annual meeting, to be held next Saturday in the Metropolitan Building, it is set forth that "the prospects of success during the coming year are brighter than ever before."

Republican's State of Mind.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have reached a state of mind in which, I suppose, thousands of equally loyal Republicans find themselves. Shall we support the "little bosses" on the one hand, or, in defeating them, give a new lease of life to the "big stick"? That is our problem, and because it is, I pray that the Democrats will have the good sense to nominate a man for Governor for whom we can vote.

We want to destroy the little bosses and we do not want T. R. to return to power. But shall we accomplish our purpose if the Democrats nominate Mayor Gaynor? There are many of us who, giving him all possible credit for his excellent Mayoralty work to date, are not yet convinced of his sincerity. There are also Democrats who still are reserving judgment in this respect. But if Edward M. Shepard becomes the nominee we can freely and enthusiastically vote for him, thereby electing a first-class man for a first-class job and destroying the evil forces at work in our own party.

ALBANY, Sept. 26.—Gov. Hughes to-day appointed Brig. Gen. George Moore Smith of New York, commander of the First Brigade, and Col. William G. Bates of New York, commander of the Seventy-first Regiment, as members of the New York State Militia Council. Gen. Smith is named for the vacancy created by the appointment of Adjt. Gen. Verbeck, and Col. Bates succeeds Gen. James H. Lloyd of Troy, whose term has expired.

"ALMA" AT WEBER'S IS A FUNNY FARCE

KISSING SONG MAKES A HIT

ALMA, WHERE DO YOU LIVE? A Musical Farce. Adapted by George V. Hobart. Music by Jean Bricquet. Weber's Theatre.

Theobald Martin	Charles A. Bigelow
Gaston Duval	George W. Leslie
Pierre Le Peache	John McCloskey
Count Bolivario	Edouard Durand
Francois Picquart	George Loane Tucker
M. Renault	Frederick Truesdell
Pastor Dunoir	E. F. Nagle
Mme. Antoinette Martin	Georgia Harvey
Mlle. Germaine	Iva Barbour
Louise	Charlotte Leslay
Fleurette	Ethel Dovey
Maid	Daisy James
Mlle. Alma	Kitty Gordon

"Alma, Where Do You Live?" can now be answered. Weber's Theatre, for some long time to come. A real, old-fashioned Weber-Fields audience saw the first performance in English here last night, and by loud, but judicious, applause expressed its approval of the new sort of entertainment—new for Weber's Theatre—that is neither farce nor burlesque nor musical comedy, but something of all three.

Broadway theatregoers who journeyed east to Adolf Philipp's Wintergarten zum Schwarzen Adler last season to see "Alma" done in German, would scarcely recognize George V. Hobart's English version, made from the original French of Paul Herve. The main idea is the same, but the incidents, the dialogue, even the characters, are much changed, until what of the German version that would be offensive in English is almost entirely eliminated. In fact, the new "Alma" is about as free from unpleasant suggestiveness as most of the musical comedies and most of the farces of purely American origin. The new "Alma" is also funny, something that usually does not follow when a French farce is de-Gallicized.

The story is very brief in regard to plot and quite long as to incident. A green country youth named Pierre Le Peche is made legatee of a fortune of 4,000,000 francs on condition that he does not fall in love with and propose to a woman before he is 21 years of age. In case he should break this provision of the will the entire fortune will go to Theobald Martin and to Gaston, his prospective son-in-law. Only twenty-four hours remain from the reading of the will to the carrying out of its provisions.

Theobald and Gaston engage Alma, a beautiful milliner, to make love to Pierre and compel him to propose to her. Alma, however, really falls in love with the youth, and while she makes him love her she prevents him from proposing until after the twenty-four hours are up.

There are eleven songs that make a part of the piece, and the music of Jean Bricquet has by no means the smallest share in the entertainment. The thematic number, "Alma, Where Do You Live?" found itself being whistled vigorously between the acts and after the performance. Then, in the third act, there is a kissing song sung by Alma and Pierre that was encored and re-encored last night until the singers became very much embarrassed.

Statuesque Kitty Gordon, in some stunning gowns and hats, played and sang Alma in a way to delight the eye and ear. Only if she would not use her arms so much when she is singing two or three persons in the audience would not think she looked as if she were yawning. Charles A. Bigelow's presence on the little stage in the rôle of Theobald, the principal comedian, suggested a return to the old times mentioned in the first paragraph. Last night it was Bigelow who came near "breaking up the show" by interpolations not expected by Miss Gordon, while in the old days it was Peter Dailey who used to break up Bigelow. Anyhow, he was very funny in his own peculiar way, and the rest of the company will get used to his second-act costume in time.

John J. McCloskey had the part of Pierre, the tenor, whose voice was very agreeable and whose acting, barring a slight nervousness, was quite good for the part. It was a nervous part, but Mr. McCloskey's principal difficulty was remembering his lines. George W. Leslie was the conspirator Gaston and did very well, and Edouard Durand played a murderously inclined Count. George Loane Tucker was a low comedy detective with numerous disguises. The small rôles were also well played.

Want Child Labor Laws Repealed.

At the monthly meeting of the National Association of Producing Managers yesterday a committee was appointed to take concerted action toward the repeal of certain child labor laws in Illinois, Massachusetts, and Louisiana, which at present prevent the employment of children on the stage. The committee appointed consists of George C. Tyler, Henry W. Savage, E. H. Sothern, Lee Shubert, James K. Hackett, Lincoln Wagenhals, Robert B. Mantell, Augustus Thomas, Fred C. Whitney, and Daniel V. Arthur.

WEEK'S BILLS AT THE THEATRES

Rose Pitonof, the swimmer, promoted to the position of headliner, began her third week at Keith & Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre yesterday. Bothwell Browne, a female impersonator, offered new characterizations, and the rest of the bill was made up of Harry Fox and the Millership sisters, Jesse L. Lasky's "The Photo Shop," Madden and Fitzpatrick, Jarrow, the Musical Johnstons, and Marseilles.

Adele Ritchie, with a group of new songs, was the principal feature at Hammerstein's Victoria Theatre. Gus Edwards's "Song Review" began a second week. Among the others who appeared were the Jack Wilson trio, E. Frederick Hawley and company, Frances Haight and company, James and Sadie Leonard, Raleigh and Steger, Ruby Raymond and company, and the Cycling Burdettes.

La Pia, a dancer, appeared at the Alhambra Theatre as headliner, and the Rigoletto Twins made another feature of the programme that included Jane Courthorpe and company, the Jack Wilson trio, Howard, the ventriloquist; Elsie Faye, Melville and Higgins, and Lawson and Norman.

The Bronx Theatre had Edna May Spooner and her company as the principal attraction. Other numbers were Jesse L. Lasky's "Pianophiend Minstrels," Hoey and Lee, the Charbino brothers, the Avon Comedy Four, Gene Greene, and the Elton Polo Troupe.

Mme. de Swirsky, a classic dancer, headed the bill at the Orpheum, Brooklyn, with Pat Rooney and Marion Bent as another prominent feature of the programme. Among the others who appeared were Sam Mann and company, Mrs. Gardner Crane and company, Bedini and Arthur, Irene Dillon, Berry and Berry, Edwards, Van, and Tierney, and Goleman's animals.

"The Man Who Owns Broadway," with Raymond Hitchcock, Flora Zabelle, and many more of the original company, began a week's engagement at the Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, last night.

Louis Mann, in "The Cheater," the comedy that ran this Summer at the Lyric Theatre, is the week's attraction at the West End. The cast has not been changed.

The new stock company at the Plaza Music Hall has "Salomy Jane" for its offering this week. Louise Vale is appearing in the title rôle first played here by Eleanor Robson.

"The Great Ruby," with the balloon scene and all the rest of the thrills is being presented by the Academy of Music stock company this week.

A nautical burlesque in two acts and four scenes, called "Uncle Sam, Jr.," is the attraction at the Columbia Theatre, with a large cast of principals and chorus. The special vaudeville bill includes the Taylor-Farrell trio, Marr and Evans, the six English Romas, Brady and Mahoney, the Ashner sisters, and Louise Palmer and her Barrison girls.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mrs. Daniel Chester French returned yesterday from Boston.

Mrs. David King is expected back from Europe early next month.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Baldwin of Colorado Springs are at the Gotham.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald G. Thatcher have returned to town after spending the Summer at Pinecroft, Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Colford, Jr., have returned from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter have taken a cottage at the Virginia Hot Springs for the Autumn.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stanton Blake of Boston are spending a few days at the Wolcott.

WM. RAY LONG WEDS AGAIN.

Editor of Hampton's, Divorced Last Month, Marries Mrs. Schon.

William Ray Long, managing editor of Hampton's Magazine, whose wife, Florence E. Webster Long, obtained a divorce from him last month in Cleveland, Ohio, was married last night to Mrs. Pearl Dillon Schon, a widow of 36 Washington Square, New York. Long, who is a native of Indianapolis, has been living at the Hotel Judson in Washington Square.

The Rev. Dr. Madison C. Peters performed the ceremony at the home of Congressman William Sulzer, 175 Second Avenue. Roy W. Howard of the United Press and Mrs. Howard were attendants of the bridal couple. Mrs. Long is the daughter of Washington F. Dillon. Long has been the managing editor of The Cincinnati Post and The Cleveland Press.

It had been planned to have the marriage take place at Dr. Peters's residence, but this was found impossible because the clergyman had an engagement to speak at a mass meeting held in the Bronx to further Congressman Sulzer's boom for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination. Congressman Sulzer is acquainted with Mr. Long and when he learned the circumstances he invited Mr. Long and his bride-to-be to make use of his home for the wedding. The wedding was witnessed by Congressman and Mrs. Sulzer, Col. and Mrs. Alexander E. Bacon, and Mrs. T. H. Sullivan.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Long started for Atlantic City.

CABINET PARTY ON AT WHITE HOUSE

NEW JUSTICES DISCUSSED

Formal Meeting, a Long Talk Over Lunch, a Visit to the Departments, and Then Dinner Together.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The Cabinet house party at the White House is in full swing to-night. Eight of the nine members of the President's official family arrived to-day. A formal session in the Cabinet room of the Executive offices was held during the forenoon, and informal discussion of affairs of state continued at luncheon, which began at 1:30 P. M., and did not end until nearly 4. In the late afternoon the various Cabinet officers returned to their respective departments, to gather again at the White House for dinner and a long evening talk on the south veranda.

The President's forthcoming appointments to the Supreme Court served as the chief topic of discussion to-day. They were taken up as soon as the informal exchange of Summer experiences was completed and after the department heads had made brief reports as to conditions in the various branches of the Government service. It is said that the President is keeping his mind open as to these Supreme Court vacancies. He has discussed and will continue to discuss the various qualities of men who have been suggested for the bench, but there is little chance that his final selections will be made much before the time for Congress to convene in December.

From the date of its meeting in October, therefore, until the Senate confirms a new appointment by the President, the Supreme Court will proceed without a Chief Justice. Nothing has happened to change the well founded impression that Governor Hughes will be made Chief Justice, but his renomination will not be announced until the Senate is in session.

A long programme of subjects has been made up by the President, and each day's sitting is expected to be a prolonged one. The Cabinet will meet each morning, the members having their afternoons free, so that they may dispose of matters at the various departments.

In a general way the Cabinet discussions are to deal further with the subject of the forthcoming judicial appointments, with foreign affairs, including the readjustment in progress in Nicaragua; reports, estimates, and economy plans from the various departments; the inauguration of the postal savings banks, and the extension of the civil service to include Assistant Postmasters and permanent clerks in money order offices.

The only absentee from the Cabinet gathering to-day was Secretary of War Dickinson, who is still in the Far East. It has been stated by various members of the Cabinet that politics would be given little or no consideration at this time. A great deal of departmental work has accumulated during the Summer, and the consideration of it will keep the President's official family pretty well occupied during the next few days. The President likes to go into the details of the different departments. To-day, for instance, he sent to the War Department for full information regarding the wages paid and the hours of labor on the Panama Canal.

ACTS WITH A BROKEN ANKLE.

Frank Coombs went through the long part of Willum in "Hans, the Flute Player," at the Manhattan Opera House last night with a bone broken in his ankle. The pain was so intense that at times he almost fainted, and whenever it was possible he seated himself on the stage or was helped off by one of his companions.

Mr. Coombs slipped on a grating just outside the theatre which he was leaving after a rehearsal yesterday afternoon. He realized at once that he had more than strained his ankle and drove immediately to the office of a surgeon, where his foot was examined and bandaged.

He was told by the physician that it would be impossible for him to play, but as there is as yet no understudy for the part of Willum he insisted on playing his part. He was assisted in every way possible by the other members of the company.

Denman Thompson in 'Old Homestead.'

"The Old Homestead," with Denman Thompson himself in his famous rôle of Joshua Whitcomb, began its annual visit to New York, at the City Theatre last night. Mr. Thompson showed no more signs of getting too old for the stage than he has shown in years back, and the play seemed as young and fresh as ever. Maggie Breyer is still playing Aunt Matilda, a part she has had for the last six years, and there are several more of the old-timers in the cast. As always, the double quartet is a feature of the performance.

New Theatre for Newport.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—A large and handsome theatre is being built here by a local syndicate to compete with the Newport Opera House. The opera house is managed by Cahn & Cross, who play the independent attractions. The new theatre will be completed about Christmas and is about the size of the opera house in seating capacity, but with a larger stage. It is said that the syndicate will furnish the attractions for the new playhouse, called the Colonial Theatre. The opera house is owned by Mrs. Bull, widow of the late William T. Bull, and Patrick H. Horgan, a merchant of Newport.

Klein's "The Gamblers" Produced.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Charles Klein's newest play, "The Gamblers," was presented at the Lyric Theatre here to-night by the Authors' Producing company. This is the first play to be produced by this company, of which John Cort is President and Mr. Klein is general producing director. To-night's play deals with present day conditions in banking and stockbroking business. George Nash appeared in the principal male rôle and Miss Jane Cowl was the leading woman.

Miss Rodman to Wed Lawrence Gourlie

The engagement is announced of Miss Elinor Seymour Rodman, daughter of Mrs. Thomas H. Rodman, Jr., of Stockbridge, Mass., to Lawrence Gourlie, son of the late John H. Gourlie. Mr. Gourlie is a Harvard man, class of 1904, and a member of the Apawamis and Garden City Golf Clubs.

Mrs. Rodman was Miss Elizabeth B. Cockie. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Rodman, Sr., has a house at 57 West Forty-fifth Street, New York. Mr. Gourlie has two sisters, the Misses Eliza and Edith C. Gourlie. They make their home at 122 East Thirty-seventh Street.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Baron Entertains Japanese Residents of New York at the Plaza.

Baron H. Mitsui, the Japanese banker, gave a dinner last night at the Plaza Hotel to the principal Japanese residents of this city. The Baroness and Miss Mitsui were present, and among the guests were Consul General and Mrs. K. Midzuno. The dinner was held in the state apartment, and the reception room was decorated with American Beauty roses and chrysanthemums. The dining room was a mass of American Beauty roses, and the guests were provided with gardenia boutonnieres.

Thirty-four covers were laid, and it was reckoned that when the wines were counted in the dinner would cost about $50 a plate.

CARDINAL LOGUE HERE.

Cardinal Michael Logue, who is also Archbishop of Armagh, Ireland, and who is now in his seventieth year, came to this city yesterday from the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal, to be present at the dedication of St. Patrick's Cathedral next week.

The Cardinal visited Albany on his way from Canada and reached this city on an Albany Day Line boat. He went immediately to the Holy Cross Rectory where he received Mgr. W. G. Murphy and other Roman Catholic officials.

Archbishop Farley, through Mgr. Murphy, also gave out a list of names of the Roman Catholic Prelates who are coming to this city from all parts of the world to take part in the consecration of the Cathedral.

Many of the prelates, like Cardinal Logue, have been at the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal. These include Cardinal Vannutelli, who is one of the six Cardinal Bishops of the world, by virtue of the fact that the Pope took him from his own household and appointed him Bishop of one of the six suburbs of Rome.

One of the most interesting will be Bishop MacSherry of South Africa. Archbishop E. J. McCarty of Halifax and Archbishop Fergus P. McEvay of Toronto will also be present.

FIND RELICS IN ASIA MINOR.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 26.—Much of historic an darchaeological value has recently been brought to light in the ancient City of Sardis, in Asia Minor, by excavations made there by Prof. Howard Crosby Butler, Princeton, '92, and two associates, C. F. Cook and C. N. Read, '08, according to advices just received here.

Fragments of statuary and many gold ornaments of great beauty of design were found in earthquake ruins in the Lydian necropolis, across the river Pactules from Sardis, and in the city itself temple substructures with two huge columns. Inscriptions bearing the date of 300 B. C. have been discovered. At a depth of twenty-five feet a pavement was found, which proved to be that of the Lydian city.

The work has been discontinued, but will be taken up early next Spring. Prof. Butler left Princeton early in February last and was met in Asia Minor by Mr. Cook and Mr. Read, who were to be the engineers in charge of the work.

SEASON OF MATINEE OPERA.

Victor Maurel will give a season of matinée grand opera at the New Amsterdam Theatre from Jan. 9 to the end of April. There will be three performances a week, two of these open to subscription, and Sunday concerts. The operas will be sung in English, French, and Italian.

The season will be opened with "Falstaff," in English, and M. Maurel will sing one of the rôles. He was Verdi's associate for eighteen years in the staging and interpretation of that composer's work.

M. Maurel announces that the English répertoire will include "Contes d'Hoffman," "Thaïs," and, probably, "The Jongleur" of Massenet, and "The Tableau Parlant," by Cretry, a French composer. He is also negotiating for an opera by Saint-Saëns, and another of the performances will be that of "Daphne."

Two operas which created a sensation in Paris will represent the French school. One is "Aphrodite" and the other, "The Polish Jew," known in this country as "The Bells." Both are the works of Camille Erlanger. To this list will be added "Armide" of Gluck, in French; "Don Juan," in Italian, and "Aïda."

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Leo Fall, the Viennese composer, whose new comic opera, "The Girl in the Train," is to be presented at the Globe Theatre next week by Charles Dillingham, expects to make his first visit to New York late in October.

Wallace Eddinger, recently in "Bobby Burnit," has been engaged by Cohan & Harris for the title role in "The Aviator," which is now playing in Philadelphia. The play will be laid off for one week to allow Mr. Eddinger time for sufficient rehearsals.

William A. Brady has obtained from Frank Curzon in London the American rights to "Nobody's Daughter," by George Paston, that has been produced at Wyndham's Theatre, London, by Gerald du Maurier.

Maude Adams has returned to New York to begin rehearsals of "What Every Woman Knows," which she will use up to the time for producing "Chantecler." She will open in North Adams, Mass., in this play next Monday night. Kyrle Bellew, another Frohman star, started his season at the Jackson Theatre, Bridgeport, last night in Henri Bayaille's "The Scandal."

The baseball teams of Lew Fields companies and of the Friars Club will play their deciding game at the American League Park this afternoon for the Jerome Siegel Trophy. The Fields team has played the Friars twice and beaten them both times, each time winning a trophy. This is the third and last trophy offered, and the comic opera players are after that.

NOVELTIES IN VAUDEVILLE.

Charles E. Dodsworth in Dickens's "A Christmas Carol" at the American.

Charles E. Dodsworth, in a dramatization of Dickens's "A Christmas Carol," made his first vaudeville appearance in this country at the American Music Hall yesterday afternoon. The sketch follows the Dickens story very closely, with Marley's ghost and the strange pictures he conjures up, as a feature of the performance. The audience gave every sign of approving of the playlet and the acting of Mr. Dodsworth and his associates. Tom Ryley played Bob Cratchet, W. T. Terris played the nephew of Scrooge, Wallace Clark was the ghost, and Grace Hampton had the character of Mrs. Cratchet.

Another novelty on the bill was the first appearance of La Freya, who gave a series of picture poses, with the background and costume changes supplied by a stereopticon. Pauline, a hypnotist, was another important number on the programme, that contained Wilfred Clarke and company, Wish Wynne, William Dillon, Will Van Allen, Smith, Harper and company, and Farley and Clare.

At the Colonial Theatre Bert Coote, after a long absence in Europe, returned to the American stage in a sketch called "A Lamb in Wall Street." George Newburn, a London mimic, made his first appearance in this country in a group of imitations that found favor with the audience. Others on the programme were Jesse L. Lasky's "On a Housetop," the Four Readings, Howard and North, Laddie Cliff, the Amsterdam Quartet, Berry and Berry, and the Ahearn troupe of cyclists.

COL. E. H. PLUMACHER DEAD.

Consul General Endeared to Venezuelan People by His Work for Lepers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Soldier, sailor, Consul, and philanthropist, Col. Eugene Herman Plumacher, who died at the residence of his son in this city yesterday, had a notable history. A German by birth, he had seen service in the Dutch Navy, had commanded troops in the Swiss Army, and under Gen. Grant he led Northern troops into the heart of the Confederacy. At the close of the civil war Col. Plumacher became a professor at the Vanderbilt University in Nashville and thereafter claimed Tennessee as his home. In thirty-two years' residence in Venezuela, Col. Plumacher passed through many vicissitudes, winding up his career there as Consul General at Maracaibo, a post vacated by him last Spring. He was endeared to the Venezuelan people by his noble work in behalf of the lepers. When the disease became almost common in Venezuela it was Plumacher who, when the resident physicians refused to touch the "unclean," established a hospital out of his own means, gathered up the unfortunate throughout the country, and it was said cured many of them by the native Indian remedy "tua tua."

"Father of Paterson Parks" Dead.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 26.—Henry B. Crosby, 95 years of age, is dead in Oakland, N. J. He had been a lifelong resident of this city, and was known throughout the country as the "Father of Parks." Mr. Crosby lived on Broadway, this city. A week ago he went with his son, Henry B. Crosby, Jr., to the latter's bungalow at Oakland to enjoy a rest. He seemed in good health yesterday, but at night he suffered a stroke of apoplexy and died before the arrival of a physician. He was one of the best known of Paterson's citizens, and because of the prominent part he took in the establishing of east side and west side parks he was called "Father of Parks." He retired from active business twenty years ago. Mr. Crosby was married twice, his second wife surviving him. He is also survived by several children.

C. S. CROWNINSHIELD DEAD.

Caspar S. Crowninshield was appointed from the District of Columbia first as Consul at Castellamare di Stabia in 1906 and the year following as Consul at Naples. He was the son of the late Rear Admiral A. S. Crowninshield. He married at Naples Miss Grace Snelling, daughter of Mrs. Edward Snelling of New York.

Consul Crowninshield was active in the relief work after the Messina earthquake, and for this received a testimonial from the City of Naples.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The State department to-night received from the Consulate in Naples a dispatch telling of the death of Consul Crowninshield.

Mr. Crowninshield's death was not altogether unexpected by officials here. He suffered a complete break-down as a result of overwork immediately following the Messina disaster. About six months ago it is stated, Mr. Crowninshield contracted tuberculosis, to which disease his death is attributed.

John Cheshire, Harpist, Dead.

John Cheshire, the well-known harpist, died at his home in West 105th Street yesterday morning after a brief illness. He was born in England seventy-three years ago, and was a pupil of John Balsir Chatterton. Mr. Cheshire was also associated for many years as student and professor with the Royal Academy of Music. He played with many orchestras and with the Italian Opera in London before coming to America about twenty years ago. When Anton Seidl directed opera at the Metropolitan Mr. Cheshire was a member of the orchestra. He was the composer of a large number of concert pieces, and had recently completed a concerto.

Miss E. M. Morris Dies in Germany.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 26.—Dr. George D. Dramsay received a cable dispatch tonight of the death of his cousin, Miss Elizabeth M. Morris of Baltimore, elder daughter of the late Capt. Charles Manigult Morris, who commanded the Confederate cruiser Florida. Miss Morris died Friday in Manheim, Germany, where she was with a younger sister, Miss Rosalie Morris. The news was sent to Surgeon Lewis Morris, U. S. N., attached to the battleship Georgia, which is off Fort Monroe.

A LITTLE LOGIC

When an Owner estimates the income from a proposed building, he is going on the theory that the end will justify the means.

Thereafter he should see to it that the means will justify the end.

In other words, he should select the contractor best qualified to ensure the calculated ratio of income to investment. That will bring him to us.

RISE IN READING FEATURE

Market Interprets Favorably Railroad Unions' Championship of Higher Rates—Berlin Bank Rate Advanced.

Although it is obvious that such resolutions as those adopted by the representatives of railroad labor unions in this city on Sunday in support of the campaign of the roads themselves for higher rates might under certain circumstances result in an absurd situation, there is nevertheless no evidence that the movement will run to such lengths in the present case, and it was, therefore, rightly construed on the Stock Exchange yesterday as an important factor in the general financial situation. What is meant is, of course, a situation where the granting of higher wages from time to time depended exclusively upon the receipt of higher charges on traffic by the railroads. In this instance the case is different for the reason that a great many other elements have entered into the higher costs under which the roads are operating, and to offset these and still to provide a safe and adequate service for shippers and passengers something more than savings from economies is necessary. As was the case last week when the Minnesota decision was announced, the news of the railroad men's championship of the railroads' cause provoked not a trace of outside buying of stocks. Traders made up in their enthusiasm for this lack of interest elsewhere and were, of course, spurred to even greater exertion by the familiar spectacle of a violent speculation in Reading shares upon the revival of the various reports regarding melons and so on, which have seen service so often in the past. Reading moved up 4 points at one time, closing with the greater part of this gain intact, while in other directions substantial if less sensational advances were scored. There was nevertheless a degree of irregularity in the rise, emphasized by the quiet course of Steel common.

Among the various news items of market interest, aside from that concerning the action of railroad employes, was the announcement that a local banking house had closed negotiations for the sale of a considerable block of Union Pacific bonds to London bankers, a plain sign of betterment in the investment situation generally; a number of railroad earning statements, including those of the Atchison & Southern Railway, which fully bore out earlier expectations that increases in gross returns would be very largely if not much more than offset by higher operating costs, and the advance of a full 1 per cent.—from 4 per cent. to 5 per cent.—in the discount rate of the German Bank. This move had been foreshadowed by hardening discounts in Berlin last week, but it served nevertheless to cause selling of securities here for London account and a decided firming of the money market in the English capital in anticipation of a similar move by the Bank of England at Thursday's meeting of its Directors. All the South African gold, nearly $4,500,000, arriving in London yesterday, was taken for the Continent and the German demand will doubtless be directed principally to that city. Returns to the Controller on the recent bank call were published in summarized form yesterday. They show some improvement in the reserve position of the National banks, the actual figures standing at 21.57 per cent. on Sept. 1, as against 21.22 per cent. on June 30 last, and 21.67 per cent. on Sept. 1, 1909. Loans have enlarged where contraction was looked for, but the exact division of the $36,000,000 increase by territories cannot be told until the detailed statement is issued.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Monday.

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was strong throughout yesterday's session. Sentiment showed a decided improvement, with commission houses reporting the handling of a substantial volume of buying orders, including a great many orders for odd-lots. Reading was a feature of the dealings, with some of the lots of that stock changing hands of unusual size. Sales totaled 79,930 shares, with forty-eight different stocks on the list.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday business was quiet. Copper was weak and tin was down ⅛. Lead and spelter were unchanged.

The closing bid and asked prices follow:

Standard copper.	Monday. Bid.	Monday. Asked.	Friday. Bid.	Friday. Asked.
Spot	12.00	12.12½	12.05	12.15
September	12.00	12.12½	12.05	12.15
October	12.02½	12.12½	12.05	12.15
November	12.02½	12.12½	12.05	12.15
Lead	4.37½	4.40	4.37½	4.40
Spelter	5.50	5.60	5.50	5.60
Tin	34.75	34.85	34.87½	35.00

On the Metal Exchange in London yesterday the transactions there are noted in the following table for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin. These prices compare with the close on Friday:

	Monday. £	s.	d.	Friday. £	s.	d.
Copper, futures	55	16	3	55	18	9
Pig tin, spot	158	2	6	158	2	6
Pig tin, futures	158	..	..	157	17	6

The market ended steady. Spanish pig lead was easier, at a recession of 1s 3d, to £12 12s 6d. Spelter was steady at £23 10s. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 49s.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Trading on the local Exchange was light and there was no decided price movement in either direction. Swift shares recovered later a shade which was off at the opening. Brick ended the day with a fractional loss and Sears-Roebuck was up about an equal fraction. Chicago Railway certificates sold off toward the close of the day.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

SMALL GAINS IN COPPERS

Curb stocks moved narrowly yesterday and were somewhat irregular. At the close a few issues were below the high levels of the day and several showed small declines from opening prices. A number made fractional gains. Chino after selling up from 18¾ to 19 closed after sales of 5,000 shares at 18⅝. Giroux showed some strength, selling up from 6 9-16 to 6 13-16, the close after sales of 1,100 being at the high figure. Greene-Cananea sold 2,000 shares, unchanged at 6½. Miami sold 3,400 shares up from 19¼ to 19½.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Sharp advances in Lehigh Valley, United States Steel, and Reading gave the local market an unwonted aspect of buoyancy to-day. Business remained on a comparatively restricted scale in this city, and local bankers continued to complain of their enforced idleness. There appeared to be a rather liberal supply of Rapid Transit around 18, about 2,600 shares coming out at that price. It was rumored that the employes were again growing restless, but there was a fair demand for the stock from strong houses, and it closed at 18⅛, up ⅛ from Saturday's final figures.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Labor Unions and Rates.

Traders on the floor of the Stock Exchange were inclined to put a good deal of stress upon the action of the railroad labor unions in joining with the railroads in the campagn for higher traffic rates. It was recognized that this step was probably dictated very largely by what may be called selfish motives, since all railroad employes have received advances in pay and must look to larger earnings by the roads for any additional increases in the future. Nevertheless, the feeling was that the unions compose a very large body of voters, and their activity in favor of higher rates was regarded as something like an offset to that of the shippers who are stoutly opposing the proposed advances. In any event, the news created an opportunity for action in the stock market, and was, perhaps, as welcome on this account as for any other reason. The response of prices was generous, and for the moment political factors, including the Saratoga Convention, were ignored.

The Rise in Reading.

There are enough loose ends to the Reading situation to make any rise in the stock impressive to the speculative element. Since the annual report was issued last week showing something less than 11 per cent. earned for the common, the stock has advanced steadily, helped, first, by the good annual statement of the Jersey Central, the bulk of the stock of which is owned by Reading, and now by the revival of the old "mystery" stories which run from prospective melons to the discovery of enormous new coal veins. It is only a few months ago that Wall Street was selling Reading freely because it pretended, at least, to have found out that the road would be better off if it were entirely out of the coal business. The cycle will remain incomplete until the rumor of the retirement of the second preferred stock again makes its appearance, along with a movement in the shares themselves.

Loan and Deposit Theory.

Some little comment has been aroused in speculative circles by the approach of loans in the current Clearing House statements to an even figure with deposits. In the actual figures of Saturday last deposits appear as $1,285,703,000, while loans stand at $1,285,532,000, making the difference in favor of deposits purely nominal. A good many speculators of the old school insist that the passing of deposits by the loan account is always to be looked upon as a danger signal for the reason that it presages curtailment of credits shortly afterward, and therefore a higher and more obstructive money market, in the stock market sense. That this theory is not altogether devoid of reason has been proved many times, but conditions were not so plainly paralleled by those now existing. Generally it is found that the overtopping of deposits by loans has come at a time of great business activity and an excited stock market speculation. The speculation under these circumstances has very properly given way before the demands of trade.

Steel Business All Right.

The story from Pittsburg last week that steel cuts were to be made general before the seven-day period was out, promptly contradicted in the statement from Judge Gary which it provoked, has gone to keep company with a long list of discredited news items from the steel centre which, until time proved them wrong, have been of interest in the Street. Now that the time set for the price war has passed without anything happening, there is greater disposition to consider that part of the pronouncement from the Steel Corporation offices last week, which said: "If the railroad companies were buying as much as usual or up to their necessities, the mills would be crowded. The normal business that the railroads give the steel producers amounts to about one-third of the output of the mills. The railroad orders at present, steel men figure, do not amount to more than one-tenth of that normal third. It speaks well for the state of general business that with this large deficit to contend with the steel mills are making as fair a showing as they do."

VAN NORDEN TRUST NO MORE

Hereafter the Concern Will Be Known as the Madison Trust Company.

Formal announcement was made yesterday of the change of name of the Van Norden Trust Company to the Madison Trust Company. This change is made because during the past year the Messrs. Van Norden, who founded the trust company in 1902, sold all their stock and retired.

To take the place of the Van Norden interests the company at the last annual meeting elected Watkins Crockett President and Bradley Martin, Jr., Vice President and Treasurer. W. W. Robinson is the Secretary and George H. Bartholomew trust officer of the company.

COTTON BILL MUDDLE WILL RIGHT ITSELF

SURETY AT LITTLE COST

Revised Figures of Indemnity Companies Likely to Put Rate at 5 Cents a Bale.

Although the deadlock between the committees of American and foreign bankers over cotton bills of lading remains unbroken and the New York bankers are as determined as ever that they will not recede from their refusal to guarantee the bills, as demanded by the English and Continental bankers, there are abundant signs that the problem is working itself out. Bankers in New York have learned that there is a growing disposition on the part of individual banking firms on the other side to accept the "validated" railroad bills of lading, which are in themselves a guarantee against forgery, with the additional safeguard of a surety company guarantee. The losses sustained by foreign cotton buyers and bankers last year were due entirely to the forgery of bills of lading, and with this danger obviated by the railroads' guarantee of the signatures of their employes, the American surety companies are bidding at low rates for the business of giving the further guarantee which is demanded of the banks on this side, but which they refuse to give because of legal restrictions.

Advices from London yesterday told of the circulation among English cotton men of a blanket form of surety company guarantee which covers cotton up to $300,000 valuation in any single shipment. Although the refusal of the foreign bankers to accept American cotton bills of lading without guarantee does not go into effect until Oct. 31, cotton buyers on the other side have taken out in many cases Lloyds policies against fraud, and bankers here believe that they will readily take the surety guarantee.

When the bill of lading controversy first started the surety companies undertook to establish throughout the South an elaborate system of checking and guaranteeing cotton shipments. They are now holding off, it was said yesterday, until further developments. Since the railroads' plan for guaranteeing the signatures of their agents was adopted the surety companies have entirely readjusted the tentative figures for their indemnity charges. It was said yesterday that the surety companies would be able to make the guarantee for about one-third the sums first spoken of and that the charge might not amount to more than 5 cents a bale.

Besides the acceptance of these guarantees by foreign cotton buyers there are several other solutions of the problem open to individual choice by cotton interests here and abroad, and for this reason bankers have no doubt that the cotton financing problem will settle itself, whether the foreign bankers maintain their stand or not.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

The wheat market was a narrow affair, without tendency, closing at a slight loss for the day. The cables were fairly steady on the smaller world's exports than expected and on the fact that most of the week's shipments were to the Continent. Thse total world's exports up to Saturday night were 15,360,000 bushels, against 14,292,000 the previous week and 11,236,000 bushels last year. Russian shipments were 6,520,000 bushels. The Western receipts were fairly liberal for the day, although not as heavy as last year. The visible supply increased 2,526,000 bushels in the United States and 908,000 bushels in Canada. The total in the United States is 32,243,000 bushels and in Canada 4,198,000 bushels. There was an absence of export interest and no sales were reported. Western cash markets were quiet. Weather conditions were not unfavorable for Fall wheat. Argentine reports were of improved weather conditions there and rains have been fairly general. Cash wheat quoted: No. 2 red Winter, $1.04¾, elevator; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, new, free on board, afloat, for export, $1.04¾; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.23½; No. 2 hard Winter, new, $1.07, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.10½.

Corn was active and strong early on a drop to freezing temperature in the Dakotas and rather general rains in some of the corn States, but later lost part of the advance on the weather prediction of frosts in Nebraska only. The weather map showed indications of rising temperatures in the far Northwest, and the cold wave was not expected to be general. Reports claimed also that the crop was so far advanced that only general freezing conditions would cause material injury. The visible increase, 787,000,000 bushels, and Western receipts were quite liberal. Cash demand was quiet and no export sales were reported. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, 61¾c, nominal, elevator, domestic basis, and steamer, nominal, elevator, export basis.

Oats were moderately active and firmer, with corn and on less pressure on cash stuff. Demand, however, is quiet, and the close was at slight net change. The visible increased 437,000 bushels. Cash oats quoted: Standards, 39c; No. 2 white, 39½c; No. 3 white, 38c; No. 4 white, 37½c; natural white, 39@41c; white clipped, 40@43½c.

Provisions were again very irregular. October pork was extremely weak and has declined about $2 a barrel in the last ten days. Ribs were weak also, while lard was comparatively steady. The decline was considered somewhat of a drive against values, helped by reports from some of the packing interests that there was a large supply of young hogs in the country, and these would shortly be coming to market.

Cottonseed oil was excited and very weak at the opening, October breaking heavily again on further liquidation, liberal offerings by bear interests, selling on stop orders, and reports of lower crude markets, which were said to be down to the basis of 7c a pound in the Southwest for prompt crude. Prices for October showed a decline of over 100 points in a week. Other deliveries were lower, but showed less weakness. Later October recovered 20 points, and the close was with a much steadier feeling.

COTTON.

The cotton market was moderately active and stronger. The volume of trade was limited, but there seemed to be fairly steady support and prices advanced rather easily with but little resistance. Weather conditions were favorable generally through the South and new crop cotton is moving more freely. A report on the Carolinas, however, emphasized the lateness of the crop and this induced some little buying. There was also considerable buying by brokers thought to represent some of the bull interests. There were very bullish reports sent regarding the crop situation by Western houses, and an estimate by a traveling expert claimed an increase west of the Mississippi of only 500,000 bales over last year, necessitating an increase of 1,000,000 bales east of the Mississippi to make a crop of 12,000,000 bales. There was also some buying on the cold, wet weather in the northern part of the country. Liverpool was firmer on less favorable crop accounts. Buying by Western and Wall Street houses was quite a factor in the advance. Receipts of cotton are steadily increasing and a press dispatch from Galveston claimed a record-breaking movement there. The reports of more active mill operations in New England and that the trouble in the Fern Mill in England would be arbitrated, preventing the consummation of the lockout there, were used as bullish influences, although later it was reported that the Masters' Spinning Association had refused to accept the terms of settlement.

OFFICE OF THE BOARD OF LIQUIDATION OF THE CITY DEBT,

ROOM 206 CITY HALL ANNEX.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 22, 1910.

The Board of Liquidation, City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the session of 1906, and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the session of 1908, and Act No. 23 of 1910, which said acts, No. 19 of 1906 and No. 116 of 1908, have been ratified by constitutional amendment, and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office, in the City of New Orleans, Louisiana, up to 12 o'clock noon on Tuesday, Oct. 4, 1910, for the purchase of seven million dollars in face value of the new public improvement bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under the provisions of the acts aforementioned, and the constitutional amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of one thousand dollars each, and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year, respectively. They are by law exempt from taxation, State, parish, and municipal.

Said bonds are payable Jan. 1, 1942, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after Jan. 1, 1928, and will be issued under and subject to the acts aforementioned, which are referred to and made part hereof for greater certainty and particularity.

Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions, to wit:

1st. No sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of the bids shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit: $7,000,000 in face value.

2d. Said bonds will be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds or any part thereof shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission not to exceed six per centum on the principal thereof.

3d. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and canceled, and the successful bidder, or bidders, shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.

4th. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder, or bidders, in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, said deliveries to be made on twenty-four hours' notice. First delivery to be made Nov. 5, 1910.

All bonds to be delivered within a period not to exceed one hundred and twenty days from date of final acceptance of bid.

5th. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on same chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for three per cent. of the amount of each bid, the check, or checks, of the successful bidder, or bidders, shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation as a guarantee that the said bidder, or bidders, will comply with his or their bids, and said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to said bidder, or bidders, respectively. In case of neglect or refusal to comply with any bid, the proceeds of said bidder's check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage and Water Board.

6th. Any local bank, or banks, bidding for said bonds are referred to Section 2 of Act No. 23 of 1910, and may stipulate in its or their said bid, or bids, that they desire to be awarded the custody of the Public Improvement Fund after the 5th of November, 1910, as provided for in said Act No. 23 of 1910.

7th. If any local bank, or banks, should be awarded the depository as provided in Act No. 23 of 1910, the said local bank, or banks, shall be required to pay the rate of interest on daily balances in the amount and at the time provided therein, and shall comply with all the provisions of said statutes as to security and other matters.

8th. The Board of Liquidation City Debt reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Mark all bids: "Proposals for purchase of New Public Improvement Bonds."

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary of the Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206 City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Tenants Leaving the Alpine, which is to make way for New Broadway Hotel—Investor Buys Seventh Ave. Plot—$50.000 Offered for Broad Street Property.

Preliminary work began yesterday toward an early demolition of the old buildings on the McAlpin block, occupying the entire east side of Broadway, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth Streets. As stated last June, the entire block has been leased to a syndicate known as the Greeley Square Hotel Company for the erection of a high-class twenty-story hotel costing from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000.

With the exception of the eight-story Alpine building on the Thirty-third Street corner the other buildings on the property are old structures. Workmen began yesterday removing the big electric light fixtures on the roofs of the stores on the Broadway and Thirty-fourth Street corner, and the tenants are all preparing to move out this week. The occupants of bachelor apartments in the Alpine, for years one of the most popular houses of its kind in the city, are also seeking other quarters, and by the end of the week the entire Broadway block will be virtually divested of its old-time business activity, except the Thirty-third Street corner of the Alpine building, occupied by the Mutual Bank.

Unlike the other tenants, the Mutual Bank has a lease of nearly two years yet to run. The officers are making no effort to move, no new quarters have been secured, and the indications seem to imply that the bank is determined to hold on to its present offices unless, of course, favorable negotiations can be made for the canceling of its lease. All of the other tenants have had for some time short leases with ninety days' cancellation clauses.

The tearing down of these old structures means another high-class improvement for Thirty-fourth Street, which in its remarkable commercial development in recent years has experienced some of the most notable changes and great advances in valuations of any quarter of the city. The new Greeley Square Hotel will be controlled by a syndicate including members of the McAlpin estate; Charles P. Taft, brother of President Taft; L. J. Horowitz, and F. M. Andrews, the latter being the architect who is preparing plans for the new hotel. The rental to be paid for the first twenty-one years is about $300,000 a year, and four renewal privileges are given.

$50,000 Offered for 106 Broad St.

Upon the application of Daniel Miller, a trustee under the will of the late Daniel S. Miller, Justice Cavegan appointed James R. Sheffield yesterday to take testimony and decide as to the advisability of selling the property at 106 Broad Street to Leon Wilner, who has offered $50,000 for it.

Daniel S. Miller was the father of the wife of the late Jay Gould, and in his will he left a life interest in this property with other parcels to another daughter, who is now Mrs. Emily Miller Noyes, a widow, living at 150 West Fifty-ninth Street.

Investor Buys Seventh Ave. Plot.

An interesting Seventh Avenue sale was announced yesterday by Snowber & Smith, who in conjunction with S. B. Goodale & Son have sold to a client of Alfred J. Kelly 192 and 194 Seventh Avenue, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second Streets.

The acquisition of this property gives the buyer, who is said to be a Mrs. McCrocker, a plot having a frontage of 74 feet on Seventh Avenue and 100 feet on Twenty-first Street. The property is occupied at present by old-fashioned three-story brick buildings. The buyer will hold the plot for investment.

Resale on East 88th Street.

Lauter & Blackner have resold for a client 404 East Eighty-eighth Street, a four-story double flat on a plot 26 by 100.8. In part payment the buyer gives a residence in Meridan, Conn.

Buys East Side Residence.

Pease & Elliman have sold for Morton L. Searey the four-story, high-stoop, brick-and-stone house at 55 East Seventy-eighth Street, on plot 18.9 by 102.2, to a client for occupancy.

West Side House Demand.

Slawson & Hobbs have leased the following private residences on the west side: 136 West Seventy-eighth Street, for Ana Pomaves to O. J. Riges; 264 West Seventy-first Street, for Emil Garnier to Dr. F. Cassari; 264 West Ninety-fourth Street, for the estate of James L. Lawson to F. C. Felder; 125 West Eighty-second Street, for R. W. Jenkins to John B. Daning; 157 West Eighty-seventh Street, for L. Ferrier to Ada Mandek; 307 West Seventy-seventh Street, for Henry C. Trevor to E. E. Fergot; 113 West Seventy-first Street, for H. L. Brown to Mrs. L. S. Edison; 427 West 141st Street, for Luise Killian to John L. Pollack.

Staten Island.

Arnold Byrne & Baumann have sold through M. M. Adams for the Queens Map Company 7 and 8 South Place, corner of Hamilton Avenue, New Brighton, S. I., two three-story buildings on a plot 80 by 150.

Buys the Sea Gate Casino.

Benjamin Rosenthal has purchased the Sea Gate Casino for $35,000. It was purchased last April at the auction sale of the estate of the late Dr. John H. Woodbury by John Offerman for $22,500. It has a frontage of 90 feet on Surf Avenue and a depth of 200 feet.

Famous Willets Mansion Sold.

The famous Willets mansion, located on Broadway, Flushing, has been purchased by A. B. Young of Manhattan, who will occupy it as a residence. Three generations of the Willets family have lived in the old building.

The late Thomas S. Willets was the last of the family to occupy the old home, and upon his death it was sold by his widow. The property is part of a large farm originally one hundred acres in area. The late Thomas S. Willets sold ninety acres to the Louis H. Green Company, and it was developed into the tract now known as Auburndale.

Suburban Sales.

Lambert L. Jackson of D. Appleton & Co. has purchased a plot on Park Hill Avenue, Park Hill-on-the-Hudson, and will build for occupancy late next Spring.

L. L. Nicholson & Co. have sold for Fred Saum his residence on Livingston Avenue, at Lyndhurst, N. J., to Mrs. Brachman, on a plot 87½ by 150 for $3,200 for immediate occupancy. Also for Ernest Rogers a six-room house, all improvements, at the corner of Park Place and Seventh Street for $2,800, for immediate occupancy.

Jersey City Plant Sold.

The Payne Beef Company has sold its plant on the northwest corner of Henderson and Twentieth Streets, to the Nagle Packing Company. The property has a frontage of 45 feet on Henderson Street, 100 feet on Twentieth Street, and adjoins the D., L. and W. Railroad. The price paid is stated to have been about $30,000.

Recent Buyers.

W. Virginia Hall is the buyer of the dwelling 140 West Eighty-eighth Street recently sold through Slawson & Hobbs for Loretta E. Sanders.

P. G. Gardner is the buyer of the dwelling 316 West 102d Street recently sold by Emily F. Dubois through Gibbs & Kirby.

Successful Oakwood Heights Sale.

An average of $1,900 a lot was paid for the Oakwood Heights lots in Mt. Vernon, sold Saturday at auction by Joseph P. Day. A second sale will be held later when the improvements now being made on Lorraine, Sycamore, and Magnolia Avenues are completed.

To Sell Lexington Avenue Corner.

The American Ice Co. has foreclosed on the property at the northwest corner of Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, and it will be sold by Bryan L. Kennelly at the Real Estate Exchange room to-day. There is a two-story and basement brick business building on the property, the plot being 50 by 97.6. The amount of the mortgage being foreclosed by the American Ice Co. is $110,000, and property will be sold subject to a first mortgage of $100,000.

Mr. Kennelly will also sell for the Loyal L. Smith estate the five-story building at 15 Bowery.

Supreme Court Partition Sale.

A Supreme Court partition sale of two one-family dwellings and four large plots on East 174th Street, between Clay Avenue, Anthony Avenue, Monroe and Topping Avenues, and on Monroe Avenue, near East 175th Street, will be held by Joseph P. Day to-day at noon in the Exchange Salesroom, 14 Vesey Street.

HOW DOES THIS STRIKE YOU?
WE WILL PAY YOUR FARE FOR ONE YEAR

How many dollars did you spend this year to send your family to the country for health, pleasure and happiness? Why not have your family in a home where the same can be had all the year around and where you can go home every evening from your work and enjoy life as it should be enjoyed with your family, and all it costs is what you pay for rent in the city? We do not ask you to invest in lots and wait for improvements, but we will give you a home ready for occupancy.

Why buy lots and be compelled to wait for streets to be made and sewers to be laid?

Why buy lots and sit down and wait for the neighborhood to be developed?

Why buy lots and wait for transit facilities which may or may never come?

You can buy lots in the Hunts Point section of the Bronx where the streets are made and paved, the sewers laid, the streets lighted, the finest buildings erected and dozens more being built. Excellent transit facilities are there NOW. Additional transit facilities under consideration.

These conditions actually surround the 297 Bronx lots of Hunts Point Estate, located on Hunts Point Avenue and surrounding streets, which will be put up at Night Auction on Tuesday, October 11th, at Terrace Garden, 58th St. and 3rd Ave.

You only need 30% cash to get the deed, the balance can be left on mortgages for one, two or three years at 5%.

The title policy will be insured free of charge.

Even if you haven't any idea of making an investment of these Bronx Lots it will pay you to get acquainted with the property.

Inspect the apartments in the monumental group, The Paterno Houses, crowning the heights on Riverside Drive and 116th St.

Satisfy yourself that the Paterno Houses have unusual merit—that there are none better.

There is no other spot in the City just like this, and the tenants in the five new Paterno Houses enjoy every advantage of the location—Columbia University with its imposing buildings on one side, Riverside Drive and the "American Rhine" on the other.

There is no group of Apartments in all the world like the Paterno Houses.

The Paterno Standard has been a determining factor in bringing Apartment House construction to its present high plane.

In Paterno Houses you find all the conveniences that you can possibly find in any Apartment House, and improvements that others will be copying next year.

In several of the Paterno Houses there are still a few vacancies of 7, 8, 9, 10 and 12 rooms with 3 and 4 baths at rentals ranging from $1,200 to $3,800 per annum; also a few 4-room suites at $55 and $60 per month. Concessions will be made to desirable tenants.

Come to our office in the "The Paterno" at Riverside Drive and 116th Street and our representative will show you any of the following apartments. Inspection can be made until 10 P. M.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to an order of resale made by the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York in the above-entitled cause on September 13th, 1910, and filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court on September 16th, 1910, I, Joseph H. Choate, Junior, as Receiver of the defendant New York & Albany Transportation Company, in exercise of the powers and duties by said order conferred upon me, will on the 29th day of September, 1910, at twelve o'clock noon of that day, offer for sale by Joseph P. Day, Esq., auctioneer, by public auction to the highest bidder, the property, a brief general description of which is given below, in accordance with the terms and provisions of said order, on the steps of the north main entrance of the New York County Court House, Chambers Street, in the Borough of Manhattan in the City of New York.

The property of the defendant, New York & Albany Transportation Company, namely, the two steamboats "Frank Jones" and "Saratoga," together with their engines and boilers, as the same shall be on the day of the sale directed in and by said order of resale, together, also, with such permanent additions or fixtures as have been made or affixed to the hulls or structures of said steamboats or either of them since July 27th, 1909; and together, also, with such tackle, apparel, and furniture as was sold with said vessels on said July 27th, 1909, and still remains on board (but without any tackle, apparel and/or furniture placed on board by the purchaser or possessor under the sale of July 27th, 1909); and all the right, title and interest of said defendant New York & Albany Transportation Company in and to said property. The said tackle, apparel and furniture to be sold, as aforesaid, will be sold without warranty or representation by or on behalf of the Receiver as to the kind, quality, quantity, value or existence thereof.

All the said property will be sold in one parcel, free and clear of all maritime, statutory or other liens of any nature, kind or description whatsoever, excepting only maritime liens and statutory liens based on credit extended to said vessels, or either of them, arising or arisen since July 27th, 1909, and excepting also like liens existing on July 27th, 1909, but not submitted to the Special Master appointed in the above entitled suit.

The said property will be sold for cash only, and the lowest bid which will be received or accepted, will be $70,000 lawful money of the United States.

The successful bidder shall forthwith pay in cash to the Receiver ten per cent. of the amount of such bid, and shall pay in cash the remaining ninety per cent. of such bid on delivery of the bill of sale and of possession of said property.

Any sale shall be subject to confirmation by the Court, and if any bid shall be accepted by the Court and the bidder thereof shall fail to comply with all the conditions of sale and the orders of the Court in respect thereof, all moneys paid or deposited on account of his bid or as part thereof shall be forfeited and applied as the Court may direct.

The "Frank Jones" may be inspected by intending bidders on the 21st, 23d, 27th, and 29th days of September, 1910, and the "Saratoga" on the 22d, 24th, 26th, and 28th days of September, 1910, between the hours of ten o'clock in the forenoon and three o'clock in the afternoon at Pier No. 39 North River, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, and the Receiver will have a representative on board at the times aforesaid to show said vessels.

For further information as to the tackle, apparel, and furniture to be sold reference is made to the inventories, schedules, and other written information in the possession of the Receiver, which may be examined during office hours at his office, No. 60 Wall Street, Borough of Manhattan, New York City. Such inventories, schedules, or other written information shall not be nor be construed as warranties or representations by or on behalf of the Receiver, but any purchaser at said sale shall be held to rely solely upon his own knowledge of the kind, quality, quantity, value, or existence of any tackle, apparel, or furniture on, and/or appertaining to the "Frank Jones" or "Saratoga," or both or either of them.

For the particulars as to the said sale and the terms and conditions thereof, and as to the property to be sold, reference is made to said order of resale dated September 13th, 1910, and filed in said suit in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York on September 16th, 1910, and to the terms of sale, copies of which may be obtained at the Receiver's said office.

Dated September 20th, 1910.
JOSEPH H. CHOATE, Jr., Receiver,
60 Wall Street, New York City.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The disturbance centred in the Mississippi Valley Monday morning is taking a northerly course and gradually losing strength.

The cool wave in the West, as anticipated, is gradually losing energy, and the temperature already has risen considerably in the Far Northwest.

Steamships departing for European ports will have moderate variable winds, mostly northeast, with partly overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND WEDNESDAY.

Eastern New York—Partly cloudy Tuesday, with possibly showers by afternoon or night. Wednesday generally fair; moderate variable winds.

New Jersey—Generally fair Tuesday and Wednesday; moderate variable winds.

3 A. M.	59	65	4 P. M.	64	[illegible]
6 A. M.	56	63	6 P. M.	63	74
9 A. M.	56	64	9 P. M.	60	71
12 M.	60	73	12 P. M.	56	[illegible]

This thermometer is 108 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 71; for the corresponding date last year it was 60; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 64.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 64; at 8 P. M. it was 72. Maximum temperature, 80 degrees at 3 P. M.; minimum, 62 degrees at 6:45 A. M. Humidity, 97 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 82 per cent. at 8 P. M.

BUSINESS TROUBLES

CASTLE STEAM LAUNDRY COMPANY.—Judge Holt has appointed Alfred Roelker, Jr., receiver in bankruptcy for the Castle Steam Laundry Company, on Ittner Place, near Park Avenue. The liabilities are $2,500 and the assets $2,000.

THEONAS J. A. HUMBERT.—Judge Holt has appointed James R. Sloane receiver in bankruptcy for Theonas J. A. Humbert, manufacturing confectioner at 9 Wooster Street. The liabilities are $5,500 and the actual assets are $3,000.

INTERNATIONAL SKIRT COMPANY.—Judge Holt has appointed Mason Trowbridge receiver in bankruptcy for Edward Silberstein, doing business as the International Skirt Company at 106 Greene Street. The assets are estimated at $1,000.

MAX ACKERMAN.—Judge Holt has appointed Henry Lesser receiver in bankruptcy for Max Ackerman, manufacturer of furs at 55 West Sixteenth Street, with a bond of $4,000. The liabilities are $50,000 and the assets between $8,000 and $15,000.

EDELSTEIN & BLOCK.—Judge Holt has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on Aug. 13 against Edelstein & Block, manufacturers of women's underwear at 23 Wooster Street, on a settlement of 30 cents on the dollar, payable 15 cents cash and 15 cents on a note at three months.

GLASGAR & ACKERMAN.—Judge Holt has dismissed the petition in bankruptcy filed on Aug. 29 against Glasgar & Ackerman, manufacturers of furs at 28 West Fifteenth Street, on a settlement at 27½ cents on the dollar, payable 15 cents cash and 12½ cents on a note at six months.

GORDON & MAKRANSKY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Isaac Gordon and Simon Makransky, who compose the firm of Gordon & Makransky, manufacturing furriers at 38 East Tenth Street, by these creditors: Cohen & Walzer, $324; Israel Pike, $224, and Samuel Wechsellblatt, $36. It was alleged that they are insolvent, made preferential payments of $2,000, and transferred merchandise and accounts of $2,000. The assets are placed at $2,000.

CINED & SEELEMAN.—Peter B. Olney has been designated special master in the case of Ciner & Seeleman, manufacturing jewelers at 87 Maiden Lane. Oppenheimer & Arnold, attorneys for the firm, said that a meeting of creditors would be called in a few days and either a settlement or extension would be asked; that the unsecured liabilities are $170,000, and there are contingent liabilities of $70,000 customers' notes under discount, of which the firm would probably not have to pay any. The assets are $173,000, consisting of merchandise, $110,000; accounts, $35,000; equity in accounts, $11,000; plant, $16,000, and cash, $1,000.

RUBIN & LIPMAN.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Abraham Rubin and David Lipman, who compose the firm of Rubin & Lipman, manufacturers of cloaks and suits at 40 West Twenty-second Street, by Marcus Helfand, attorney for these creditors: M. Fishbein, $300; Jacob Cohen, $475, and J. Liberman, Son & Co. Thomas & Oppenheimer, attorneys for the firm, said the late strike in the cloak trade had killed their business; they could do no manufacturing for more than six weeks, and their credit had been curtailed, so that they could not undertake any new business. The liabilities are $20,000 and the assets $10,000 to $15,000. They hope to get a settlement from the creditors.

FERDINAND EHRLICH & SONS.—Ferdinand Ehrlich & Sons, wholesale dealers in veilings, chiffons, and gloves at 518 Broadway, who have been in business thirty-eight years, were petitioned into bankruptcy yesterday because it was said that they could not get their notes extended. The petition was filed by Oppenheimer & Arnold, attorneys for two creditors, Bacon & Co., $152, and H. A. Caesar & Co., $480. It was alleged that they are insolvent, and made preferential payments and transferred stock and the proceeds thereof, $5,000. The partners are Ferdinand and Harry Ehrlich. Solomon Levi, attorney for the firm, stated that they owe $95,560 to banks and only about $2,500 for merchandise. They owe the following banks: Commercial Trust Company, $11,300; Columbia Bank, $11,000; German Exchange Bank, $13,400, of which $3,000 is secured; State Bank, $7,000; Union Exchange Bank, $4,750; European American Bank, $3,600; Century Bank, $1,600; Citizens' Central National Bank, $13,500, secured; First National Bank of Paterson, $23,000, secured. The assets are about $53,000, consisting of stock, $50,000, and accounts, $3,000. Their losses in the last three years have amounted to over $100,000, caused by importing long fabric gloves, which, owing to the change in style, became unmerchantable, and they also suffered greatly by reason of bad debts.

WELLMAN'S FLIER READY FOR THE AIR

To Make a Test Trip at Atlantic City To-morrow if the Weather Permits.

NEW DEVICE FOR WIRELESS

Marconi Operator Rigs Up a Box Kite to be Used if Forced to Take to the Life Boat.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 26.—At the close of a hard day's work in the hangar of Walter Wellman's big dirigible airship America, in which a crew of six men hope to fly across the Atlantic, sending messages by Marconi wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES, The Chicago Record-Herald, and The London Daily Telegraph, it was announced to-night that the craft was now "as fit as a fiddle," and that the long siege of preliminary "tuning up" was practically at an end.

As the construction material was cleared away the big gas bag with its three-ton steel car and 75-foot gasoline tank hanging underneath began to take on beautiful proportions. The crowds that came to look it over increased in numbers, and exclamations of surprise could be heard on all sides. There still remains the problem of attaching the long snakelike equilibrator of gasoline tanks strung on a cable, and the lifeboat in which the crew will take to the water in case of disaster aloft. These two attachments, so necessary on the transatlantic trip, will not be used in the trial flight to New York to the trial flights above Atlantic City. There will be no further delay on their account.

Mr. Wellman said to-night that only unfavorable weather could keep him in his hangar longer than to-morrow, and that he could easily keep his promise to take the air with several passengers by Wednesday evening at the latest.

As Chief Engineer Vaniman worked with his corps of assistants to-day on the final little tasks of "tuning up" he let fall suggestions of the true inwardness of the plans to go across the ocean by the air line.

Mr. Vaniman is a man to whom the science of aeronautics has become a sort of fever, and he is standing forth in the present effort to do something signally successful with a dirigible to make what he believes is a last stand for the motor-driven balloon against the encroaching supremacy of the aeroplane. The bad luck that has pursued Count Zeppelin with his dirigibles, which visited ruin upon the French Army aeronauts, and pursued the Wellman airship into the arctic Mr. Vaniman believes will at last be broken.

"And it is time that it was," he said, "for the recent history of motor-driven balloons is a sad one. Yet there is no reason why it should be so. The airship has its limitations in that it cannot be driven forth into any kind of weather. On the other hand, aeroplanes cannot carry much of anything with them when they do go forth. In this ship we could carry 4,000 tons of explosives on an all-day cruise, and we could sail 100 miles with a raiding party of seventy-five soldiers, all loaded down with fighting equipment or heavy machinery, ready to go into action immediately upon being landed at some critical point.

Guarding Against Accident.

To see that the bad luck of the last few years does not visit itself upon the America to plague its crew of six as it formerly plagued three of them in Spitzbergen, Mr. Vaniman has worked out a score of inventions which are part of the now perfected craft.

"The north pole balloon was a mere [illegible] compared to this," Mr. Wellman told a number of admiring friends, who watched the big craft swaying to and fro to-day while the Vaniman mechanics were testing the stress centres and working with infinite patience over the smallest details in adjustment.

"[illegible] if we do make her sail clear across from Azoff Landing," confided Mr. Vaniman, "believe me, I will never drop [illegible] the dirigible business as some aeroplane builders have been left."

The America, as it hangs in its sheds at [illegible] a mile south of here, is declared to be capable of carrying twice the net cargo of any other balloon ever constructed, the Zeppelin models, while [illegible] actually having less weight-lifting capacity on account of the enormous [illegible] of the many "balloonettes" encased in the outer shell.

One of the last bits of equipment attached by Mr. Vaniman to-night was a [illegible] tube connecting all six valves in the America and a pumping engine located between the two large motors on the [illegible] car.

Through this tube he hopes to govern the amount of gas in every one of the balloon's compartments while in transit across the ocean. Through tests made Mr. Vaniman learned that the loss [illegible] through diffusion with the air outside the envelope amounted to a lifting force of 400 pounds per day. Against this daily net loss he figures a loss of 1,200 pounds a day in the weight of gasoline and provisions used up. This gives him a safe daily margin of surplus gas to carry the required weight on the six to ten day trip which the voyagers expect to make in reaching Europe.

Attachments were completed to-day by which the navigating officer will be supplied with a special bridge station, a regular ship's weel, an electric lighted compass, and a swinging hammock in which to rest near his station, when the going is so easy that a less experienced man can take a turn at the wheel.

J. R. Irwin, the Marconi operator, also supplied a new idea to add to the chances for success. He devised a box kite with a copper wire as a flying cord and purchased a heliograph signal instrument for use in the lifeboat. In ordinary air sailing the steel cables attaching the airship's car to the gas bag will be charged with electricity to act as a receiving station for wireless messages.

Sure of the Wireless.

If the lifeboat is forced to take to the sea, Mr. Irwin will then have his box kite to fall back on the copper wire serving as a receiving station while he flashes out calls for help. Requiring an urgent, the heliograph which may be used with an electric light at night and the sunlight in day, will be a final resort if all goes wrong with the wireless. It is similar to the signal service in regular use aboard warships.

The cushions in the lifeboat, on which the crew will sleep, have been built of material so light that they will serve as life belts as well as beds, so that the chance of the Wellman crew to keep alive in case of trouble will be maintained to the last known device on the market.

Mr. Wellman said to-night that he would leave for Europe only when all conditions, including the weather, were perfect, and that he cared nothing for waiting days and even weeks to obtain such conditions. Too much hangs on the enterprise, he said, to take any chances of failure that it is in any way possible to avoid.

BRIGGS TO BE CHAIRMAN.

He Is Lewis's Choice to Succeed Franklin Murphy.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—It is settled that the political headquarters of Vivian M. Lewis, Republican candidate for Governor, will be in Trenton during the campaign. This week the State Committee will be called together. Franklin Murphy will resign and Frank O. Briggs will be named Chairman in his stead, Senator Briggs being the choice of Mr. Lewis.

Both Mr. Lewis and Dr. Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee, will be the guests of the Inter-State Fair Association next Thursday, and this promises to be the record day of the big fair.

KEPT WEDDING SECRET.

Alderman Files Belated Certificate of C. G. Moller's Marriage.

Alderman Joseph M. Hannon filed yesterday at the City Hall his return of a marriage performed by him on Aug. 25, in the office of the Marriage License Bureau, between Charles G. Moller, Sr., many times a millionaire, and son of the late Peter Moller, who at one time controlled the sugar refining business in the United States, and Mrs. Jane Brennan, a widow and tenant of one of Moller's houses. The marriage was kept a profound secret, and Mr. and Mrs. Moller succeeded in embarking on a wedding trip to Europe without the fact of their marriage becoming known. James Weldon and Patrick Paid, employed at the City Hall, were the witnesses of the marriage. The address of both parties, as recorded on the marriage license, is 290 Madison Avenue. His bride gave her age as 45 years, and Moller 65 years.

Charles G. Moller, Jr., only son of the veteran bridegroom, was in Europe with his family when the marriage took place. John Moller of Oyster Bay and Christopher Moller, another brother of the bridegroom, now abroad, did not attend the wedding, and are believed to have been ignorant of the fact that it was about to take place. A friend of the family said yesterday that he was certain Mr. Moller had not changed his will after the marriage, and that the new Mrs. Moller would receive only her dower interest in his estate if she should outlive him.

Mr. and Mrs. Moller are expected to return home early next month, according to the housekeeper at the Madison Avenue address. She said also that Mr. Moller's son and his wife were expected as well. Mr. Moller, the elder, is described as a man of retiring disposition, who had no intention of using his great wealth to achieve social position. His first wife died a year ago last February. Since that time, his friends said yesterday, he has not been in the best of health.

The younger Mr. Moller has a town house at 54 East Fifty-fifth Street and a country home at Bayside, L. I. The elder Mr. Moller has spent much of his time at his son's country seat and is said to be very fond of his two grandchildren, a boy and a girl. The younger Mr. Moller inherited a large fortune from his mother. His stepmother has no living children.

The estate of Peter Moller was divided among his four sons, one of whom was Peter Moller, Jr., who has since died, leaving a widow and two sons and a daughter, all now in Europe. All the Moller brothers retired from business several years ago. Peter Moller, Sr., was one of the pioneer sugar men of the United States. Of thrifty German stock, he carefully guarded his means and in time amassed an enormous fortune. The period when the name of Moller was a great one in the sugar refining business was before the days of the great corporations.

The new Mrs. Moller was born in Birmingham, England, according to information on the application for a marriage license.

WOULD DIVORCE DR. GETMAN.

Mrs. Getman Allowed Counsel Fee and $10 a Week.

Dr. Volkert L. Getman of Gloversville, N. Y., is being sued in the Queens County Supreme Court for separation by his wife, Mrs. Mary W. Getman of Brooklyn, and yesterday Justice Jaycox granted Mrs. Getman $50 counsel fees and $10 a week until the trial.

Mrs. Getman charges cruel and inhuman treatment, and in her affidavit sets forth that she was married to the defendant in Brooklyn on Oct. 12, 1897, when he worked as a compositor on a Brooklyn paper. She was employed as a stenographer and was earning $18 a week. They went to live with her father, James H. Walling, of Brooklyn. Her husband studied medicine and obtained a diploma from the Homeopathic Medical College of New York.

Following his graduation they went to Oneonta, N. Y., where he soon gained a practice, but owing to his treatment she was forced to return to her home.

In his answer denying his wife's allegations Dr. Getman says that she caused him to lose his practice in Oneonta.

DINE BISHOP WORDSWORTH.

New Yorkers Entertain English Prelate at the University Club.

The Right Rev. John Wordsworth, D. D., Lord Bishop of Salisbury, was the guest of honor at a private dinner given by a number of New York men at the University Club last night. Francis Lynde Stetson presided, with the Lord Bishop on his right and Bishop Courtney on his left. Judge Alton B. Parker sat on the opposite side of the table between Archdeacon Nelson and the Rev. Dr. Manning, rector of Trinity Church.

J. Pierpont Morgan was down as one of the hosts, but he did not attend the dinner. George MacCulloch Miller, who was also down as one of the hosts, was also unable to attend owing to the illness of Mrs. Miller.

The hosts present were: William Edmond Curtis, J. Lawrence Aspinwall, Stephen Baker, Edmund L. Baylis, John E. Berwind, John H. Cole, R. Fulton Cutting, Julien T. Davies, James May Duane, Robert L. Harrison, Henry L. Hobart, Robert G. Hone, Francis C. Huntington, Charles R. Lamb, Charles Lanier, Henry Lewis Morris, Henry W. Monroe, Ambrose S. Murray, Jr., Thomas Nash, William Barclay Parsons, H. H. Pike, Lawson Purdy, Charles Howland Russell, Samuel Thorne, Jr., John Howard Van Amringe, Frank T. Warburton, Everett P. Wheeler, Andrew C. Seabriskie, and George Seabriskie.

TENOR DIES IN CHURCH.

Just after the Rev. Dr. Charles Herold of the Grace Gospel Church, Bainbridge Street, near Howard Avenue, Brooklyn, had asked Clarence V. Bailly of 217 Hopkinson Street, tenor of the choir, to repeat a hymn he had sung at the rehearsal of the choir last night, the tenor was seen to grow pale and reel forward. His brother, Ernest, rushed up in time to catch him in his arms.

He was carried unconscious to a pew, and a call was sent to the Bushwick Hospital. When the ambulance surgeon arrived he found the pastor and members of the choir praying around the unconscious form. A glance told him that it was too late for medical help. Bailly died a few minutes later. He had been suffering from heart disease for some time.

WILD MAN IN WOODS VANISHED WITH BOY

Three Lads Fled from Him and When Two Stopped, Breathless, Third Was Nowhere About.

FATHER SOUGHT SON MONTHS

Country Beaten for Miles Around Kane, Penn., for Missing Lad—Now Appeals to New York Police.

Frantic and in despair after a five months' search for his 9-year-old son Edward, who was kidnapped by a wild-looking man from companions in the woods near Kane, Penn., Charles Adams, foreman of the United Natural Gas Company there, came to this city last evening and begged the police at Headquarters to send out a general alarm for the missing boy. The little fellow, who is an only son, has been missing since April 16.

With three companions of his own age, the boy went to a pond in the woods about a mile and a half from his house to fish. On the other side of the pond sat a group of older boys fishing. One of the larger boys, seeing the little fellows across the stream, announced to his comrades that he was going over to frighten them. He drew his line out of the water and walked around the pond to where the youngsters sat.

"Here, you fellows," he said. "You haven't any right to fish here without a permit. These grounds is preserves. My daddy's the Fish and Game Warden here and he'll arrest you if you don't move away."

"We're not scared," the little fellows said, and continued fishing. On his way back the older boy skirted outside the thick bushes that fringed the pond.

In a clump of bushes he saw hidden a wild, rough-looking, ragged man. He stopped short. The rough-looking man leered at him for a moment, then cursing he rushed at him with a cry. The boy turned and fled back to where he had left the little fellows:

"There's a wild man in the woods! Quick! Follow me! Here he comes!" he shouted as he rushed past. They were not quick to move, this boy having tried to scare them before.

From the woods near by they soon heard mutterings of the wild man. Then they dropped their lines and ran screaming with all their might.

How far they ran they did not know. They only knew that the wild man was following with angry curses close behind.

The woods grew thicker and more tangled, but still they stumbled on. Sometimes one of the smaller boys would slip and cry that the wild man was upon him. Then the older boy would stop for a moment and lift him to his feet, holding him by the hand as he ran.

Stopping for a moment to take breath, the big boy and one of the little boys he had been helping discovered that Eddie Adams was not with them. He had been a few minutes before. The woods were very still now. They listened in vain for a sound. Their pursuer and their companion seemed to have disappeared together.

After a while the boys moved cautiously through the woods the way they had come.

"E. P.! E. P.!" they whispered, peering behind every bush and mound or fallen tree. But there was no answer.

They reached the open again, but still there was no one in sight. They shouted now with all their strength:

"Eddie! Eddie!"

But only the dark wood answered them.

They found their way back to the main path and ran along it, even as far as the pond. There was no trace of Eddie. Then they ran back to Kane and told Eddie's father and mother what had happened.

The father got a company of more than a hundred neighbors together to scour the woods. The mother and many other women joined them.

All day they thrashed the woods, near and far, the boys running ahead and pointing out the way they had gone and where they had last seen the wild-looking man. But the hunting party of men had no better success than the boys had had before them.

At last the large party split up into smaller ones, each undertaking to search a certain part of the woods. All day they groped through the woods, peering behind every bush and mound and large tree. Night came while they were still in the midst of their search. They were forced to return home, agreeing to search again on the following day.

Both that day and on the following the search continued from morning till night, but still there was no trace either of the missing boy or the rough man who had pursued him.

The United Natural Gas Company, of which Mr. Adams is foreman, has many logging camps scattered through the woods around Kane. All the lumbermen were instructed to institute a search. There are no caves or deep-water streams or ponds in the woods wherein the boy could be hidden or thrown, but the father, fearing that his boy had been murdered and his body buried in some distant part of the wood, asked that a strict watch be kept for fresh diggings in the soil. Daily the lumbermen at their work paused to glance at every stranger that passed. Whenever a buzzard or crow alighted after soaring over some spot where carrion lay, they would hurry there, thinking to find a murdered body or shallow grave.

Taking faint hope only from the fact that no one had found a murdered body or a grave in the woods, determined to continue the search far from Kane, he engaged the Pinkerton Detective Agency to hunt for the boy in every town and city, and he sent a photograph of Eddie, together with a description, to every police chief and constable in the State. He himself, answering various telegrams that told of the detention of suspects in different cities, traveled as far west as St. Louis. But he always returned alone.

For a time it was suspected that perhaps the little fellow had fallen into the pond or met with an accident among or at the hands of his young companions. But a rigid examination of all the boys by ministers and Judges of Kane and near-by towns, failed to bring out a single point of disagreement in the stories told by the boys.

On the same day as that of the Adams boy's disappearance, another boy, Michael Steffins, 6 years old, disappeared from his home in Ludlow, Penn., twelve miles from Kane. No word has been heard from him or his captor since. For a long time, however, the detectives worked on the theory that the two boys were kidnapped by two men working as confederates.

"Edward P. Adams, 9½ years of age, son of Charles Adams. Disappeared from his home, at Kane, Pa., on April 16. The supposition is that he has been kidnapped. He is a boy of medium height for his age, with dark hair, dark eyes, and brown full face.

"There is a seed wart on the knuckle of his left index finger. He writes with his left hand. The boy is very shy and of a retiring disposition. He answers to the name 'E. P.,' his initials, rather than to his full name, Edward P. Adams."

Mr. Adams said he would remain in the city a few days to await possible results of his appeal to the police. His wife, he said, is at home, awaiting the outcome of their last hope. She has never recovered from the effects of the shock and the suspense of the long, fruitless search.

THIRD WIFE KILLS HERSELF.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Margaretta M. Ruoff, who was married to Frederick H. Ruoff on Sept. 7, committed suicide to-day at their home, 822 Hope Street, by inhaling illuminating gas.

She was Ruoff's third wife. Several years ago his first wife left him and went to New York, taking one of their three children with her. A little over a year ago his second wife killed herself and their year-old baby girl by inhaling gas. That tragedy took place at 818 Hope Street, a couple of doors from the new house where to-day the third wife took her life.

When Ruoff, who is in the tobacco business, returned home from work at noon to-day he had to force his way in through a window. He found his wife unconscious in the pantry. She was dead when Dr. Arthur G. Randall arrived.

Less than three years ago Ruoff's father, Jacob Ruoff, a well-known and eccentric barber of this town, committed suicide by shooting.

As was the case with the second wife, no motive is known for the suicide of to-day. It was stated at the Ruoff home to-night that five days before she was married Mrs. Ruoff fell the whole length of a flight of stairs, and it is said she may have suffered a brain injury at that time. A note she left for her husband read: "Forgive me, Fred, dear, but I can't help it."

THREE FIRES IN ONE HOUSE.

Hoboken Firemen, After Putting Them Out, Became Suspicious—Woman Held

A fire alarm at 6:10 o'clock last night sent firemen to the two-story frame house 141 Monroe Street, Hoboken. They found a pile of burning rubbish in the lower hall, put out the flames, and departed. There are twelve families in the house, which is one of many frame buildings, and all teem with children.

Forty minutes later the firemen were hurrying again to the same house. They found and extinguished some burning rubbish in the upper hall, and again went away. They had hardly reached their station when another alarm called them to the house for a third time. By this time Fire Chief Dunn was suspicious and angry.

The firemen entered the four rooms on the second floor occupied by Dominic Del Preimpo, his wife Victoria, and their four children. There was a lot of burning rubbish under the sofa, and a lighted kerosene lamp under the bed in one of the rooms. The firemen extinguished the flames a third time.

Then they looked for Mrs. Del Preimpo, whom they found sitting on the front stoop. She was arrested and her children were sent to the Children's Society. Questioned by an Italian detective, she denied setting fire to her home or trying to burn up her own children.

Subway Tie-Up Blocks B. R. T. Cars.

As a result of a tie-up in the Subway yesterday morning traffic on the B. R. T. trolley and elevated lines of Brooklyn became congested. The Atlantic Avenue and Borough Hall Subway stations were crowded with passengers, and when the ticket agents stopped selling tickets there was a scramble to get to Manhattan by other means.

Every trolley car and elevated train was jammed until the Subway service was started again.

CHINESE HERE TO SEE JAILS.

Shih Ying Hsu and Wen Chwang Loh Also to Attend Prison Conference.

Shih Ying Hsu, Justice of the High Court of Mukden, and Wen Chwang Loh, Secretary of the Ministry of Justice, Peking, delegates to the International Prison Conference, to be held early next month in Washington, arrived yesterday on the Hamburg-American liner Kaiserin Auguste Victoria. On their way here they visited England, where they studied the method of administering justice and the prison system there. Mr. Loh speaks English.

"We expect to contradict some of the popular impressions here regarding Chinese methods of punishment," said Mr. Loh. "Americans have heard so much of the wooden cellars, the bowstrings, and the like that you have the idea that Chinese methods of treating prisoners are inhuman.

"We will learn much here. We are anxious to visit Sing Sing, and we hope to obtain permission to witness an execution by electricity. In China the headsman with his sword carries out the death sentence. The office of headsman is an ancient one, and it may be difficult to bring about a change in the method."

The Chinese Justice and his fellow-delegate won the ship's pool of $325 on Wednesday. Their tips to the stewards were lavish.

SLAIN FOR HIS WAGES.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 26.—Francisco Laghi, 22 years old, was murderously attacked at Fourth Street and Watchung Avenue, in the heart of the business section, last night by Baptiste Antonizzi, 24 years old, and died in Muhlenberg Hospital early to-day. The murderer was caught at his home half an hour after the deed was committed, and, the police say, admitted the crime.

According to an ante-mortem statement made by Laghi, Antonizzi had frequently compelled him to give up his wages under threats of violence, and he had lived in fear that if he refused he would be killed. Early yesterday Antonizzi, he said, called on him and demanded money, but Laghi put him off, saying that he would get some. Last night, according to his story told to Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Hetfield at the hospital, Antonizzi met him in Watchung Avenue, and, on his refusal to give up his earnings, knocked him down twice. Laghi said he got up and fled, but Antonizzi pursued him, and when they reached Fourth Street and Watchung Avenue, told his victim he would have either his money or his life. Antonizzi then pulled out a dirk and slashed Laghi repeatedly across the abdomen.
